Bradford County Princess To Represent Pennsylvania's Dairy Industry

LOU ANN GOOD

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Poise, knowledge of the dairy industry, and speaking ability characterized the 37 county dairy princesses that vied for the state title on September 21.

These qualities also were evident 35 years ago, when the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Program held its first contest in 1956 when Susan Coskery Taylor was crowned the Pennsylvania Milk Maid Queen.

As a sparkling tribute to the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Program, the annual coronation of the state dairy princess was highlighted by the 35th anniversary celebration at the Penn Harris Inn and Convention Center in Camp Hill. Many former dairy princesses participated in the evening's festivities.

After two days of judging, the Bradford County Princess was selected from 37 contestants who promote the dairy industry in their respective counties.

Newly crowned Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Robin Marie Wilbur describes herself as "a good old country girl who wants to make milk the patriotic drink."

The 17-year-old princess will be assisted in promotional duties by Tanya Martin representing Bucks and Montgomery Counties who was named first alternate, and by Onalee Smith from Mercer County, the second alternate.

In addition to the three chosen to represent the state, the four other finalists included Billie Jo Hoover, Huntingdon County; Karen Lentz, Lebanon County; Vicki Stahl, Somerset County; and Penny Jordan, York County.

The seven finalists announced during banquet ceremonies were then required to answer an impromotu question that reveals poise and ability under pressure.

The question: What advice would you give parents to help them raise teenagers?

Robin answered, I think they should spend more time with their children. For me growing up on the farm, my parents were always there for me. My dad was always in the barn when I came home from school. Many times nowadays parents are off to work and no one is home when the kids get there. I was one of the lucky ones, as are many of the ones here, for I live on a farm and my parents are always there for me."

Record Entries In Junior Dairy Show

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Heavy participation marked the 36th Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show Monday at the state Farm Show complex.

According to officials, there were one thousand animals entered — a record number — although only 880 actually paraded through the show ring.

For the youth whose eligible to participate, the competition is the culmination of months and even years of working with dairy cattle. The show is designed to recognize the efforts of the state's dairy youth through the quality of the female dairy cattle they show, care for and in many cases breed.

Sponsored, organized and run by the Pennsylvania State University Extension Service, the show and those leading up to it is for 4-H or FFA dairy members whose dairy cattle earned blue ribbons through local and district competitions, advancing them and their

Poultry, Egg Producers Should Consider Growing European Community, Too

Business Must Play Smarter, Work Harder In New Soviet Market

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — There's unbridled economic opportunity for all business, including the poultry and egg businesses, in the changing European and Soviet economies.

That's the distinct message taken home Wednesday to those who attended the Northeast Poultry and Egg Trade Show and Conference at mid-week.

But while the Soviet Union continues its political disintegration from communism, so to does its economy, which could provide some tough going for American business.

"The country is really being created afresh," said John Dancy, NBC News Senate correspondent, who spoke about his recent trip with U.S.Secretary of State James Baker to the Soviet Union to about 125 people attending the morning session.

Baker met with several key representatives of the various states now forming in the union. Baker also took a 3,000-mile trek from the European Soviet Union deep into the heart of Kazakhstan. There, Baker met with leaders who are trying to cement a deal with Chevron Oil to help the Soviets use the vast oil resources near the Caspian Sea.

"But the people who are there and who are trying to do this, by and large, simply to not know how to do it," said Dancy. "The things that we all take for granted about the American system and the American way of doing business — that all of you know from your own professional experience — just the simple idea that one goes to a bank and borrows money to finance next year's crop, or new development, or expansion of your business, that you can go to a bank and borrow more, that's unheard of in the Soviet Union. That system simply does not exist."

Dancy said the many years of putting up with the Soviet system kept them from understanding the complexities of capitalism. The country never experienced an Industrial Revolution as the United States and Great Britain did — the Soviets went right from a feudal state to communism.

Disaster Assistance A Mixed Bag

KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON D.C. — There may not be a whole lot of government help out there for farmers hard hit by this year's selective drought, but much of what there is will be available to area livestock growers, particularly dairymen, according to area Extension agents, farm economists and others.

As in past drought years, the most widely used assistance program is expected to be one in which farmers receive cash payments for a portion of their extra feed costs in the coming winter.

Other assistance measures — such as low-interest loans from the Farmers Home Administration

National Egg Market

Sept. 24, 1991

Prices for white shell eggs were unchanged, brown shell medium eggs trended higher in New England. The trade sentiment was generally steady, but increased cautiousness showed in the New York area. Demand for cartoned eggs was fair to good with the best movement in areas where features are in progress or planned. Supplies were generally adequate for the trade with jumbo eggs short in the Detroit area and mediums adequate to ample in Southern California. The trade sentiment for breaking stock was at least steady, trading was light, supplies were adequate, and prices for nest run stock trended unchanged to higher.

WHEAT PRICES DECLINED; CORN AND BEANS SLIGHTLY HIGHER TUESDAY. WHEAT 1 TO 2 CENTS LOWER. CORN STEADY TO 2 CENTS HIGHER. SORGHUM 1 TO 4 CENTS LOWER. SOYBEANS STEADY TO 3 CENTS HIGHER. WHEAT PRICES SLIGHTLY LOWER, PRESSURED BY GOOD GROWING CONDITIONS IN HARD RED WINTER WHEAT AREAS. VERY GOOD EXPORT DEMAND FROM EGYPT THIS WEEK AND LAST WEEK, UNDERPINNED WEAKNESS IN WHEAT PRICES. CORN PRICES SLIGHTLY HIGHER STRENGTHENED BY IDEAS U.S. WILL OFFER MORE EXPORT CREDITS TO SOVIET UNION. REPORTS INDICATE AID TO USSR WILL LIKELY BE CREDITS RATHER THAN DONATIONS. FORECAST FOR RAIN THIS WEEK PUSHED CORN PRICES HIGHER ON CONCERNS OVER HARVEST DELAYS. SOYBEAN PRICES FINISHED STEADY TO SLIGHTLY HIGHER DUE TO IMPROVED EXPORT INTEREST AND HOPES FOR ADDITIONAL CREDIT AID TO U.S.S.R.

EXPORT NEWS: EGYPT BOUGHT 100,000 TONNES NORTHERN/DARK NORTHERN SPRING WHEAT UNDER EXPORT BONUS FOR OCTOBER SHIPMENT. THE CCC ANNOUNCED THE PURCHASE OF 2.071 MILLION POUNDS OF BULK PBSY COTTONSEED OIL FOR USE AS A BONUS, UNDER THE COTTONSEED OIL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM FOR OCTOBER.

You'll Get Consistent, Risk-Free Performance From New Funk's G® Brand Hybrids

4393 105 Days
4472 110 Days
4530 113 Days
4624 118 Days

New Funk's G brand hybrids deliver consistent performance even under the stress of heat, drought, marginal soils or disease pressures. So you'll get virtually risk-free performance in good years — and in bad years.

Backed by CIBA-GEIGY research

You see, these hybrids are backed by nine years of CIBA-GEIGY Seed Division research. With local testing in growing conditions just like yours. That kind of research produces hybrids capable of standing up to anything mother nature has to offer. Hybrids that maximize your profit potential, while minimizing your risks.

Get complete performance

Plus, you get performance across the board. With big yields. But with 95% or better standability... 25% or less moisture... and intactness ratings under four. And you get all that in the maturity groups you need to spread your risks even more.

Limit your risks

Get risk-free performance on your farm today by calling Hoffman Seeds, Inc. You'll enjoy the peace of mind that comes from planting these new Funk's G brand hybrids.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

Unicorn Questing Season begins, Oct. 1.

Sept 30, 1846, Dr William Morton becomes the first person to successfully use ether as an anesthetic (for tooth extraction) Oct 1, 1896, the first Rural Free Delivery of mail begins in the U S with three designated routes in West Virginia Oct 4, 1535, printing is complete on the first English language Bible Oct 6, 1783, Benjamin Hanks of Litchfield, Conn , patents the first self-winding clock

Genius is one per cent inspiration and ninety-nine percent perspiration — Thomas Edison

Ask the Old Farmer: Do you consider some of the weather superstitions infallible? G U , Calif

Some are pretty nigh! Whichever direction the cat faces at night when he washes his face is liable to be the next day's wind direction, for instance

Home Hints: Charcoal at the bottom of a potted plant will keep the soil sweet

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Clear and warm with Indian summer-like weather Clouds roll in on the weekend, bringing rain and cooler, more seasonable, temperatures

Greater New York-New Jersey: Cool temperatures and clear skies for the first half of the week Then warmer weather and showers are on tap to end the week

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Clear and warm through midweek, then rainy weather takes over for the rest of the week Cloudy and cold on Sunday

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Rainy and cool as the new week and the new month get underway Cloudy skies and more seasonable temperatures on the weekend

Proper lime application can increase your dry weather yield

You can't control the weather, but you can increase your dry weather yield by controlling soil fertility with proper lime application. Fall and early winter lime application corrects soil pH, restores vital nutrients, and makes your fertilizer more effective in preparation for spring planting.

OPINION

A Reassuring Presence

In a country awash in fads and technological changes of every kind that frequently die before they ever are accepted, there is one constant and reassuring presence in our society.

American agriculture is an industry as old as our country and one of the most productive in the world. This industry of 20 million piople is more than tradition. It is a key element of our economy and something we can never take for granted. Yet during these days of anti-farm campaigns, some of us have forgotten about the importance of agriculture in our daily lives.

We've forgotten the average American farmer now produces food and fiber for 128 other people, both here and overseas. We've forgotten that American agriculture is one of the world's largest commercial industries. And, we've forgotton that we spend less than 10 percent, on the average, of our disposable income on food, compared with as much as 60 to 70 percent in some other countries.

In short, our society has forgotten that U.S. agriculture is a gem of productivity, unparalleled for its quality, safety, abundance and price.

Sure, agriculture isn't perfect, but it is working every day to improve its products and practices. It is continuing to research products that will provide an even more healthful, safer and affordable food supply. It is continuing to discover new, environmentally sound production practices. And, it will continue to feed a population that is growing dramatically every year.

A picture of American agriculture today shows a productive and stable industry continuing to evolve. A picture of the industry 20 years from now shows agriculture much the same and better. Given its established and successful track record, should we have any doubts?

NOW IS THE TIME

To Learn About Constructed Wetlands

On Tuesday, October 8, Dr. Donald Hammer of the Tennessee Valley Authority will be discussing constructed wetlands as a method to dispose of animal wastes. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster.

Constructed wetlands are designed and built similar to natural wetlands to treat wastewater. They consist of a shallow depression in the ground with a level bottom. The flow is controlled in constructed wetlands so the water is spread evenly among the wetland plants. Controlling the flow allows natural processes to occur and clean the wastewater more efficiently. Constructed wetlands may be an alternative for farmers with lagoons.

Hammer is one of the world's leading authorities on constructed wetlands. He has conducted a lot of research in this area and has written and lectured extensively on the subject. Plan now to attend this important meeting on a possible alternative for handling livestock wastewater.

To Consider Hospital Pen Management

Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent, reminds us the hospital area of your feedlot may be as important to cattle recovery as your diagnosis and treatment program.

A good hospital facility should provide shelter and convenient access to feed and water. The pens should be uncrowed and easily accessible from the treatment chute. Proper sanitation of treatment equipment, pens, water troughs, feed bunks, and hay racks will prevent unnecessary infection and give your cattle a better chance of recovery.

By penning according to disease problems and cleaning waterers daily, you reduce the likelihood of creating additional infection. Cattle in your hospital facility should receive good quality hay free choice and a nutrient and energy dense feed ration.

To Keep Cows Bred

One of the key areas of profitability in livestock is having animals bred at the right time. Each month an animal is open is costing you income in the future. This is especially true for dairy cows.

It is estimated each missed heat period will cost the dairy farmer about $100. You should be focusing on getting cows bred. Feed cows properly to keep them in good flesh. Keep cows healthy and free of uterine infections. Maintain heat expectancy charts and observe heat diligently.

Use proper inseminating techniques and check cows for pregnancy. Taking time each day to manage your breeding program will help you increase your income.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GOOD TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Background Scripture: Acts 15:1-35.

Devotional Reading: Galatians 5:25-6:10.

Because Paul fails to mention the Jerusalem conference in his epistles, there are those who question if it ever occurred. That question is beyond my competence, but I can say that if it took place along the lines Luke describes, this even could well serve as a model for handling conflicts in the church.

There was a time when I thought that there should be no conflicts in the church. I have come to realize that that is unrealistic. As we reminded ourselves in our examination of Acts 14, we are all human beings, not gods, nor God. So long as we are human we will sin and there will be conflicts among us.

HANDLING CONFLICTS

The key, then, is not whether there will be conflicts in the church, but whether we are Christian enough to resolve those conflicts when they occur. Christians will stumble and fall, but they will also get up and walk again. Unfortunately, in too many churches, people forget to get up after they have fallen.

Although the conflict that concerned Antioch is not something that would concern us today, we can understand why it was so troubling to them. Did Gentile converts first have to become Jews? There were Jewish Christians from Judea who were coming to Antioch and telling the converts that this was essential.

They could have had a real knock-down, drag-out battle over this, splitting the church between two groups who decide to go their own way. That's what happens so often today. A large church in our neighborhood recently lost 2,000 members over such a dispute.

LISTENING CAREFULLY

But note how the people of Antioch and the leaders in Jerusalem handled this. First, the church at Antioch sent Paul and Barnabas to Jerusalem to present the matter. The leadership listened carefully to these men: "The apostles and the elders were gathered together to consider this matter" (15:6). After prayerful consideration, they worked out a compromise. Then they wrote a letter to be personally delivered to the Antioch church, saying "For it has seemed good to the Holy Spirit and us to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things..." (15:28).

When Christians can seek first the Holy Spirit and then compromise as they did, conflicts can be healed.

Farm Credit Bankers Have Long Been Recognized For Achievements In The Field.

Farm Credit bankers possess their share of prestigious achievement awards. But more often than not, the awards they're most proud of are the ones they've earned in, say, conservation, dairy, or veterinary science.

Not many bankers can say that.

That's because most Farm Credit loan officers were born and raised on farms. They grew up active in 4-H and FFA. Many even got their college degrees from ag schools.

What's more, every one of our loan officers goes through the toughest ag lending training program in America.

And because our loan officers understand farming as well as financing, they're not only smarter. They're faster. In fact, they have the power of loan approval equal to most bank presidents.

So stop by soon and talk with your nearby Farm Credit loan officer. Because whenever you need some extra help in your field, you'll want to work with the banker most accomplished in his.

RENAISSANCE

WE'VE GOT EVERYTHING WE NEED TO PUT YOUR REPLACEMENT HEIFERS IN THE MILK LINE AT 24 MONTHS.

- Bovatec (lasalocid)-fed replacement heifers reach breeding weight sooner, because of improved growth rate.
- Bovatec-fed replacement heifers are in the right condition for calving at less cost.
- Bovatec is the only Ionophore approved for coccidiosis control in cattle up to 800 lbs. body weight.
- The improved growth rate Bovatec offers also means more profit feeding dairy beef.
- There's no body weight restriction with Bovatec.
- Bovatec is palatable and safe.

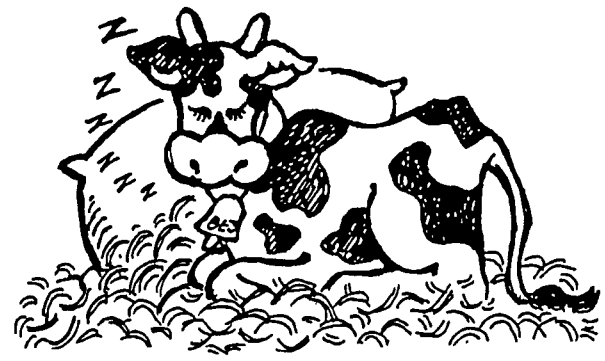
"BEST IN BEDDING"



Your Livestock will ♥ YOU . . .

IT'S THE BEST BECAUSE

- 1/2 the cost (average herd may save thousands) per year.
- Animals stay cleaner - lower bacterial count reducing incidence of mastitis
- Dissolves without blockage in liquid manure systems
- Extended coverage
- Easy management
- Environmentally ethical (no heavy metals/toxicity beyond straw).
- Greater absorbency than straw — reducing odor
- The choice of AG/VET school & environmentalists

Eastern National Holstein Sale Totals $271,000

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Buyers at the Eastern National Holstein Sale held Wednesday at the Pennsylvania Farm Show complex paid an average of $5,416 per animal for the 50 animals put on the sale block.

The annual sale, representing some of the top pedigreed Holsteins along the East Coast, and some elsewhere, not only serves as a venue for trading top breeding stock, but also provides a guage for local breeders by which to set their prices on private sales.

Although a list of buyers was not available by presstime, officials who organized the sale — William Nichol with the Pennsylvania Holstein Association and David Rama with The Cattle Exchange — said the animals sold went to buyers representing at least 10 states and Canada.

Consignments came from 15 states including New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Virginia, Connecticut, New Mexico, Michigan, Maryland, Massachusetts, Illinois, Indiana, North Carolina, Minnesota, California, and Maine.

The top selling animal sold for $29,000. It was the third animal offered for sale and was consigned by Dennis Yousey, of Cazenovia, N.Y. Born Jan. 28, 1990, "Conant-Acres BS Silver-ET," is a Blackstar daughter of Conant-Acres-JY Sweetness-ET, a Very Good 89 at 3 years and a 2-year-old, 365-day

Allison Becomes Ag Banking Specialist

POTTSVILLE (Schuylkill Co.) — James J. Corrigan, senior vice president of Pennsylvania National Bank, has announced the appointment of Timothy J. Allison to agricultural banking specialist. Allison is responsible for developing banking relationships within the agricultural farming community.

A graduate of Blue Mountain High School, Schuylkill Haven, Pa., Allison earned a bachelor's degree in animal science from Penn State University, where he is a member of Delta Theta Sigma agricultural fraternity. In addition, he is a graduate of the American Bankers Association's National School of Credit Card Management and has completed numerous courses offered through the American Institute of Banking.

After graduation from high school, Allison worked for agronomy department at Penn State University until he joined Pennsylvania National Bank in April, 1972, in the bank's management training program. Since then, he has held various management positions within the bank's community office network. In March 1988 he was promoted to bankcard administrative officer, the position he has held until his recent appointment.

Allison serves as treasurer for the Schuylkill County Fair Association and the Foundation for Agricultural and Resource Management. Cow Comfort And A.I. Get Results

GEORGE F. W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — No one would argue that in our region this year temperatures became hotter sooner and to a higher degree than in previous years.

This situation immediately suggests possible trouble in getting our dairy cows bred, which is a source of continual concern for the dairy farmer.

As soon as temperatures go above 80 degrees Fahrenheit, our cows, especially Holsteins, are out of their physiological comfort zone. To counteract this, cows try to adjust metabolically, usually by reducing the activities of estrus, eating and milk production.

One result is that conception rate is lower than it should be.

Studies in Florida as well as here in Delaware have shown that directly hosing down cows' bodies with water and then blowing air generated by fans over their backs to evaporate the water is an effective way to cool them down.

Under these conditions, normal conception rates, body temperatures, eating and milk production are soon restored to normal.

Automatic sprinkler systems, the kind usually used on lawns and fields, turned upside down and fastened to the rafters of the cow barn keep cows wet and cool. This innovation works very well.

Casualties in Delmarva broiler houses are not uncommon on very hot days, but dairy cow managers seem to know how to control the overheating problem for their animals.

Another approach to better conception rates has been to bring in a natural service bull as a supplement to or substitute for A.I.

The thinking on this is that a bull is a much better spotter of estrus in cows than even the best and most conscientious herdsperson.

This practice is not uncommon in the South, where temperatures are often much higher than they are here.

What then are the results?

Research work in Georgia reveals some interesting data. Two groups of dairy herds from the Georgia DHIA were compared. The first group bred 90 percent or more of their cows to a natural service bull.

The second group used A.I. on 90 percent or more of their cows.

If the assumption is correct that bulls are better settlers of cows than A.I. because they are better estrus spotters, then one would expect superior reproductive data in herds using natural service bulls.

The 62 Georgia DHIA herds using mostly bulls averaged 154 "days open," 70 "days dry" and 14.3 "months calving interval."

In comparison, the 122 Georgia DHIA herds using mostly A.I. averaged 146 "days open," 70 "days dry" and 14.0 "months calving interval."

Few differences were in evidence, but if any differences did exist, they favored A.I.

The real differences in this study surfaced in milk production.

The herds on which A.I. was predominantly used averaged 16,832 pounds milk and 587 pounds fat versus 14,139 pounds milk and 501 pounds fat for the natural service herds.

At $12 per hundredweight of milk, this 2,693 pounds milk advantage translates into a plus of $323.16 per cow per year for the A.I. herds.

Many factors may be at work here.

To explain more fully these variations, however, the bottom line is that dairy farmers who used bulls instead of A.I. to breed their cows did not achieve better reproductive performance in their herds to justify this seemingly physiological advantage for the price of a genetic disadvantage.

They may even have had an inferior reproductive performance, not to mention the headache of keeping a bull around. And they certainly had inferior herd milk production at a money differential that could even have paid for some very expensive A.I. semen.

This brings us back to the strategy of keeping our cows watered down and fan cooled to lower body temperature, which ensures their eating well and producing milk better.

In the end, it is a question of how we manage the energy metabolism of our cows.

If cows need energy to keep themselves cool, then they will breed and produce less.

Following this same line of thinking, we are beginning to feed our cows better during the first part of the lactation, a period dairy managers used to take for granted that a cow would be in negative energy balance. With today's high-producing cows, we cannot afford to let them be in negative energy balance.

Using what we know and putting these new ideas into action can make our dairy operations significantly more profitable, even without going back to using bulls.

THAT CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON!

NCGA CHAMPIONS
HYTEST SEEDS has announced its 1990 winners in the National Corn Growers Association Yield Contest.

James C. Justice, Beckley, WV was named National Champion, Class A, non-irrigated div. with a yield of 228.6753 bushels per acre using HYTEST HT686.

Joe Hasbrouck Jr., Kingston, NY was named New York State Champion, Class A, non-irrigated div., with a yield of 202.7297 bushels per acre using HYTEST HT65OA.

PROVEN PERFORMANCE
HYTEST with 9 state winners in 1990, has placed in the top four nationally for 4 years. It's a record of performance that many large seed companies envy.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT
A regional farm seed company, established in 1912, HYTEST employs the same careful breeding, testing and selection process that went into producing these champion hybrids, into all of its varieties. And they're all potential champions!

HYBRID SELECTION
HYTEST Territory Managers and Regional Agronomists are trained to select the best variety for your particular growing conditions. They follow up with technical assistance right through harvest time.

PRESIDENTS CHOICE
Each season HYTEST President, Joe Butwin selects a list of favorite varieties after reviewing test plots, demonstration plots and numerous growers' fields. Both old standbys and choice experimentals are often included.

THE 1991 CHOICES ARE:

YOUR CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON
Winning championships is great, but more important for you is producing the highest grain and forage yield in the most cost efficient manner. HYTEST hybrid corn seed allows you to do just that! It's been proven season-after-season!

For high performance Hybrid Corn, Alfalfas, Soybeans and Forage Seed contact your local HYTEST dealer or contact...

At harvest time be sure to use BIOTAL Silage Inoculant for silage or BIO-STORE for grain to reduce spoilage and nutrient loss.

production record of 24,670 pounds of milk, 4.6 percent butterfat and 3.8 percent protein.

Silver's lineage is based on Valiant, Elevation and Chief. Her dam, Sweetness has two full sisters which classified Excellent, two maternal sisters classified as Excellent and two classified as Very Good, all with fat records exceeding 1,000 pounds.

The second highest animal sold was the first offered during the sale, consigned by E. James McMath II, of Mt. Union, Pa., went for $25,000. Born August 1988, Bardale Cleitus Julie-ET recently classified as a Very Good 85. She is the Cleitus daughter of Jim-Slocums Bardale Jody, which classified Excellent 91, 2E and had a 353-day lactation record of 25,683 pounds of milk at 4.3 percent fat. That lactation was started when she was 2-years, 8-months old.

The third highest selling animal was consigned by the Plushanski Farms, of Kutztown, Pa. and brought $17,500. Plushanski M Fright-ET, born June 1990, is a Michael daughter out of Plushanski Ned Boy Fidelia-ET, classified as Very Good 88 points as a 4-year-old, with a record as a 2-year-old, on a 365-day lactation of 27,802 pounds of milk, 5.0 percent fat and 3.6 percent protein.

The 47 other cattle, presented or promised, sold for $10,000 or less and averaged $4,240.43.

According to Nichol, "It was a great sale with a lot of interest from Canada and a number of states. I'm real pleased with everything."

Nichol said he and others began seeking out cattle consignments in May for the sale. He said that despite the low milk prices and the poor economy of the dairy industry, the sale was successful because a lot of buyers are seeking breeding cattle and foundation cattle for marketing.

According to Nichol, when selecting the cattle, he had the international market in mind.

Prior to the sale, Nichol said "In my mind, this is the best group of cattle ever offered at the Eastern National Sale in Pennsylvania."

Dave Rama, out of Delhi, N.Y., said after the show that the sale "Is one of the top sales of the of the year. I was a good sale. A really, really good sale." Rama, who auctioneered for part of the sale, received $3,100 for his consignment, a heifer born September 1989 and a daughter of Modik Valiant County-ET to a Very Good 85 point 4-year-old.

Broken Record

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — I'm not sure any records were broken by cheese prices that increased 26 cents in 26 weeks, pulling up the Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series for five consecutive spring months, but I may be sounding like a broken record (if you're old enough to remember the phonograph) reporting these increases to you each month.

However, it's the tune that milk producers like to hear and the only criticism I've heard so far is that the rhythm is too slow.

Block cheese prices are now up to $1.35 a pound, which is 24 cents or 22 percent above the support price, and still there has been no sales from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks.

The flip side of the broken record is another increase in the M-W as a result of the higher cheese prices.

Last month I thought a 41-cent increase would be the biggest jump of the year, but in August it took a leap of 51 cents to $11.50 for an increase of $1.48 in five months. That's still $1.59 less than a year ago; 87 cents less than 1990 and 52 cents better than 1988.

So the gap is closing with more increases expected to push the M-W over $12 by November. If that happens it will be nearly $2 higher than last year in November or December.

Farm Price

Translating all that into the minimum price (before premiums) that Order 2 handlers must pay producers at the 201- to 210-mile zone, for milk testing 3.5 percent butterfat, for August is $12.04 or 45 cents more than last month.

The increase came from a Class I price of $13 (up 35 cents); Class II at $11.51 (up 24 cents) and Class III at $11.60 (up 58 cents).

Class I milk was 40 percent of the pool; Class II, 17 percent and Class III, 42 percent.

Many producers think only in terms of Class I prices and utilization for higher farm prices, but with cheese prices providing most of the increases you should be more aware of Class II and Class III prices, which are influenced more directly by dairy product prices.

For instance, from May to August, when the farm price or blend price increased $1.20, the Class III price went up $1.49; Class II $1.56 and Class I 56 cents. In addition, the Class II price will increase 80 cents in October and Class I will go up 92 cents more. You won't know the Class III price until the M-W is determined for September.

With Class II and Class III prices on 60 percent of the milk in Order 2, these are even more important than Class I prices.

The system was designed so that when there is a demand pull on milk or dairy products anywhere along the marketing chain it would be reflected in the farm price. Recent increases in cheese prices will eventually show up in the Class I price, but we know already that there's enough momentum built up to make farm price increases continue at least to November.

Production Helps

Declines in milk production during the hot summer months have also contributed to higher milk and product prices.

Production dropped all summer and in July went down to 2 percent below last year, but 1990 was the highest of the last three years.

The decrease in production came with falling milk prices as well as the weather. It resulted from less milk per cow as well as fewer cows than we had last year.

The July 1 cattle inventory of USDA shows the number of milk cows down 1 percent from last year and the year before. It also showed that at the same time, while milk replacement heifers were unchanged from last year, their numbers were 7 percent less than 1989. Which means there aren't many reserves to bring into production, and what we have in the milking herd is possibly not being fed for optimum production.

As we learned in 1989, it's important to know where the production cuts are occurring.

That year it was Minnesota and Wisconsin that lost production because of a drought. The direct impact on the M-W was felt all over the country.

Now it appears that production is dropping, or at least not increasing, in nearly all states.

California, with nearly 2 billion pounds of milk a month, is up only 1 percent, but Wisconsin, with slightly higher monthly production, is down 3 percent. Pennsylvania is unchanged but New York and Minnesota are down 2 and 4 percent.

Lower production in Southeastern states has also drawn supplies from the upper Midwest to decrease the supply for the M-W price.

Feed Supplies

Crop growing conditions around the country are about as varied as they are here in Pennsylvania and New York — some areas are good while others are a disaster.

The hot weather has moved up corn maturity and many fields are already in the silo or the grower wishes they were.

Those farmers with only one cutting of hay and a short corn crop will have to buy extra forage — hay or silage — to provide minimums needed for good digestion. Others have hay and silage to sell at a price. Right now grain prices aren't unusually high so farmers should consider the minimum amount of forage needed and make up the difference with grain.

Emergency Livestock Feed

Which brings us up to the Emergency Livestock Feed Program now available through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) in counties designated for disaster assistance or in contiguous counties.

County ASCS offices — at least in Pennsylvania — now have applications available for dairy and livestock farmers who lost over 40 percent of the total of all their grain and forage crops including pasture.

To be eligible, you must receive over 10 percent of your gross income — including off-farm work — from dairy or livestock production. You should pick up an application as soon as possible if you think you qualify.

You can complete it at home, but be prepared to provide documentation of your losses.

A convenient change this year over the past is that you can get your payment at the ASCS office before you purchase the feed and return a receipt when you buy it. And, as I've mentioned before, you won't be eligible unless you're in compliance with your conservation plan from the Soil Conservation Services.

Brillion

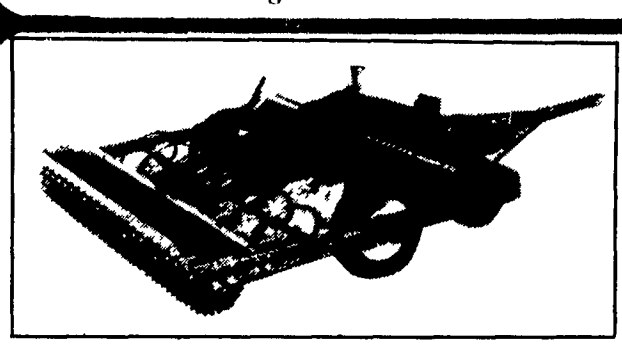
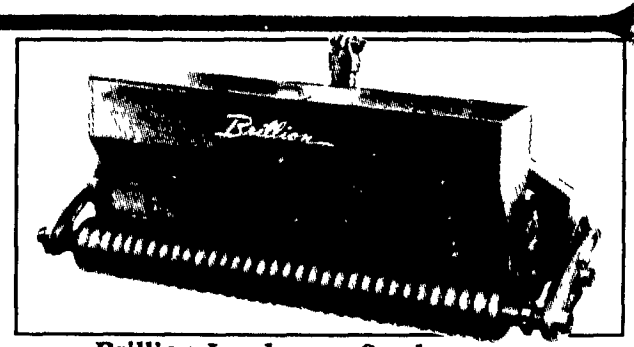
Good Soil Management Starts With Brillion



Brillion M88 Pulvi-Mulcher

Like its Big Brothers, the "88" crushes, harrows and conditions the soil in one pass for better seedbed and bigger yields. It has all the features of other "M" series Pulvi-Mulchers. Separate levers control depth of each of two rows of spring teeth. May be equipped with Notched or Crowfoot rollers, with conventional spring teeth of vibrating "S" tines.



Brillion Landscape Seeder

With its 3-point hitch (Cat. I), the Brillion 5'4" Landscape Seeder close-couples to your tractor; works up close to buildings, fences and sidewalks. Seeding mechanism stops instantly when seeder is raised or stopped. Special roller wheel design plants seeds in top ¼" of soil for best germination under controlled moisture. Seeding rate is approximately four times that of Turfmaker.

Herd Performance Evaluator Programs

C.W. HEALD
PSU Dairy Specialist

It's new and different from any previous DHIA report!

DHIA has a new program to release this fall which pinpoints the two most costly problems found on the monthly DHIA data. Instead of dairymen and their advisors spending hours each month studying DHIA reports, this one page score card lists and ranks the major problem found.

Next, up to six items that might help focus the search for causes of the problem are listed. Items are selected based on the problem identified, parameters out of ideal range, and the goal level of production selected.

Nutrition is evaluated separately. Nutrition items out of ideal range are highlighted.

Notice the title is plural.

The "Evaluator" does many things. It can test certain changes in feeding (feed additives, ration balancing, feed sources, and types), milking procedures, veterinary treatments, housing, or other management changes that affect herd production.

The program is unique in testing cows treated in two or more ways. Dairymen and advisors can run their own experiments. Cows can be selected for special treatment then followed each month to measure the outcome. The "Evaluator" was developed for farm advisors and dairymen who like to test ideas.

Its development was supported by the Department of Dairy and Animal Science, Ben Franklin Technology Center, Pennsylvania DHIA, and Monsanto. Look for more information on the Lancaster Farming Focus page over the next several months.

Your county agent and DHIA supervisors will be learning more about the "Evaluator" later this fall, so, until then, address questions to Louise Sible at PA DHIA.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — This data is pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from almost 1,400 herds across the state.

There is not a specific number of youth who can be eligible. The decision of local and district show judges determines whether an animal is to advance to the state show.

There are six major dairy breeds recognized in the show, and there is no supreme animal, nor group classes.

The type judge for the Holstein show was William Etgen, PhD, of Blacksburg, Va., while Ross Hershberger, of Martinsburg, served as the showmanship judge.

Mary Creek, of Hagerstown, Md., was the type show for the Milking Shorthorn, Ayrshire and Guernsey breeds, while Lori Sollenberger, of Everett, was showmanship judge.

The type judge for the Brown Swiss and Jerseys was Norman Hill, of Woodbine, Md., with Benjamin Dum, of Elliottsburg, was showmanship judge.

In the Holstein competition, 455 entries were registered and more than 400 actually showed. Several of the animal age classes had to be divided into two classes, in order for the judge to get the classes into the show ring, one of three set up in the Large Arena of the complex.

The grand and senior champion Holstein was Curtis-Haven T Threat Stella, a 5-year-old owned by Matthew Curtis, of Union City. She was the daughter of Hanover Hill Triple Threat-Red, and beat out eight other entries to top her class.

Taking reserve senior and reserve grand champion was Janelle Wivell's 3-year-old, Donegal Creek Bear Kandy. The daughter of Bear-Path Fantastic, she in an age class of 30 animals.

The junior champion of the Holsteins was intermediate yearling Windy-Knoll-View JJB Crisey, owned by James Justin Burdette, of Mercersburg, in Franklin County. Burdette's heifer was sired by To-Mar Blackstar-ET and was in an age class represented by 38 entries.

The reserve junior champion of the breed was intermediate calf, J-RA Cubby Jolene, owned by Travis Biggs, of Cochranton, Crawford County, which was sired by Osdel-Endeavor Bova Cubby.

The best Holstein bred and owned was John A. Foster III's Globe-Run Starbuck Beverly, a senior 2-year-old which was sired by Hanover Hill Starbuck.

In the Ayrshire show, 105 animals were entered with HK Farms Melissa's Muffin, owned by Melissa Hillyard, of Ulster, Bradford County, being named senior and grand champion. The 4-year-old cow was sired by Des Peupliers Rebel.

Hillyard also went home with the best bred and owned award for a junior 2-year-old she showed, B.E.K.A. Muffin's Madison, which was sired by Lagace Mode Vagabond.

The reserve senior and grand champion animal was a senior 2-year-old, Wentworth-Farm Johnny's Brett, owned by Nichol Bozlinski, of Wampum, Lawrence County. She was sired by St. Cesaire Johnny.

The junior champion was a senior calf, Toll-Gate-Ayr BB Kelli Mae, owned by Jeremy Hunter, in West Alexander, in Washington County.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Wayne E. Sliker, representing Top Acres, St. Paris, Ohio, held on tight — not just to the reigns of his Brown Swiss grand female champion, My-T-Fine Whisper (S: Johann Johnny D, D: My-T-Fine Mistletoe, bred by Linda and Duane Klumpp).

Sliker also maintained the consecutive reign of breed championship, including premier breeder and exhibitor on Tuesday at the Pennsylvania All-American Show.

At the Milking Shorthorn Show, the grand female champion was shown by Rodney Kline. The senior 2-year-old is named Honey Creek King Regal Promise (S: Kingdale Glen Cit R, D: Honey Creek Regal Promise, breeder Honey Creek Farm). Reserve champion went to Spring Meadows, represented by Polly A. Ullom. The cow was from he 3-Year-Old class, Spring Meadows Greeting (S: Krause's Maxine Mike, D: Spring Meadows Gem Star, breeder: Mike Ullom and Family).

Judge for the Brown Swiss Show was David P. Dickson, Madison, Wis. and for the Milking Shorthorn, J. Lee Majeskie, College Park, Md.

Brother, Sister Gather Champion Ribbons At Ephrata Hog Show

Cory Pfautz, 13, right, took champion market hog at the Ephrata Swine Show Tuesday night. Nelson Beam judged the show.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — What if your own family gave you the stiffest competition in the grand champion bout of a market hog show? What would you do?

For Cory Pfautz, 13, Lititz, it was easy — after the win, unleash a smile when the photographers from newspapers surround you, despite pouring down rain.

Cory, who captured the grand on Tuesday night at the Ephrata Fair, attends Warwick Middle School. He won reserve champion at the 4-H roundup with the same hog that gave him grand champion at Ephrata — a 244-pound heavyweight Hampshire cross.

But his own sister almost grabbed the champion — but was happy to settle with a reserve champion from the heavyweight division with her 250-pound hog.

And their brother Kevin, 9, grabbed champion lightweight with his 224-pound hog. And Kevin also won champion of the showmanship division for 8, 9, 10, and 11 year olds.

Following is a list of show placings.

Schaefferstown Antique Tractor Show

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Old tractors and farm equipment will come alive at the first annual Antique Tractor Show, to be held at the Alexander Schaeffer Farm in historic Schaefferstown.

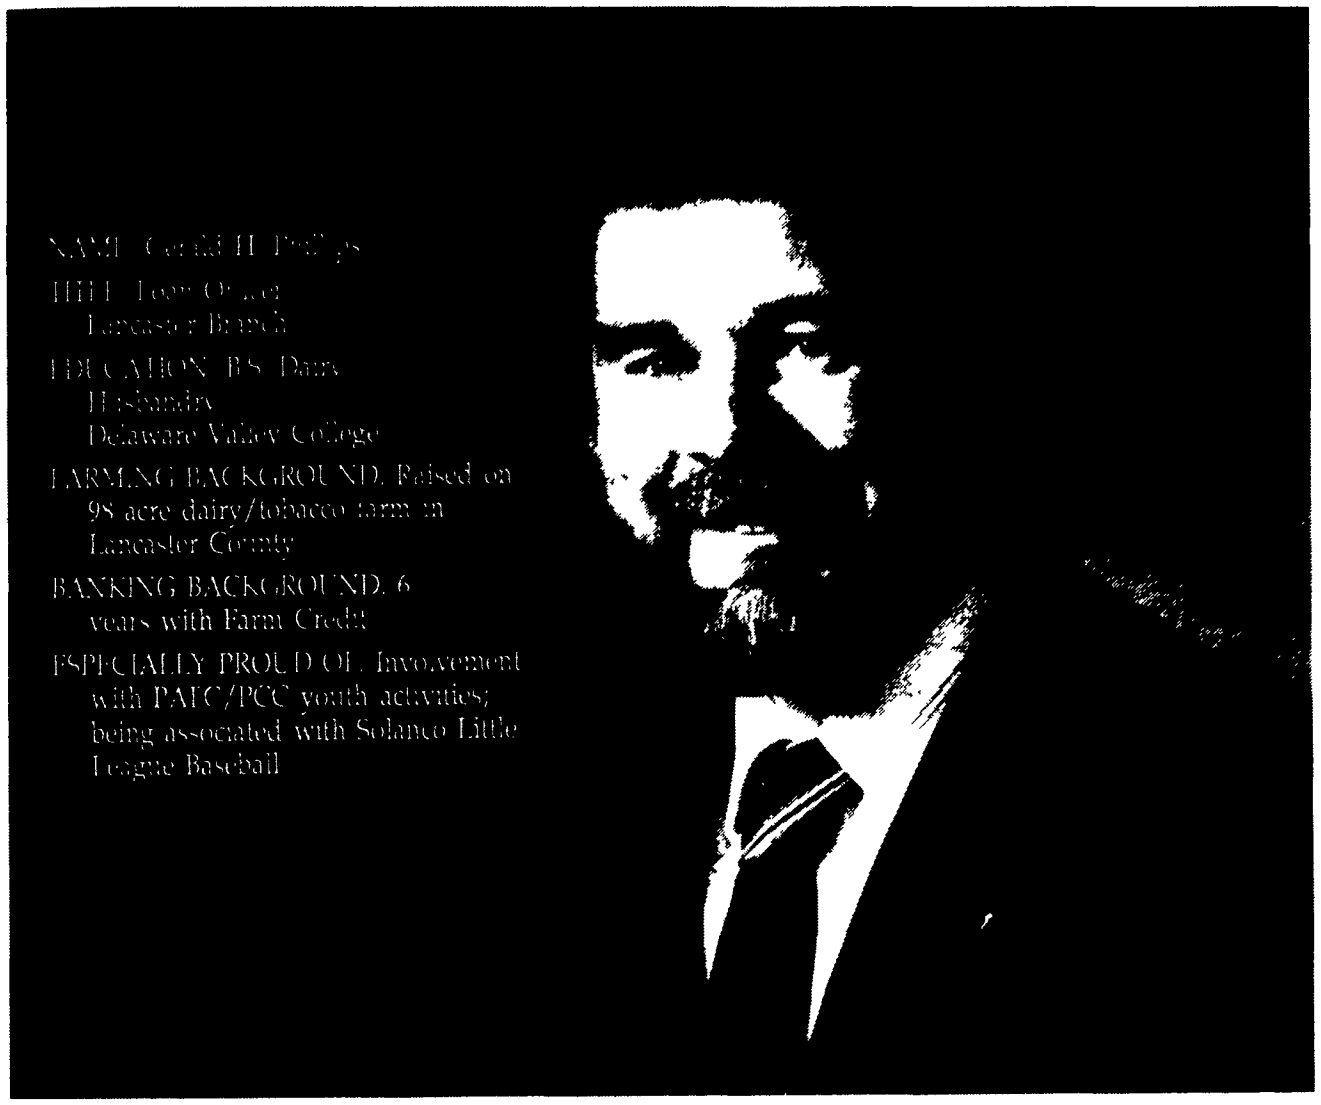
The dates for the event are Friday, October 11th and Saturday, October 12. Starting time each day is 9:00 a.m.

Toy tractor- vendors as well as other farm related vendors are welcome to be a part of this event. Tractor contests will include egg cracking, slow tractor race, crank-up, wagon backing, and all tractor pulls.

This year's feature tractor will be the Ford tractor.

Anyone having antique or classic tractors, old engines, or farm machinery will want to contact George Merkel at 215-693-5061 or Titus Keller at 717-949-2378.

The Alexander Schaeffer Farm Museum is located in Old Schaefferstown at the junction of Rt. 501 & 897.



Your Farm Credit Banker. Nobody Knows The Field Better.

Sure, you'll find Farm Credit bankers all buttoned up, ready to talk short- or long-term loans, mortgages and sophisticated lines of credit.

But underneath the shirt and tie, you'll find the one thing the other banks don't offer. A fellow farmer.

Most Farm Credit loan officers were born and raised on farms and got their college degrees from ag schools. Nearly all of them grew up with 4-H and the Future Farmers of America.

And, if that's not enough, every single one of our loan officers goes through the toughest ag lending training program in America.

That means when you talk to a Farm Credit loan officer about any kind of ag loan, you won't have to waste your time translating to someone who's book smart but farm foolish

What's more, because Farm Credit loan officers understand farming as well as they understand finances, they're not only smarter, they're faster. After all, they have the same loan closing authority as many local bank presidents.

So when you need competitive rates or creative options, see your local Farm Credit banker. Because nobody knows the field better.

BARN PAINTING
Aim For The Best -
In Coating Film Thickness

To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed)

1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed The best method is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas This is resurfacing!!!
2. BEST NEW START ON RESURFACED WOOD SIDING After spraying on this kind of barn paint or stain, take time to pay attention to brush out in all directions to create a film thickness that will prevent future peeling & resurfacing costs & effort This film will let excess moisture breathe through it Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10-15 years Southern exposures usually wear faster

Machine Makes Unloading Corn Easier

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

NEW ENTERPRISE (Bedford Co.) — The world will always need a better mousetrap. Steve Replogle needed a bigger and better wagon to unload corn.

"Those on the market just weren't big enough," Steve said. "We were doing a lot of running back and forth in our little truck and spending twice as much time picking corn as we should have been. We asked the factory to design one eight inches wider, but they refused."

So, Steve designed a machine to unload corn from a wagon twice the size of the one he already had.

"I had some help from my brother-in-law," he said. "He works in a machine shop and built the shaft and helped me develop my idea. I designed the motor to work from an International truck which accommodates the size of the wagon."

Steve farms more than 600 acres with his dad, Donald. "The first wagon became a family project," said Steve's mother, Dorothy (Dot).

The wagon was made from plywood on a flat truck bed and Steve, Don, Dot, Steve's wife, Cindy, and his two daughters all got in on the act. "We all nailed and painted," Dot said.

Steve said the first wagon took about two months to build. "We worked on it steadily in order to get it finished in time for the corn season," he said.

The second one, constructed of aluminum, was worked on a day or two at a time when there was nothing else to do, which isn't often for a farm family that hires no outside help.

Steve said he might consider building the larger size corn unloaders for other farmers. "Materials run about $9,000 so it would have to sell for about $12 to 14,000," he said.

The new, improved wagon can hold 18 to 20 tons of corn. "We actually planned to sell corn this year," Donald said."But the drought kind of suggested otherwise. We've ended up buying it instead."

The Replogles have also been helping the neighbors cut corn with their new improved machinery, As they stand in the field,they notice one of their other rigs passing by on the road.

"We rent them out when we're not using them ourselves," Donald said.

Steve's first love is machinery. "When he was 16, he didn't want a car, he wanted a tractor," his mother said. "He was winning tractor driving contests before he was 12 and has been into tractor pulling for a long time."

It's fortunate that Steve's wife and mother don't mind milking the 140 Holsteins on the farm. There are about that many additional young cattle.

Cindy helps with the milking in the morning. Then, after working in the cafeteria at the Northern Bedford School, she gets home in time to do the evening milking.

Steve has also converted an old gasoline truck into a manure spreader and designed an agitator for stirring manure that works from a motor.

"As long as he keeps mechanizing the work, we can do a lot more with a lot less manpower," Donald said.

Donald stands at the back of the gasoline truck manure spreader designed by son, Steve.

Steve climbs down from the International truck after starting the motor, which unloads the corn.

The corn picker dumps corn in the giant sized corn wagon designed by Steve Replogle of New Enterprise.

Other problems the Soviets face are the huge amount of rubles that the citizens, who worked hard and tried to save over many years, have stocked, creating what experts call a "ruble overhang." The rubles cannot be converted to dollars. Until the Soviets can find some way to make them convertible, the Soviet Union will not develop as a modern economy, according to Dancy.

But for poultry and egg producers, there is great opportunity in the European common market. In the past, the United States treated the European Community (EC) as an export market. Now, through American law firms, Brussels has become the bargaining center in which lobbying for American business in the EC goes on. (And now, the "lunch expense account" goes on in Europe also, according to Dancy.)

"It's going to create one huge market, larger in population than the United States, and with a gross income that is just about matching ours," he said. "It's a situation, by the way, with enormous opportunities for American business.

"But American business is going to have to play smarter and worker harder to make it all happen," he said.

For poultry and egg producers, 1992 is shaping up to hold the same economic scenarios as in 1987, according to some experts.

Broiler producers should expect about a 4.5 percent (down from 5.8 percent in 1991) estimated profit for 1992, according to John Pedersen, publisher of the "Poultry and Egg Fax" Newsletter, at the broiler price outlook portion of the seminar on Wednesday.

All this in spite of growing opportunities for selling broilers in the European markets. Chicken exports are up 32 percent this year, and many are headed to the Soviet Union.

John Dancy, NBC News Senate correspondent.

But the Soviet Union has no money. "The Russians can help us if we can give them some money, but we're broke," said Pedersen. "But we'll give them something."

Right now, the U.S. economy is the trouble spot, and the big problem is the credit crunch. Particularly hard hit, according to Pedersen, are U.S. consumers, who must carry an 83 percent take-home pay debt (compared to 68 percent in 1980).

"The increasing consumer debt load is so heavy it's almost unbearable," said Pedersen.

This year alone, buying power is down about $362 per family of four, and has been falling steadily since 1987.

"There's a lot of buying power lost," he said.

The cuts have taken their toll on discretionary income, which directly affects how much they will spend on food. Pedersen believes the credit crunch in the economy will last for another two years.

Year after year, producers are creating more of what consumers want. The weight and amount keeps going up, and total meat consumed keeps climbing. But it may reach its peak soon, according to Pedersen. "How much can the old tummy hold?" he said.

As for prices of feed, corn prices should average about 11 cents higher, and $2.40-$2.50 is reasonable, he said.

Milk Price Stops Dropping, Order 4 Production Increases

LAURENCE L. YAGER
Area Marketing Agent

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.)— You received a nice upward move for the second month is a row after the 11 months decline.

Your Minnesota-Wisconsin (M-W) Price Series moved up 25 cents to $10.64 per hundredweight for average test milk with 3.56 percent butterfat. In the conversion to the standard 3.5 percent butterfat, you get a Basic Formula Price of $10.58 per cwt. This is an upward move of 35 cents.

The Class I price of milk in Order 4 was $13.07 in June, $13.26 for July and will be $13.61 in August.

In Order 2 the comparable prices for Class I milk was $12.46, $12.65, and $13 respectively.

The announced Class II prices for August is $11.51 per cwt. in Order 4.

In June, 24.31 percent of your milk in Order 4 was Class II. The Class II milk was 28.57 percent of the total and was worth $10.49 per cwt.

Milk production in the Order 4 area continues to increase. there were 20.5 million pounds or 4.3 percent more milk produced last month than a year ago. Though there were 76 fewer producers, the average daily production per farm increased 5.7 percent or 156 pounds during this period.

The Class I utilization in Order 4 decreased 4.2 percent or 10.3 million pounds in June compared to a year earlier. Due to continued production increases and fluid use decreases, the percentage of total milk in Class I dropped to 47.12 percent from a year earlier figure of 51.27 percent. Your weighted average price in Order 4 was $11.66 in June compared to $11.55 in May.

Two-Tier Pricing

The U.S. House Agriculture Committee is now working on the Milk Industry Management Act of 1991. Two-Tier Pricing is one of the proposed options in the plan.

As you may recall, the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990 (better known as the 1990 Farm Bill) required the secretary of agriculture to submit a report and recommendations to Congress of various milk inventory management programs. The U.S. Department of Agriculture submitted the report on May 15, 1991, and solicited comments from interested parties.

Two-tier pricing and bases or quotas are not new to Order 4 milk producers. They have been involved in the Base-Excess Seasonal Incentive Program for a number of years. You establish a new base each year from August through December. The following year, beginning in February you are paid one price for base milk and a lower price for excess milk. Last month for example, base milk was worth $11.78 per cwt. and excess milk $10.49.

In the proposal for the Milk Inventory Management Plan, a producer would establish a base or quota for the entire year. If it were determined that commercial disappearance was 140 billion pounds plus 5 billion pounds for CCC and Food and Nutrition programs, the national base would be 145 billion poundds. If total production was 155 billion, then 93.5 percent would be base milk.

The plan also proposes a higher support price and so the base milk would be worth about $13.50 per cwt. The surplus milk would be valued at the world market price for export or at zero for donation. Therefore the surplus or second-tier price would be worth about $7.50 per cwt.

Update

Dr. Bob Yonkers, Penn State milk marketing specialist provides us with an update on the milk price situation and outlook. He indicates the milk price decline is over and you can look for better days ahead.

Looking into the near future, milk prices will continue the normal seasonal increase through the late fall.

Wholesale prices for manufactured dairy products are starting to increase. Butter prices have remained the same since last July but cheese prices have increased about 10 cents per pound in the last six weeks and 15 cents since May. This translates into about $1.50 per cwt. for milk.

For the first time since last November, the USDA purchased no cheese in a recent week. Nonfat dry milk prices have increas4ed about 5 cents here in the Northeastern U.S. There were slightly smaller increases elsewhere in the country.

Many dairy economists look for milk prices to increase between $1 and $2 above the April-May low.

If you are interested in some of the events that could push milk prices, here are a few items to watch.

Milk production growth has slowed in California. January 1991 production was 6.3 percent above January 1990 and last month's increase over June 1990 was only 1.6 percent. If California production stays flat you can expect milk prices to increase.

Another place to watch is the major milk producing states of Wisconsin and Minnesota. April milk production was 0.8 percent lower than a year earlier and May's was 1.6 percent less. Reports indicate that rain and humidity hampered both grain planting and hay making. These could have strong effects later in the year.

N.Y., N.J. Dairymen Receive $11.59 CWT For July

EDWARD D. PRUSS
PSU Extension Agent

NEW YORK — Dairy farmers who supplied milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during July 1991 will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $11.59 per hundredweight (24.9 cents per quan).

The price for the corresponding month last year was $14.02 per hundredweight, but Acting Market Administrator Ronald C. Pearce also said that the July price is an increase from $11.04 in June.

The uniform price is a market-wide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive plan has been suspended for 1991. The plan would not have affected the uniform price for the month of July.

A total of 12,728 dairy farmers supplied the New York-New Jersey Milk Marketing Area with 915,117,303 pounds of milk during July. This was a decrease of 2.4 percent (about 22 million pounds) from last year.

The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $106,238,196.49. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not premiums, deductions authorized by the farmer, or assessments.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) used 361,571,461 pounds of milk for Class I, 39.5 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test, and skim milks. For July, handlers paid $12.65 per hundredweight (27.2 cents per quart) for Class I milk compared with $15.33 a year ago.

Handlers used 162,452,116 pounds of milk for Class II products, 17.8 percent of the total. Class II products include fluid cream, eggnog, cottage cheese, ice cream, and yogurt. Handlers paid $11.27 per hundredweight for this milk.

The balance (391,093,726 pounds or 42.7 percent) was used to manufacture Class III products including butter, cheese other than cottage cheese, and dried milk. Handlers paid $11.02 per hundredweight for this milk.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For July, there was a price differential of 10.5 cents for each one-tenth of one percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank milk received from farms in the 201- to 210-mile zone from New York City.

Disaster Assistance

and permission to make hay or graze livestock on land set aside under the government's Conservation Reserve Program — are of limited usefulness to most farmers, according to Dick Dennison, manager of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association's farm financial service.

Nearly every county in Maryland and Pennsylvania and dozens more in Virginia were granted disaster status back in August, kicking in the FmHA program and other measures. In a separate designation, local officials of the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service were granted the authority to implement emergency feed assistance programs in 59 counties in Pennsylvania and another 16 in Maryland, according to state ASCS spokesmen.

Officials in almost all of the counties have chosen to offer the Livestock Feeding Program, a revamped version of the old Emergency Feed Program, the spokesmen said. A handful of counties also are offering farmers the chance to buy government-owned grain stocks at below-market rates.

High-level ASCS officials say the possibility exists that Congress may yet fund an aid program that provides cash payments to farmers with severe enough crop losses. This Disaster Assistance Program was widely used following the 1988 drought, but it too is designed to compensate farmers for only a portion of their losses.

Regardless of the scope of government aid, however, Mid-Atlantic area farmers are in a better position today than in 1988 to cope with drought losses in one important respect: crop insurance coverage. The number of farmers with some kind of coverage this year has grown dramatically since 1988, according to Eugene Gantz, president of the American Association of Crop Insurers.

In 1988, for instance, only about 430 Pennsylvania farmers had crop insurance, which is provided through the cooperative efforts of private agents and companies and the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. This year, about 2,200 Pennsylvania farmers have some type of coverage, Gantz said. Enrollment gains also have been seen in other states in the region, including Maryland and Virginia, Gantz said.

Locally, the most common type of coverage is for corn, according to Gantz, whose association serves as a trade group for the private companies that write crop insurance policies. Farmers have the option of insuring their corn crop either for its silage or grain yield, but even most dairymen choose the latter, he said.

Farmers who buy coverage must select from a menu of coverage and payment options. The majority of local growers opt for corn coverage of $2.60 a bushel at the 65-percent level, according to John Gartside, head of a regional FCIC office in Harrisburg. The policies pay off when grain losses determined from field checks exceed the 35-percent deductible level and farmers still can harvest the entire crop for silage.

In recent weeks, FCIC appraisers have "zeroed out" a number of fields, Gartside said, where the corn did not produce ears. "We make a full payment and (the farmers) still are able to salvage something for feed," he said.

Insurance rates depends not only on the level of coverage selected, but on a farmer's production history. A typical farmer with a 100-bushel corn average and the 65-percent, $2.60 coverage would pay about $7-8 an acre, according to Gartside. Both cheaper and more expensive policies are offered.

PFA's Dennison said the current crop insurance program, which has been evolving since the early 1980s, is still far from perfect. But he acknowledged that with federal and state government doing little or nothing to help farmers in a jam, the idea of insurance makes a lot of sense.

As was the case in 1988, the revamped Livestock Feed Program is not designed to stave off red ink or recompense farmers for all their losses, according to Carol Wathen, a Maryland ASCS spokesman. It is meant merely to help farmers maintain their livestock through the winter.

As in past years, the application form requires farmers to total up both crop losses and expected feed needs for the winter using various ASCS figures and formulas. To qualify, farmers must show a loss of at least 40 percent in crops grown for livestock feed. Cash payments are provided on up to 50 percent of the calculated shortfall. As much as half of the calculated payment can be made at the time of application.

Unlike the past, however, the new program converts all feed needs to dollar values. And it limits the 50-percent assistance to the lesser of feed needs or crop losses. Caps on dollar amounts and overall farm income also apply. And farmers must have a soil conservation plan in effect or pending, according to ASCS rules.

Farmers say the new program is easier to understand but provides less assistance in some cases then the previous version did.

In Frederick County, Md., for instance, Jan Staley, the local ASCS administrator said the first 12 applications she has processed have resulted in preliminary assistance totals that range from $1,200 to $23,000.

Signup for the program is underway now in eligible counties. It will continue through Dec. 31, Staley said.

Record Entries For World Expo

MADISON Wis. — Dairy cattle are herding to World Dairy Expo in record numbers. Expo General Manager Tom McKittrick recently announced that more than 2,400 dairy cattle entries have been received for the 1991 show, more than 100 over the previous record.

"Interest in World Dairy Expo continues to increase as more and more dairymen realize that this show is the ideal place to promote both domestic and international sales," McKittrick said. "This is also true for dairy related companies as a record number of commercial exhibit booths, over 700, have been sold."

The Central National Jersey Show, with a 28-percent increase in dairy cattle entries, has the largest increase with 347 entries in 1991 compared to 271 in 1990. The show was previously a regional show and received national status this year from the American Jersey Cattle Club. McKittrick believes this change also influenced the large increase.

With 397 dairy cattle entries in 1990 compared to 445 in 1991, the Central National Brown Swiss Show has the second largest increase. Five of the six dairy breed shows have more entries in 1991 than in 1990 with only the International Holstein Show showing a decrease.

The 25th World Dairy Expo will be held Oct. 2-6, 1991, at the Dane County Expo Center in Madison, Wisconsin. For more information contact: World Dairy Expo, 122 East Olin Avenue, Suite 270, Madison, Wisconsin 53713, or telephone (608) 251-3976.

Ephrata Sheep Show Winners Named

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Although the Ephrata Sheep Show received only a sprinkling of the predicted heavy rains, it did shower trophies and glory upon veteran sheep exhibitor Jeff Martin, East Earl, and on Kendall Reiff, Ephrata.

The 22 sheep, Jeff brought to the Fair, enabled him to win the grand champion showmanship trophy, champion carcass lamb on foot, champion ewe and grand champion breeding sheep.

"The thing that makes me happiest," Jeff said, "is that these are home-bred sheep competing with top sheep bought from other states. It is always surprising to many people when an East Earl lamb can best out-of-state sheep."

Twenty-year-old Jeff has worked hard to build-up his 50-head flock of Suffolks and Cheviots. He follows in the footsteps of an older brother and sister, Barry and Deb. His parents, John and Marilyn Martin, recalled that Jeff showed an affinity for sheep even before he went to school. He spends long hours with them and has been known to study his school lessons in the barn while awaiting the birth of a lamb.

With the prize money that Jeff has collected in the past 12 years, he has purchased a tree service business, J. Martin Tree Service.

Jeff's brother, Dough, showed the reserve champion ram, the top Cheviot breeding sheep and the reserve champion heavyweight lamb.

Fourteen-year-old Kendall Reiff captured his first trophy for champion market lamb. Last year he had a reserve. This was his third year to show. Kendall said that his interest in showing was sparked by his cousins, Lyndon and Lisa Reiff from Strasburg. The Reiff siblings are oft-time champions in county and state shows. Kendall said that he and his cousins help each other out. It was unusual for him to win over them on Wednesday night. "They beat me a lot more times than I beat them," he said.

Kendall is the son of Sam and Elva Reiff. He is in ninth grade at Lancaster Mennonite High School.

His champion Suffolk, Big Guy, was purchased from Pine Haven.

Judge Bill McCauley, a Chester County breeder, said the Ephrata Show is a good show. "The kids are cooperative, there's lots of interest, and competitive lambs are shown."

Results of the Ephrata Sheep Show are as follows:

Winners At Lampeter Fair Sheep Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — Although the sun wasn't shining, Lisa Reiff had her day in the sun on Wednesday at the West Lampeter Fair. Her sheep, Pepper and Paprika, impressed judge Jim Black, from Shippensburg, to name them champion 4-H market lamb and champion sale lamb.

It's been the third champion market lamb win at the Lampeter Fair, for the 13-year-old daughter of Lloyd and Laura Reiff, Strasburg. The Reiff family credits their feed and two-hour daily exercise program for the success they have in showing.

Sixteen-year-old Jessica Hill was named top showman. Last year, in her first year of showing, Jessica also received the award. She said that she wasn't born a natural at showing but gained it from the experience developed by showing horses for five years. A junior at Penn Manor High School, Jessica is the daughter of David and Patricia Hill of Conestoga.

But the sun didn't just shine on veteran winners. In his first year of showing, Greg Hess, 14, won the FFA champion market lamb

At Considerable Premium Prices.

The demand is increasing beyond the supply because the livestock do better because of the increased and better balanced nutrition and the absence of toxins. (Nutri Carb draws them out) We need more hay and corn.

DAIRY PROBLEMS GO DOWN WHILE PRODUCTION GOES UP

While feeding less bought minerals and protein. Takes less feed to produce a pound of meat and milk.

SPELTZ GRAIN IS EXTRA NUTRITIOUS

Often produces from 100 to 150 bushel per acre. We have a big demand at 10¢ per pound. Sow now, combine right after wheat.

WHITE SOYBEANS ALSO IN GREAT DEMAND

for TOFU and soy milk if grown on Nutri-Carb. We pay $12.00 per bushel. Apply Nutri-Carp this fall to condition the soil for top crops. It contains over 100 different minerals and trace elements. That is why the crops are so nutritious and big. Also the soil becomes loose and spongy which holds the moisture in a drought. That is why our customers' crops rise and shine and the customer does too and is happy. Do you also want bigger yields of higher nutrition crops at less cost and sell at premium prices? Ask for literature.

Tanya Martin said that she feels several qualities are important for a child to succeed in life. Parents need to instill values and morals. They don't need to always be first, but to try their best. To be happy with what they have and look on the positive side. If you have values, morals and lead a Christian life, you are bound to be happy. I think this is vital to teach teenagers.

Billie Jo Hoover from Huntingdon answered that parents need to be patient, supportive especially of what the child is doing. Most important they need to be a friend because teens face lots of problems and need help in solving them.

Karen Lentz of Lebanon County said: Tell them to remember their childhood. To say I went through something like that. We can learn from them. Share time with their children, make time to sit and talk. Family discussion important and the unity of the family. With family unity and a lot of discussion, I feel children can be raised very well.

Mercer County Onalee Smith said parents should teach teenagers the word trust. When you have a trusting relationship they will trust you and you will have a more trusting relationship. As you go throughout life, you will be able to communicate with them.

Vicki Stahl said that she would remind parents that they were teenagers once too, and that we all make mistakes. And maybe they shouldn't punish us so hard. They need to realize that we will make mistakes but we can learn from them and take that into the future.

Penny Jordan from York said that parents should be lenient yet forceful. Show child when wrong and compliment them when they do well. Build a child's self esteem from compliments at the same time prepare the child for the future by teaching them the difference between right and wrong.

The competition included presentations on promoting dairy products by each contestant. The judges chose the three contestants with the best original presentations who then performed for the audience during the Saturday evening banquet. The winners included Penny Jordan, York County; Kelly Gelsinger, Berks County; and Vicki Stahl, Somerset County. These contestants each received $100 awards.

Vicki portrayed a Ninja turtle who encouraged the audience to fight the evils of high blood pressure, osteoporosis, and kidney stones by using the natural weapons of dairy products.

Kelly used illusions that show that imitation dairy products can deceive people.

Dressed as a dairy cow with tail swinging in beat to the music, Penny rapped about the dairy cow and its credentials to be nominated to the Hall of Fame.

The contestants voted Vicki

A shocked but proud mother, Arlene Wilbur, hugs her daughter, Robin Marie, who was selected as state dairy princess.

Jan Harding, program director of PDPPS, welcomes "new daughters" into her family. Harding refers to dairy princesses as her daughters.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

When something is fun, we want to do it again.

Like little children who gleefully shout for "More!" after a merry-go-round ride or soaring trip on a swing, we seek a repeat of those experience that bring pleasure. So don't you suppose that the demons in charge of throwing little irritating glitches into our lives must get a similar chuckle out of repeat performances?

Last week saw a complete shutdown one day of three major New York City area airports, after a phone systems switching mechanism failed and disrupted vital air traffic control tower communications. The headline-making havoc caused by that little communications-transportation gliche must have been so hilarious to the demons of dastardly mischief that they opted for a repeat the next day.

Power for that re-run was a weather system that settled over the upper East Coast area, entertaining the demons for hours with lightning fireworks, thundering sound effects, and cascading downpours of rain (for which our moisture-short area is grateful.)

The demons plotted while a meeting in a distant city ended early, tempting some of us in attendance to make a mad dash for the airport. With amazing luck, standby seating put us on a flight several hours ahead of schedule.

"I'll get home in time to feed the calves," I figured. That would surprise The Farmer, give him a hand with the calf chores, and leave me an unexpected couple hours at home to catch up on mail and phone calls.

But you can't get here from there, well not directly at least, without going through a major airport hub. This one happened to be Pittsburgh, where a second standby connection came off the ticketing computer without a hitch.

A runway delay due to traffic is not unusual at the peak business travel hours. When it stretched to a half-hour wait, the captain indicated a radar problem. At three-quarter of a hour, storms got the blame. An hour after scheduled takeoff, the attendants began serving soft drinks.

Strangers crunched elbow to elbow in a delayed plane can become friends pretty quickly. We chatted. Joked about sending out for pizza. Checked out the airline magazine crossword puzzle. I got a mini-course in new chemical treatment methods for municipal sewage, a line of work represented by the businessman seated at my left elbow.

And joked with the one seated to the right about trying out the emergency exit chute, which the firm he represented made parts for.

Two hours after scheduled take off, the storm was still churning up the east coast. They cancelled us. Taxied us back to the gate and regurgiated 140 of us back into an airport wall-to-wall with hundreds of others frantically stampeding the ticket counters for alternate flights.

Luck held. We scrounged seats on our original late night flight, waited out another three hours with sandwiches, candy bars, magazines and traded delay tales with neighboring strangers.

Joy at the sight of the lights of Harrisburg was sobred by the frequent lightning which whitened the skies during our circling, extended, landing approach. The demons of dastardly mischief just were having barrels of fun this night.

A lignt rain increased to a pounding downpour as I neared home, then lessened to mere drizzle as the farm came in sight.

Home. With a hot shower and a soft bed. Was I glad to be home.

Funny. Home looks so dark, so unwelcoming. The Farmer usually lets the porch light on for me. Had he forgotten? And what was that strange yellow circle of glow on the TV when all the other lights were dark?

Reality finally overcame brain weariness. Of course. No electricity. No hot shower. In yellow candlelight glow, The Farmer repeated an earlier call checking on the electricity situation.

A couple of hours before morning milking, the power blessedly returned and the storms moved away. The mischief demons had finally played out.

Beware Of Sweepstakes Giveaways

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — AAFT (Alliance Against Fraud in Telemarketing plans a major effort this summer and fall to alert consumers to the growing problem of guaranteed prizes, free trip promotions, and other sweepstakes giveaways which fail to deliver on their promises. Plans are under way to produce a look-a-like postcard that will give consumers free valuable advice! and advise them how to recognize when you are not a definite winner! Experts say the best advice to give consumers is that any guaranteed prize award or giveaway that costs money to claim or which requires the purchase of expensive merchandise of health aids "ain't no free lunch." Many consumers have not yet got the message.

A Shownee, Oklahoma woman, who wrote to the Alliance Against Fraud in Telemarketing in June, is typical. She responded to a postcard notifying her that she had won an award. "I called because I was curious to see what award I had won." She ended up purchasing $598 worth of vitamins, charged to her national credit card. She is still waiting for the prize.

There are several variations on the general theme of guaranteed giveaway promotions. One requires the award winner to call a 900 number to confirm the prize. The winner is kept on the phone while operators take down information to verify the person's eligibility. Few callers ever get a prize. Another is the requirement that winners purchase vitamins, water purifiers, and other expensive, but worthless, products in order to qualify for awards. A third is the use of high pressure tactics to entice a winner to forget about the prize he or she has already won and, for a fee, qualify for an even better prize.

Many victims of credit card fraud write to the AAFT to report instances of fraud in telemarketing and to seek help. In most cases, AAFT staff refer the problem directly to apporpriate agencies and inform the victim of steps which they can take to resolve the problem.

Address of AAFT:

AAFT, National Consumer's League, 815 15th St., N.W., Suite 928, Washington, DC 20005.

"Microwave Magic"

By:
Carol Stark

It is that time of year when the kids are off to school and their school activities seem to always run into supper time. As many moms are working, getting a meal ready for everyone seems to be getting harder and harder because of everyone's deadlines and time schedules. Here is a meal that with just a little bit of time and thought ahead of time will save you time when it is needed the most.

OVERNIGHT STEW

1 pound boneless chuck
8 to 10 small unpared new potatoes, halved
8 to 10 whole carrots
8 whole onions, halved
1 teaspoon dried Italian herb seasoning
1 large bay leaf
1 10¾ oz. can condensed cream of onion soup
1 cup beef broth
¼ cup dry white wine
2 tablespoons white wine Worcestershire Sauce
2 tablespoons snipped parsley
1 roasting bag 20" x 14"
Baking dish - deep 3 quart casserole
Refrigerate 8 - 24 hours
Time at HIGH - 15 minutes
Time at - 70 minutes
Standing time 10 minutes

Place a floured roasting bag in a casserole dish.

Pierce meat deeply on all sides with a large fork. Cut in 1 -inch cubes. Place in roasting bag. Arrange potatoes, carrots and onions around meat. Sprinkle with the Italian seasoning and add bay leaf. In a mediun, bowl, whisk together soup, broth, wine and white wine Worcestershire sauce. Pour over meat and vegetables, pushing meat and vegetables under sauce. Tie bag tightly closed with string. Refrigerate 8 to 24 hours. Loosen string, leaving a 1-inch opening for steam to escape. Microwave at full power (HIGH) for 15 minutes. Turn bag over, pushing meat and vegetables under sauce. Microwave at (MEDIUM HEAT) for time in chart above or until meat and vegetables are tender, turning bag over once. Allow steam to escape before testing for doneness. When done, tie bag tightly. Let stand 10 minutes. Remove bay leaf. Serve pan juices over meat and vegetables in bowls. Garnish with snipped parsley.

A dessert that is easy yet dressed up is Cheesecake Cups.

CHEESECAKE CUPS

Ingredients:
6 vanilla wafers
1 8-oz. package of cream cheese
⅓ cup packed brown sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
6 (6 oz.) custard cups
Time at LOW HEAT - 1½ to 2 minutes
Time at MEDIUM HEAT 7-8 minutes

Place paper bake cups in 6 (6 oz.) custard cups. Place a vanilla wafer in each paper bake cup; set aside. Unwrap cream cheese and place in a 1½ quart bowl. Microwave at (LOW) heat 1½ to 2 minutes or until softened. Add ⅓ cup brown sugar, egg and vanilla. Beat with electric mixer on high speed until smooth. Pour into paper bake cups. Arrange in a circle in microwave. Microwave at MEDIUM LOW HEAT for 7 minutes rearranging cups once. Remove any cheesecake cups that are set in center or those in which a knife inserted off center comes out clean. Microwave remaining cheesecake cups at (MEDIUM LOW) 1 minute or until done. Cool on a wire rack 1 hour. Refrigerate. Serve topped with dabs of sour cream, green grape clusters or strawberries, and a sprinkling of additional brown sugar.

FOR THE KIDS TO TRY

With Halloween and cooler weather coming and with most stores beginning to carry cider how about cider with a new twist?

MULLED APPLE CIDER

4 cups apple cider
2 cups apple juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 orange cut in wedges
4 cinnamon sticks
6 whole cloves
6 cloves of all spice
Baking dish - 3 quart casserole
Time at HIGH - 13-15 minutes

In a casserole combine cider, apple juice brown sugar, and orange wedges. Mix well. Tie cinnamon sticks, cloves and all spice in cheesecloth. Add to cider mixture. Cover. Microwave at full power HIGH for time above or until heated through.

Farm Women Societies

Lebanon Society 20

Lebanon FARM WOMEN Group #20 met at the home of Linda Himmelberger for a Safety Meeting.

The hostess read a poem which was followed by the Lord's Prayer and Salute to the flag.

Members answered roll call by naming a safety rule.

Pat Ziegler, treasurer, reported the new balance. Dues are payable at next months meeting.

The deadline for tickets to the Farm Women County Convention is September 25. Those members in Farm Women Group #20 still desiring tickets may contact Pat Ziegler.

Linda Himmelberger made a door prize for the County Convention held October 9, at the Kenbrook Bible Camp. Pat Ziegler will be getting two token gifts.

Suggestions were given for the Farm-City Week Bake Stand Proceeds. President Linda Himmelberger will take these ideas to the County Board Meeting.

A count was taken of the members who will be attending the Farm Women Brewkfast at Funks Restaurant on October 14. Patti Maulfair will be contacting those who were not at the meeting.

A trip is planned to Hershey Gardens following the breakfast.

The Program for the evening was a video entitled, Making Farms Safe For Kids.

A sheet with various farm hazards was handed to members. Members found 23 hazards to be aware of.

The meeting was adjourned with the next meeting scheduled for October 14, 9 AM at Funks Restaurant, Gap. Members will have a breakfast to celebrate Farm Women's Day.

Berks Society 5

The September meeting of Berks Farm Women Group 5 was called to order by president Sylvia Scharff. Roll call was answered by naming a favorite fruit. Committee reports were given and a reminder of the sandwich sale that is scheduled for October.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Alletta Schadler who spoke about getting ready for the holidays. She gave many suggestions and activities in which to better know and communicate among family members. Gift ideas for the very young, teachers, hospitalized, and the elderly were shared. Of course, no holiday would be complete without food and Mrs. Schadler gave healthful recipes.

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Society of Farm Women No. 8 met on September 11 at the home of Vernetta Wallander in Maytown.

They had a special speaker, Debra Hanna of the American Lung Association. She spoke on "Lung Health" which was a very informative subject.

On Saturday, Sept. 21, the Society will participate in the Maytown Area Yard Sale.

The next meeting will be on October 9, at the home of Elaine Fuhrman in Maytown.

Berks Society 4

Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 4 met at the Boyertown RD#1 home of Marguerite Rush. President Elsie Rothenberger presided.

Plans were made by eight members to attend the Berks County Convention on October 5 at Haag's Hotel in Shartelsville. The group will provide door prizes, gift basket and silent auction items. Bells, music boxes, ear rings, sweaters, frogs, cookbooks, and pitchers were displayed as things collected as a hobby by the members.

The next meeting on October 2 will be a banquet at Christophers Restaurant in observance of Farm Women's Day.

Lancaster Society 25

Lancaster Society of Farm Women #25 attended a banquet at Willow Valley Conference Center recently.

Attendees was 18 members, plus guest speaker, Richard Warren. He showed slides of Covered Bridges, and told of their location and interesting facts.

The next meeting will be breakfast at Woods Edge at 9 a.m. on October 12.

At 11 A.M. members will tour Watch & Clock Museum, 514 Poplar St., Columbia.

Cost is $2.50 per person.

Recipes From The Pumpkin Patch

PUMPKIN BREAD ROLL

¾ cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup walnuts
3 eggs
1 cup sugar
⅔ cup pumpkin
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Filling:
1 cup confectioners sugar
8 ounces cream cheese
4 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Grease 15x10x1-inch cookie sheet. Line with wax paper. Grease and flour the wax paper. Sift flour, baking powder, cinnamon, and salt. Beat eggs and sugar in a large bowl until thick and fluffy. Beat in pumpkin. Stir in sifted ingredients. Pour into pan and spread evenly. Bake for 15 minutes. Remove cake from oven. Invert onto damp towel dusted with confectioners sugar. Peel off wax paper. Roll up cake and towel together from short side. Cool for 1 hour. Unroll cake and spread with cream cheese filling. Reroll cake. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

To make a pumpkin shell tureen, cut off top of 5- to 6-pound pumpkin. Scrape out fibers and seeds; discard. About 10 minutes before serving, pour boiling water into pumpkin shell; cover and let stand. Pour water from pumpkin shell before filling with stew.

SPAGHETTI SQUASH MARINARA

1 medium spaghetti squash
¼ cup chopped onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 16-ounce can tomatoes, cut up
1 teaspoon dried Italian seasoning
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon crushed fennel seed, optional
Grated parmesan cheese, optional

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Halve squash lengthwise; scoop out seeds. Place squash cut side down in a baking dish. With a fork, prick the skin all over. Bake for 30 to 40 minutes until tender.

Meanwhile cook onion and garlic in hot oil until onion is tender but not brown. Stir in undrained tomatoes, Italian seasoning, salt, pepper, and fennel, if desired.

Bring to boiling, reduce heat. Simmer over medium heat for 10 to 15 minutes or to desired consistency, stirring often.

Using a fork, shred and separate the squash pulp into strands. Spoon tomato mixture over squash. If desired, sprinkle with grated parmesan cheese. Serves 6.

"Pennsylvania Lamb may be hard to find sometimes," said Mary Conrad, Eastern Pa. representative for Natural Colored Wool Grower's Association, "but it is well worth the search."

September is National Lamb Month and an ideal time to purchase lamb in the grocery store because of plentiful supply and reasonable prices. In celebration of National Lamb Month, the American Sheep Industry developed a new recipe that uses ground lamb.

Ground leg of lamb has only 176 calories per three-ounce serving and is often recommend for weight loss programs and nutritious eating. Try this recipe and see how great lamb tastes.

STUFFED GROUND LAMB ITALIANO

1½ pounds lean American ground lamb
0.7 ounces dry Italian salad dressing mix
10-ounces frozen spinach, defrosted and squeezed dry
1 cup ricotta cheese
3 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese
1½ teaspoons basil leaves, crushed
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon white pepper
2 cups prepared pasta sauce, heated
1½ pounds cooked pasta, kept warm

In medium bowl, blend lamb and Italian dressing mix. Divide lamb into 12 portions and form into thin patties, 3-inches in diameter, set aside.

In medium bowl, blend spinach, ricotta, parmesan, basil, garlic salt, and pepper. Divide into six portions and form into thin patties, 2-inches in diameter. Place cheese pattie between two lamb patties, press edges to seal. Repeat process, making 6 stuffed lamb patties.

Broil 4 inches from heat source, 5 to 6 minutes per side or desired degree of doneness. To serve:: pour ⅓ cup pasta sauce on plate and place broiled lamb pattie on sauce. Serve with pasta.

ANSWER — Suzanne White of Cumberland County requests the recipe for a vanilla wafer cake with coconut. Thanks to Bonnie Hogg, West Grove, and to Florence Middleton, Charlotte Hall, Md., for sending recipes.

Vanilla Cookie Cake

1 cup margarine
2 cups sugar
1 12-ounce package vanilla wafers, crushed coarsely
6 eggs
⅓ cup milk
1 7-ounce package coconut
1 cup chopped walnuts

Cream sugar and margarine. Add eggs, one at a time. Add crushed wafers to creamed mixture alternately with ⅓ cup milk. Add 1 7-ounce package coconut and 1 cup chopped nuts. Bake in 10-inch greased and floured tube pan. Bake at 300 degrees for 1½ hours. Leave in pan to cool.

Vanilla Wafer Cake

1½ cups sugar
3 cups vanilla wafer crumbs
6 eggs
½ cup milk
1 cup chopped pecans
1⅓ cups flaked coconut

Cream margarine. Gradually add sugar, cream until light and fluffy. Alternately fold in crumbs and milk. Stir in nuts and coconut (batter may appear curdled). Spoon into 9-inch tube pan, which has been floured, greased, and the bottom lined with wax paper. Evenly spread batter in pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and 10 minutes. Cool cake in pan 10 minutes, remove from pan, remove wax paper and finish cooling on rack. Frost or glaze as desired. Store in refrigerator in covered container. Cake may be baked in a 13x9-inch pan for 45 to 50 minutes.

ANSWER — Elsie M. Harmen, McVeytown, requested recipes for Campbell's tomato soup and oven spaghetti sauce. Thanks to Janice Stricker, Robesonia, for sending recipes.

Cambell's Tomato Soup

Group 1:
14 quarts tomatoes
14 stems celery, cut up
14 bay leaves
27 whole cloves
1 pepper

Cook ingredients in group 1 and put through sieve. Use a cup or two of juice to mix.

Group II:
Make a paste of:
12 tablespoons flour
1 pound butter
6 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 cup pasteurized cream
16 tablespoons sugar

Mix groups I and II. Cook one hour, stirring often. Can it while hot and then process for 20 minutes. To serve, mix equal amounts of soup and milk, and heat. Makes approximately 16 pints.

Spaghetti Sauce

½ bushel tomatoes, cut in quarters
7 green peppers
3 to 4 hot peppers
2 heads garlic
12 large onions
1 cup oil

Cook together all ingredients until mushy. Put in blender until smooth. Dump mixture in large roasting pan that has been sprayed with vegetable oil. Add:
8 large cans tomato paste
1 cup oil
1 tablespoon basil
½ cup oregano
1 tablespoon black pepper
10 tablespoons grated cheese
mushrooms, optional

Bake mixture in 350 degree oven until sauce is desired thickness (4 to 6 hours). Pack in hot sterile jars and seal. Makes approximately 9 to 10 quarts.

ANSWER — Marian Kreider, Colmar, wanted a recipe for canning apple juice. Thanks to C.L. Wilson, Silver Spring, Md., for sending a recipe.

Canned Apple Juice

Prepare raw apples as directed for the fruit press, cider mill, or any juice extractor; extract juice. Strain through cheesecloth if you have some solids in your juice. Put juice into a stock pot and heat to steaming (do not boil). Laddle into sterilized jars to within ½ -inch of top of jars. Clean the top of the jars, put on lids, screw jar band tight. Process in boiling water bath for 10 minutes after bath has returned to boiling with bottled juice in it.

Consumers Urged To Buy Red Meat

CAMP HILL (Dauphin Co.) — Red meat is a bargain right now.

"Prices for cattle and hogs paid to the farmer are way down," Mel Eckhaus, commodity specialist for the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, said today. "Cattle and hog farmers are taking it on the nose as prices for their commodities took a big plunge in August.

"That normally means retail prices are favorable to the consumer," Eckhaus said. "We urge consumers to buy. It will be good for them and producers."

Eckhaus pointed out that the National Cattlemen's Association (NCA) indicates retail prices are responding with the average price of six cuts of beef dropping nine cents per pound. ($3.14 to $3.05) in a two week period ending August 22. Also NCA reports the price had dropped more than 21 cents a pound ($3.26 to $3.05) from the high in May of this year.

"It takes time for the retail price to fully respond to low prices paid to farmers," Eckhaus said. "However the grocery store is and will continue to reflect the oversupplied market condition in weeks to come."

Agricultural prices in August dropped 2.7 percent, the sharpest one-month tumble since December 1987, according to figures released by the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA).Cattle prices paid to farmers averaged a little more than 66 cents per pound, down more than five cents from a month earlier.

USDA reports that hog prices paid to farmers in August averaged almost 50 cents per pound, more than four cents lower per pound. Sow prices dipped nearly three cents and more than four cents for barrows and gilts.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Mrs. Ammon Gruber requested a recipe for stewed tomatoes. Here is one from C.L. Wilson of Silver Spring, Md.

Stewed Tomatoes

1 quart peeled tomatoes, chunked
2 tablespoons green pepper, chopped
2 tablespoons onions, chopped
3 tablespoons celery, chopped
1 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon sugar, more according to taste
1 cup toasted bread cubes
Fresh grated parmesan cheese to individual taste

Measure vegetables after chopping. Mix first seven ingredients into suitable saucepan. Bring to a boil, using medium heat, then simmer for desired tenderness and thickness. Serve and top with toasted bread cubes and grated parmesan cheese.

ANSWER — Carroll Klingensmith of Ford City wanted a recipe for maple walnut fudge. Thanks to Colleen Shoemaker, New Woodstock, N.Y., for sending a recipe.

Maple Walnut Fudge

1 tablespoon flour
1 cup sugar
2 cups pure maple syrup
½ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup white Karo syrup
½ cup milk or cream
1 tablespoon butter

Mix flour and sugar in large saucepan. Stir in both syrups and milk or cream. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, to soft ball stage (232-236 degrees). Remove from heat and drop butter on top. Let cool to lukewarm. Beat until gloss begins to fade. Add nuts. Pour quickly into buttered 8x8-inch pan. When cool, cut into squares. Great without nuts also.

ANSWER — A Dauphin County reader wanted jam or jelly recipes using epsom salt instead of sure jell. Thanks to Janice Stricker, Robesonia, for sending recipes.

Strawberry Jelly

1 quart strawberries
6 cups sugar
2 teaspoons epsom salt

Bring crushed berries to a rolling boil. Add epsom, boil one minute. Add sugar and boil 10 minutes. Remove from heat, pour in jars and seal.

Grape Jelly

8 cups grapes
8 cups sugar
1 cup water

Combine and cook 15 minutes. Run through a sieve. Cook 5 minutes more with one teaspoon epsom salts. Pour into jars and seal.

ANSWER — Thanks to Colleen Shoemaker, New Woodstock, N.Y., and to Lois M. Butz, Appenzell, for sending recipes for sourdough starter and pancakes.

Sourdough Starter

1 cup milk
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon dry yeast

Pour milk into bowl or crock, non-metallic. Add flour and yeast, stir. Cover with cheesecloth, letting mixture stand in warm place for 48 hours. Should have bubbles and be sour. Put starter in a covered container with plenty of room for expansion. Store in refrigerator. Each time you use part of it, you must replenish it by adding equal amounts of milk and flour, letting mixture stand in warm place for 24 hours. Starter should be used once a week, if not used for 2 to 3 weeks, throw mixture out and start from the beginning. Can be frozen, but let stand for at least 24 hours on counter before using so yeast has time to work.

Sourdough Pancakes

½ cup sourdough starter
2 cups milk
2 cups flour
2 eggs
2 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda

Blend starter, milk, and flour and leave at room temperature overnight or for several hours. Add eggs, sugar, salt and baking soda. Mix well. Do Not Beat.

Drop large spoonfuls of batter on hot greased griddle. Turn over when top side is full of broken bubbles and is no longer glossy. Enjoy. Stir in blueberries for a special treat.

For waffles, add 2 tablespoons salad oil to mixture before dropping on waffle iron.

Sourdough Supper Buns

1 cup leftover sourdough pancake batter
1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon cooking oil
½ teaspoon salt

Mix ingredients together in bowl. Turn out dough onto lightly floured board. Knead gently about 1 minute. Pat or roll dough to ½ -inch thickness. Cut with floured 2-inch biscuit cutter. Place on greased baking sheet. Cover with plastic wrap and a towel. Let rise in a warm place 45 minutes to 1 hour or until doubled in size.

Bake 425 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm with butter and honey. Makes 9 buns.

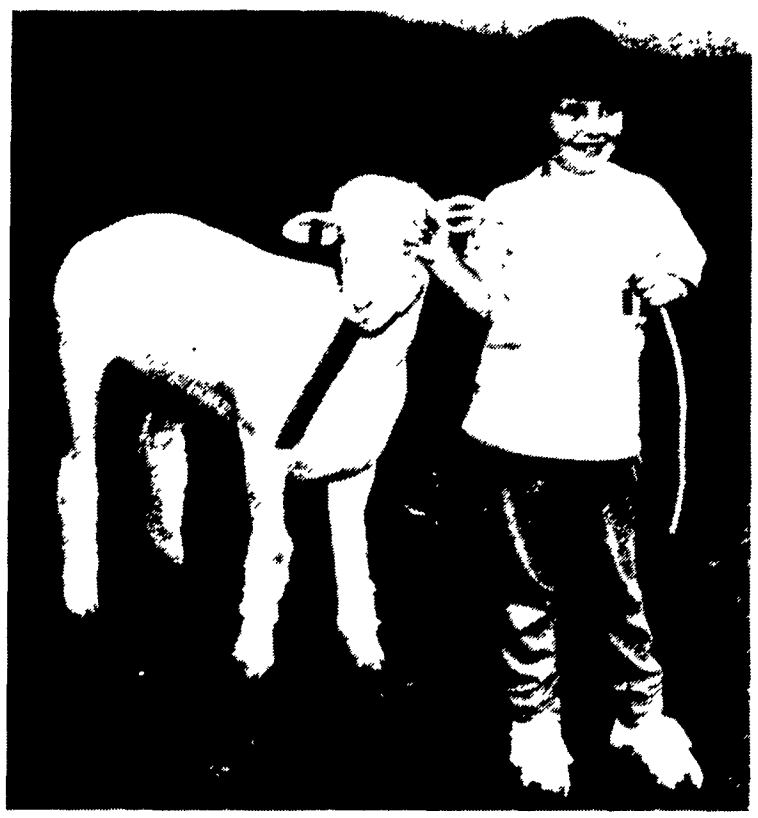
Kids At The Solanco Fair

Lucas John Pelliccio of Paradise said that he likes to try to pick the champion cows and pigs at the Solanco Fair. His very favorite thing to do at the Fair is to go on the tractors especially the combines. Lucas, a kindergarten student at Bart-Colerain Elementary School, is the 5-year-old son of Marie and Jim Pelliccio. His brothers, Zachary and Jim entered a painting and flowers at the Fair.

Four-year-old Tammy Peters from Drunmore likes to watch the cows and get stuff to eat—especially funnel cakes—at the Solanco Fair. She and her brother Ryan won ribbons for the marigolds and begonias that they entered at the Fair. Tammy is the daughter of Sharon and Ray Peters. Tammy said that she likes to watch her dad sell John Deere tractors at the Fair.



Five-year-old Tiffany Dean shows off her Dorset lamb that was named champion lightweight at the Solanco Fair.

Eight-year-old John Schmidt handed out ribbons and trophies at the Solance Sheep Show. He was really happy to give a blue ribbon to his sister, Jessica, who placed first in the junior sheep fitting competition. "I didn't think she would win because it was the first time she showed," John said. The children's parents are Pete and Laura Schmidt of Drumore.

Retirement Choices That Add Meaning

The state of Pennsylvania has one of the highest senior citizen populations in the United States. In 1986, it ranked fourth. We anticipated that the figures will increase as 1990 census data are announced.

I've found that many people dream of retirement practically from the time they begin working. For farm families, that means passing on the family property to a son or daughter.

Retirement is a transition time that tends to produce some stress as a couple or an individual works out a new pattern of living. Something as little as having lunch together or having someone interrupt a cleaning routine can be quite unsettling after 30 or 40 years of stability and control.

If you've just experienced such a change, you may be nodding in agreement. Just like many people have never been coached on how to manage money until they're in their twenties or aren't encouraged to hold and care for babies until they have their own newborn in their arms, many people have never been advised about how to retire successfully. If they have, the conversations usually revolve around investments and deal minimally with relationships and change.

But with or without advice, change will come. It is a person's or a couple's privilege to face the challenge and prepare for a POSITIVE new era or to plunge into the stage blindly with no second thought.

If you have entered the retirement years and are finding the years dissatisfying, consider these suggestions:

1. Talk to your spouse or others in your home once each week to plan a schedule. Be sure to schedule time alone and time together with your spouse or friends.

2. Make some goals. If you are bored, contact a community college or volunteer association to see how you can contribute. If you nare exhausted, schedule quiet time in the park or plan a leisurely cup of coffee with one or two special friends.

3. Be firm about babysitting for family. Tell children how frequently you will do it. Say "No" when your energy is down or when you want to do other things.

It's easy to get caught up in the call to volunteer once you've entered retirement. Volunteering is great. But be sure to volunteer for things that you WANT to do, for things that matter to you.

Too often, the dreams of leisurely vacation get lost in urgent family demands for caregiving and financial constraints. Take positive steps to plan for a rewarding trip or long-desired purchase. Keep learning and growing and changing. That's what makes life interesting.

If you are fortunate to be approaching retirement or are scaling down the farm business, these are some ideas to prepare you for the new life.

1. Make at least one new friend this year.

2. Explore a new hobby or become involved in a civic group.

3. Develop a friendship with at least one person that is 10 or more years younger than you. Spend some time talking with your spouse about how things may change during retirement. Talk with a recent retiree and learn from his or her experience.

4. Read a book or take a class to learn something new.

5. Make an extra effort to communicate with your children and grandchildren and to keep up on their activities and concerns.

Whether you have already entered retirement or whether you are still anticipating those years, remember that you make daily choices about your time and your friendships. Keep thinking about what matters the most and make those few things top priority.

Educating Pregnant Teens

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Teenage pregnancy is an important time to make sure both mother and baby are healthy. This includes meeting nutrient requirements, adequate weight gain, and avoiding drugs and alcohol.

A pregant teen is not only faced with the needs of their maturing body, but also the needs of their developing baby. Many issues concern the pregnant teen such as accepting the pregnancy, body image, peer relationships, relationship with the father of the child, economic considerations, and prenatal care. "Eating For A Better Start," was recently designed by the Penn State Cooperative Extension Expanded Food Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) especially for the pregnant teen. Educating the adolescent in adequate weight gain, meeting nutrient requirements, effects of drug and alcohol abuse, and current infant feeding practices are taught by the Penn State Nutrition Education Advisors to individuals or groups, free of charge.

If you are a pregnant teen or know a pregnant teen who could benefit from "Eating For A Better Start," contact the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office, 925 Court Street, Honesdale, PA 18431. Phone 717-253-5970 ext. 239. A healthy pregnancy will give you and your baby a better start on a bright and healthy future.

Melanie Dietrich Talks About Role As Cumberland Dairy Princess

BETH WHITMAN PITZER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

NEWBERG, (Cumberland Co.) — Melanie Dietrich makes quite an impressive dairy princess. A senior at Shippensburg Area Senior High School, Melanie is a active young lady both at school and as Cumberland County Dairy Princess. She is the daughter of Bill and Susan Dietrich. She was crowned the 24th Dairy Princess for Cumberland County on June 21. Her mother comments that "She's a good dairy princess because she drinks so much milk. And when she goes out she asks for real cheese on pizza."

Melanie owns 60 milking cows which are registered Jerseys and has 62 young stock on their family farm. Melanie's herd of cows was bought when she was six years old. Twenty of the original twenty-two are inner bred.

So far she's enjoyed giving out ribbons to winners at the South Central Pennsylvania Holstein Show and the South Central FFA Show. Here and at other events, Melanie works cooperatively with seven other local dairy princesses to promote dairy and cheese products at Festival Foods Stores in the Harrisburg area. Melanie enjoys giving out milk punch and telling people what's in it. She was also busy representing her commodity at Ag Progress Days in State College.

Melanie is looking forward to school promotions this fall where she takes a cow with her. Her calm manner sparkled as she shared that the kid's "get excited and listen."

In addition to being Dairy Princess, Melanie is the Pennsylvania Jersey Queen. Her role is to give out ribbons and to promote the Jersey breed. As a natural progression of this role, she'd like to enter the National Pageant in Louisville for the National Jersey Jug Queen.

In school she's active in French Club, National Honor Society, and SADD. She runs Cross Country and Track with her sister, Emily who is 14 years old. Cross Country keeps them running six miles a day when they're home! That began with the beginning of school.

Outside of school, Melanie is a 4-H Ambassador. The goal of this program is to promote 4-H in the county by getting other kids involved. She's taken projects in Veterinary Science and participated in the Dairy Bowl Team. She's president of the Blue Mountain Club which is mostly a Dairy Club.

Melanie sporting a three-day old calf. The calf was not yet named, but is very sure-footed and playful.

Believe it or not, Melanie is also a Girl Scout! This is her eleventh year in the program. Her goal this year is to work on the Gold Award Project which is a big community service project. She's thinking she'll choose an environmental issue. Her commitment to this program is complemented by her mother, who is the leader of their senior troop.

In unstructured time, Melanie really enjoys "hanging out with friends" that she doesn't see in the summer. When Melanie does stay home, she enjoys reading a mystery, romance, or scienc fiction book. Her younger sister, Emily likes helping her out on the farm. She also has two brothers, Ian is 10 and Tristan is 9.

Melanie's family owns 100-acres next to the State Game Lands. The topsoil in this northwestern part of Cumberland County is shallow and is predominately shale. They grow small grains, pasture, and sorghum. It's been a bad year for them. Rain drains fast in shale soil, so weekly rain is needed. Most of the farmers in this part of the county have moved out. Most existing ones are hobby farmers.

Even though the soil and weather aren't conducive to the best farming, the family has enjoyed living close to Shippensburg, Chambersburg, and Carlisle. They especially enjoy absorbing the culture of the Smithsonian in Washington D.C.

Melanie and her mother shared that the Cumberland County Dairy Princess Committee is very committed. Wilma Roller is Melanie's booking agent and transports her to most of her dairy princess' events.

In the future, Melanie would like to study dairy science at Virginia Tech. Her career goal at this point is to get involved with "anything in the dairy industry".

Kits Available For Farmers' Use

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Information kits, designed to help agriculture speak out on food safety and environmental issues, are now available from FoodWatch.

"We call them action kits because they contain practical tools to help farmers, ranchers and other agri-professionals address issues facing agriculture in their communities," says Judy O'Hara, executive director of Foodwatch, a national public awareness and education program designed to build public confidence in the food and fiber industries.

O'Hara says the action kits contain: a guide describing effective messages to communicate to consumers on agricultural issues; speeches for farm and non-farm audiences; publicity news releases; editorials/letters-to-the-editor; FoodWatch pledge decals; fact cards; answers to the most commonly asked questions about agriculture and food safety, and advertisements suitable for farm and non-farm publications.

O'Hara says the action kits are designed for anyone in agriculture.

"You don't need to be an accomplished speaker to put the kits to good use," says O'Hara.

While the kits provide the necessary materials to help a farmer or rancher make a presentation to a community group, O'Hara also says they offer helpful tips and advice that farmers can use during informal conversations with their urban or suburban neighbors, friends and relatives.

"Consumers are confused and concerned about the safety of their food," says O'Hara. "Too much of the public debate about food safety has been led by movie stars and television personalities rather than America's farmers and ranchers.

"Farmers have a reservoir of credibility that can be a valuable asset in reaching consumers," continues O'Hara. "They can help influence public opinion and communicate agriculture's side of the story in the food safety and environmental debate."

Launched in early 1990, O'Hara says the FoodWatch program has experienced a very satisfying 18 months. She says the program has been successful in building an industry-wide constituency and attracting support from all segments of agriculture and all areas of the country.

O'Hara says FoodWatch also has received strong support in getting its "Amazing Grace" commercial shown on television. Set to the background music of "Amazing Grace," the commercial is a moving tribute to the abundance of America's food supply. To date, the commercial has received more than $1.5 million of television play — all donated by people in the industry.

Anyone who wishes to obtain a FoodWatch Action Kit should call (202) 682-9203.

Day-in, day-out durability

New Holland grinder-mixers work hard every day . . . providing the feeding efficiency you've come to expect from the industry leader.

Surveys show owners rate New Holland grinder-mixers as the most durable. The rugged hammermill gives you unmatched capacity. Thick plates welded to the heavy-duty hammermill shaft, support the hardened hammers making the mill strong, durable, and smooth-running. Three hammermill sizes match your tractor power—16⅛", 21⅜" and 25".

Durability for long life . . . that's why Ford New Holland's mills continue to be the market leader. New Holland durability also means great value at trade-in time. Choose from four models, from 80- to 150-bushel capacity. Stop in and see one today.

Stahl of Somerset County as the Miss Congeniality winner.

Scrapbooks awards of $50 each went to Penny Jordan of York and Onalee Smith of Mercer County for the most creative and neat compilation of their dairy-related activities.

As Pennsylvania Dairy Princess, Robin receives a $1,200 scholarship and each state alternate $600.

After graduation from high school, Robin plans to study dairy animal husbandry and communications at Morrisville College in N.Y.

"Being a dairy princess is great training," Robin said. She credits her two-year stint as a 4-H ambassador for developing her speaking ability.

Robin is the daughter of Arlyn and Arlene Wilbur who own a 110-acre farm in LeRaysville. Robin works with the breeding and registry of the 103-head Holstein herd.

"I want to give back to the dairy industry all that its given to me. Dairying is our way of life. Without dairy products what would life be like?"

Robin takes ag classes as a senior at Northeast Bradford High School where she said they have the best ag program in the county.

Several years ago, Robin started showing cattle. She is so enthusiastic about it that she got three of her cousins and her brother, Jeff, interested in showing. The cousins, who don't live on a farm, move in with the Wilbur family over the summer so that they can care and show the animals they have purchased and keep on Robin's farm. The close-knit group show in county fairs in the state and in N.Y.

Contestants for the state dairy princess program must have won their county title before participating in the state pageant. They must come from a dairy farm or a dairy related background, own dairy animals or they or their parents must be employed in the dairy industry. They must be single between the ages of 16 and 24.

At the state pageant, each county princess is individually interviewed. Judges also closely observe candidates during meals and informal gatherings throughout two days. The seven finalists are selected from these observations. The finalists then are judged by their answers to the impromtu questioning during the pageant.

New York Dairy Princess Jessica Chittenden

In other business during the pageant, Terry Hill, 1990-91 Lebanon County Dairy Princess received the Tina Schultz Memorial Award of $300 and a plaque. The award is given annually to the county dairy princess judged to have done the most outstanding job of serving her county on behalf of the dairy industry. Terry made more than 300 appearances, wrote 30 articles for publication, made 158 classroom presentation and appeared in 47 store and mall promotions. The award is given in memory of the 1985-86 Huntingdon Dairy Princess who did an outstanding job of promoting the dairy industry while fighting a losing battle with cancer.

In her farewell speech as the reigning princess, Kristin Metzker said the past year was one of unbelievable opportunities to serve the dairy industry. She told the audience that she intended to continue promoting the dairy industry especially when she became a TV newscaster. "I'll make you the biggest known industry in the nation," she promised.

Judges for the pageant were James F. Cavanaugh of American Jersey Cattle Club, Ohio; Gayle Carlson of Select Sires, Tennessee; Diedra Johnson of Holstein World, N.Y.; and Becky Powell, of Unicorn Associates, Md.

Scrapbook judges were Dieter Krieg, Lititz; and Lenore Meila, Columbus.

- Helps conserve valuable soil, fertilizer and water.
- Reduces compaction
- Improves manure management
- Reduces run-off
- Promotes extended stand life.

"In the last two years we put in alfalfa with a nurse crop of spring triticale and field peas. The Aer-Way and flexible chain harrow were the only tillage used. The alfalfa seedlings are the best we've ever had."

RICK & KATHIE ARNOLD
Twin Oaks Farm
Truxton, New York

"My dairy farm is located on rolling terrain in Reedsburg, Wisconsin. After the first cutting, I used the Aer-Way on my thinning alfalfa stand to get the fertilizer and water into the ground. The second cutting was noticeably better with thicker and leafier alfalfa. I would recommend the Aer-Way to other dairy farmers."

DAVID RABOINE
Dairy Farmer
Reedsburg, Wisconsin

"I have better pastures since I started using the Aer-Way to aerate and renovate my pastures. Using the Aer-Way has helped me get the nutrients where they are needed. I would not recommend fertilizing or liming without running the Aer-Way first.

Ten Most Asked Questions About Lamb

• Why is American lamb a good value? Lamb has been refabricated to yield more versatile, labor-saving cuts, thus making it less labor-intensive, simpler and more economical to prepare and serve.

• To what kind of consumer does American lamb appeal most? Statistics show the lamb consumer is young, affluent, well-educated and enjoys a variety of new foods.

• Is American lamb a "healthy" food? Yes. American lamb has an excellent nutritional profile, fitting in with the trend toward lighter, leaner and healthier foods. American lamb is also nutrient dense, meaning it provides a large share of nutrients for relatively few calories. A three-ounce serving of lean lamb averages only 176 calories and is a good source of iron, protein, zinc, niacin and B vitamins.

Only about 56 percent of the fat in lamb is saturated, and the rest is mono or polysaturated. A three-ounce serving of lamb contains only 78 milligrams of cholesterol.

• Why do Americans prefer domestic lamb over foreign lamb? Primarily, because they prefer the taste of American lamb. American lamb has a milder and more delicate flavor than foreign lamb, often describes as "lambier" or gamey in taste. American lamb also is preferred because the cuts are bigger and have a higher meat-to-bone ratio than foreign lamb.

• Is American lamb available year-round? Yes, available year-round, lambs are produced in every state in the nation, coming to market in a steady stream. Production varies by less than 20 percent form the peak month to the lowest production month. There are more than 100,000 U.S. lamb producers, dedicated to providing a constant supply of fresh, high quality lamb.

• What lamb cuts can I serve other than racks and chops? American lamb is available in a variety of cuts to help create many exciting menu and serving possibilities well beyond the traditional rack and chop. Primal and suprimal cuts come in single, chef-ready portions including bone-in and bone-out shoulders, legs and saddles as well as boneless Saratoga roll, boneless sirloin, tenderloin, kabob and stew cubes, dinner ribs and Denver ribs.

• For what type of cuisine is American lamb best suited? Because it's versatile, lamb is compatible with almost any menu. No longer just upscale dining, lamb fits into everyday eating and many recipes require preparation time of no more than 30 minutes. Barbequed lamb ribs, lamb salad, stir fried lamb and lamb stew are less common ways to use lamb, but work perfectly with today's eating styles. Discover the delicious and healthy contribution lamb can make to traditional fare whether ethnic or American dishes. Lamb also works great for dieters looking for an alternative healthy, low calorie food high in protein and iron.

• Does American lamb require special seasonings or cooking methods? No. Depending on the cut and recipe, it can be cooked using virtually any method including broiling, roasting, braising, barbequing, stir frying, sauteing and stewing. Lazb does not require special seasonings. While it has a classic affinity for many spices and herbs, it requires only simple seasoning.

Lamb is best when cooked to an internal temperature of 140 to 150 degrees F. Overcooking lamb a common mistake, can diminish its flavor and texture.

• Is lamb popular? Yes. Statistics show that food service consumption of lamb has increased more than 50 percent in the past five years. A separate study indicates that lamb is the second-fastest growing meat item in foodservice.

• How does American lamb fit in with future food trends?. American lamb makes a perfect fit in the return to simpler, more basic ooking and classical dishes, healthy and nutritional foods, signature dishes and food indigenous to America.

ABOUT THE NEW FAT SUBSTITUTES

The food industry has finally manufactured a fat that passes through your body without being digested and without leaving a calorie behind.

One of the new fat substitutes introduced on the market is a synthetic material resistant to digestive enzymes. Proctor and Gamble's Olestra is a sucrose polyester that cannot be broken apart by human digestives juices.

Do not expect to find packages of Olestra and other fat substitutes on your favorite supermarket shelves. These products will be used exclusively by the food industry to manufacture low-fat, baked, fried, frozen and unheated prepared foods.

Food processors introduced more than 1,000 new reduced-fat items in 1990, a 64 percent increase over 1989. Most of these new products are manufactured using ingredients which duplicate the features of fats and oils but do not contribute as many calories.

Consumers can expect to pay more for the products that contain fat substitutes. But the health benefits may be worth it.

On the average, Americans get 37 percent of their calories from fat. To reduce the risk of heart disease and certain cancers, nutrition experts recommend we restrict fat to 30 percent of total calories consumed daily.

Low-fat products made with the new fat substitutes may be more palatable than reduced-fat food items previously on the market. Manufacturers used to produce low-fat products by incremental reduction of fat content, leading to products such as light salad dressings and ready-to-eat desserts. Now fat substitutes are used to develop new products on an individual basis.

No single fat substitute will work in all food products. A substitute that contributes a good taste to ice cream may not have the stability to work in chocolate cake.

The food processor has to consider how the substitute will work in combination with other ingredients and how it contributes to flavor, appearance, storage, stability, and ease of handling in the manufacture of the product.

Most of the substitutes are formed from "natural" ingredients treated or modified in some way. NutraSweet's Simplesse and Kraft's Trailblazer are made from modified milk or egg protein to simulate the creaminess of fat. Pfizer's Litesse Polydextrose is made of dextrose and small amounts of sorbitol and citric acid, producing a bulking agent that can partially replace fat.

All fat substitutes on the market have been approved by the Food and Drug Administration and are safe to eat in moderation. But whether they will be accepted by the public or help promote healthier diets remains to be seen.

Chocolate Milk Meets Kids' Needs

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Children who drink chocolate milk consume more milk (and therefore calcium) than children who drink unflavored milk, according to a recent study conducted at New York University. This study also found that kids who drank chocolate milk "came close to meeting their recommended calorie quota without getting too much fat in their diet."

Fun and Exercise Go Hand In Hand

While many adults look at physical exercise as a task, adults should be teaching children that exercise is fun. Children have a better chance of continuing exercise into their adult lives. Endurance, stomach strength, arm strength and flexibility are all important components of a child's exercise plan.

Back To School Means Back To Regular Snacking

Children need calorie boosts throughout the day to meet the energy needs of their growing bodies. Preschoolers are apt to need both a morning and afternoon snack, while school-age children tend to snack after school and in the evening. Studies show that 40 percent of all children snack after school and 50 percent snack again at night. Zanecosky states, "Older children are busy, often going from school to ballgames or music lessons, so they need nutritious take-along snacks. Quick snacks, such as small containers of yogurt,fresh fruit, string cheese or cheese chunks fit the bill for all ages."

Bed, Breakfast Workshop

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — The Penn State Cooperative Extension will be offering a 2-day workshop entitled "The Inns and Outs of Bed and Breakfast" on October 2 and 9, at Penn State Harrisburg in Middletown. Sessions will last on both days from 9:00 to 4:00. Business planning, health sanitation, regulations, hospitality, market planning promotion and insurance will be covered. The session will also feature a presentation on farm vacation homes and a slide tour of three local Bed and Breadfasts.

The registration fee ($30) covers materials and lunches for both days. For more information or registration material, please contact the York County Extension Office (717-757-9657)

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Last night we had a short but severe thunderstorm. One bolt shook the whole house, burned the insulation off the telephone wires, and charred the chairboard in our bedroom. Needless to say, we got out of bed and checked the house from basement to attic twice.

I keep a flashlight beside my bed for just such an occasion. After Allen replaced several fuses, we had light again. However, the bolt of lightning was too much for our big television and now it must be repaired. I know that my parents were almost religiously committed to pulling the plugs on all electrical appliances before they went to bed at night for fear a storm would catch them unprepared. We should have been so vigilant.

As a child I remember another storm that caught my sister and I unprepared. We had gone to the meadow to pick raspberries when the storm broke. So we took refuge from the rain on the porch of a nearby summer cottage. What followed scared us more than the wind and lightning. We heard pounding and more pounding on the tin roof over our heads. It took us a few minutes to figure out that green walnuts were being blown off trees and were hitting the roof. I do believe we finished picking before going home though.

One year we had an unusual number of storms, and lightning struck three barns within one mile of our farm. They all burned to the ground. It is at times like these that one realizes how little control one has over nature. We were lucky that nothing worse happened to us last night.

Pa. Finest Tailgate Offers Entertaining Ideas

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania commodity organizations are offering several recipes for tailgate entertaining this fall season. These new foods will be featured at the fourth annual "Pennsylvania's Finest Tailgate," held just outside of Beaver Stadium, on the Penn State University Campus, Saturday, September 28, prior to the Penn State/Boston College football Game.

Visitors to the tailgate will be able to sample breaded mushrooms, lamb fajitas, honey mustard pork tenderloin, beef and asparagus appetizers, cheesy football fonduta, and maple syrup sundaes. The tailgate area will also feature some of Pennsylvania's finest nursery products including shrubs, Christmas trees, and other growing plants.

The tailgate, now in its fourth year, promotes Pennsylvania produced agricultural products by providing special recipes and information to consumers.

This special feast, to be located near the Beaver Stone at the south end of the stadium, is sponsored by the following Pennsylvania commodity organizations: PA Christmas Tree Growers, PA Dairy Promotion Program, PA Maple Syrup Producers, PA Mushroom Growers, PA Nurserymen's Association, PA Pork Producers Council, and the PA Sheep and Lamb Marketing Program.

The tailgate begins at 10:30 a.m. and all samples are free to the public on a first come, first served basis. Brochures featuring the sampled recipes will be available at the tailgate. Some of these recipes follow. Additional information about the tailgate is available by calling (717) 787-6903.

Honey Mustard Tenderloin

1 whole pork tenderloin, about one pound
4 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Combine all ingredients but tenderloin; coating tenderloin well with sauce. Roast for 20 to 30 minutes, basting occasionally, until meat thermometer registers 155 to 160 degrees F. Slice thinly to serve. 4 servings.

Cheesy Football Fonduta

1/2 cup apple juice
1 cup (4 onces) shredded mozzarella Cheese
3/4 cup (3 onces) shredded provolone cheese
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/8 teaspoon onion powder
Crusty French bread cubes
Assorted bite-sized fresh vegetables
Pretzels

Place apple juice in pyrex measuring cup. Microwave on High (100%) 1 to 1 1/2 minutes, or until just boiling. Meanwhile, combine cheeses, flour and seasonings in medium-sized microwaveable bowl. Stir hot apple juice into cheese mixture. Microwave on Medium-High (70%) 3 to 5 minutes, or until mixture is smooth. Whisk 2 to 3 times. Serve immediately with bread cubes, vegetables or pretzels. Yeild - 1 cup

Beef and Asparagu Hors D' Oeuvres

3 to 4 pounds beef tenderloin
50 spears asparagus, thin, 3 inches long
1-1.5 cups cream cheese
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
3 tablespoons horseradish, drained
50 scallion sprigs or chives virgin olive oil, to taste rosemary, to taste kosher salt, to taste cracked black pepper, to taste
fresh garlic, to taste

Rub filet with olive oil, rosemary, salt pepper, and garlic, making sure that filet is well coated. Cover or place in zip-lock bag and marinate, refrigerated, overnight. Brown filet in skillet until well browned. Roast in hot (400 F) oven to desired doneness (135 to 140 F). Cover and chill thoroughly. Blanch asparagus spears quickly in salted boiling water. Do not overcook. Cool in ice water bath. Cream the cheese, blend in the parsley and horseradish. Blanch scallion sprigs or chives quickly and ummerse in ice water bath. Thinly slice chilled filet and lay out on waxed paper. Spread each slice with cream cheese-horseradish mixture. Place asparagus spear on each slice so tip is exposed. Roll each slice and tie with scallion sprig or chive. Chill covered until serving. Blanched, marinated green beans can be substituted for asparagus. Yield: 50 appetizer portions.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Baby Beef

The Cumberland County 4-H Baby Beef Club held its regular meeting on September 16 at the West Pennsboro Fire Hall in Plainfield.

Members who sold their projects at the roundup were asked to hand in their project books at this meeting.

Members were also told that there were some members planning to attend the Eastern National Livestock Show and the Keystone International Livestock Exposition.

The next meeting will be on November 18 at the West Pennsboro Fire Hall in Plainfield. There will be a talk on the proper way to feed show steers.

Big Knob 4-H

The bidding competition between the Rochester Giant Eagle and East Rochester Shop N' Save promised the crowd an evening of pure excitement at the second annual Big Knob 4-H Livestock Club auction, Big Knob Grange Fair, recently.

The cheering crowd and the friendly prodding by announcer Doug Martin and the "Colonel" Sherman Hostetter added to the excitement. The Grociers exchanged smiles and continued the business at hand.

When Hostetter Auctioneer Service of Beaver Falls, who donated their services, said "Sold", the 285-pound market hog raised by Maria Kretschmann, Rochester, went to Rochester Giant Eagle for $6.10 per pound. Maria received a grand champion trophy donated by Kenneth and Nancy Bonzo Livestock Hauling, Fombell, and a trophy for the highest rate of gain, 2.297 pounds per day, from Young's Custard Stand, New Brighton.

East Rochester Shop N' Save took the reserve grand champion hog raised by Matthew Schomburg, Rochester. His 260-pound Yorkshire brought $2.55 per pound. Matthew's trophy was donated by Economy Superette, Freedom.

As the cheering increased, so did the bidding, as East Rochester Shop N' Save purchased Brandi Holten's 110-pound Suffolk lamb for $12 per pound. Brandi's trophy was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Skultety and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Berger.

Charen Leonberg, Rochester, raised the 129-pound Suffolk reserve grand champion lamb bought by Fritsch Farm Supply, Rochester, for $5 per pound. Mr. and Mrs. Andy Fritsch donated the lamb back to the club for resale. Charen's trophy was donated by the Moran Family of Beaver Falls.

The 300-pound Holstein grand champion veal calf was raised by Amy Dietrich, Freedom. East Rochester Shop N' Save purchased the veal calf for $7 per pound. Amy's trophy was donated by Bonzo Garage, Rochester. Amy's veal calf also won the trophy for the highest rate of gain per day, 3.30 pounds. This trophy was donated by the Sluder Family, New Brighton.

Rochester Giant Eagle purchased Trisha Woroszylo's 240-pound Holstein veal calf for $6.20 per pound. Trisha, New Brighton, received her trophy from Sunflower Hardware, New Brighton.

When Alison Scheel, Freedom, entered the ring with her 1,267-pound Limousin cross grand champion steer, little did she know that the grociers battle was just beginning. Alison's steer sold for $6 per pound to Rochester Giant Eagle.

Young's Dairy, Rochester, donated the grand champion trophy. Alison's last year 4-H came to an exciting conclusion as her steer also won the rate of gain trophy for a daily rate of gain of 2.322 pounds, donated by Fritsch Farm Supply.

Alison also received a trophy donated by Oak Hill Vets, New Brighton, for showmanship in market steers and a trophy for showmanship in market hogs donated by the Graham Family, Rochester.

East Rochester Shop N' Save bought the remaining reserve champion animal owned by John Vidovich, Midland. His 1,050-pound Polled Hereford steer sold for $3.35 per pound. John received a trophy from Seldom Seen Dairy in memory of Clifford Allen Teets, Freedom. John also won a trophy donated by the Sluder Family, New Brighton, for showmanship in market veal calves.

Rachel Stroupe, Rochester, won the rate of gain trophy for her 150-pound Suffolk lamb, which gained .90 pounds per day. Her trophy was donated by About Face Ltd., Pittsburgh.

Robert W. Lewis III, Rochester, received a trophy donated by Wright's Meat Packing, Fombell, for showmanship in market lambs.

Sale averages without the grand and reserve champions were $1.47 per pound for hogs, $1.80 for lambs, $1.73 per pound for veal calves, and $1.19 for steers.

The 33 members offered 55 animals for auction. Of these animals, nine were bought and donated back to the livestock club for resale, for a total donation to the club of $1,621.50. The buyers that donated animals back to the club include Rochester Giant Eagle, Knob Vue Estates-Bill Stroupe, Freedom, Fritsch Farm Supply, Rochester, Penn West Farm Credit Service, New Castle, Diamond Milling, New Brighton, Wright's Meat Packing, Fombell, and Oxbow Farm Equipment, New Brighton.

The 1991 board of directors and leaders include Brian Robinson, Vivian and Leslie Leonberg, Barbara and Lee Deafenbaugh, Linda Woloshan, Debbie Stroupe, Sam Landis, Neil Bonzo, Ted Parks and Jane Lewis.

The youth council members are Jennifer Bonzo, Fred Scheel, Rachel Stroupe, and Brian Leonberg.

Winners of the fundraising events were Rachel and Charles Stroupe, Brian and Charen Leonberg, Rachael and Renee Fabyanic and Jessica Landis. These children were presented with polo shirts with the club ensignia for outstanding work in raising funds for their club. All of the members were presented with club hats for their good work throughout the year.

Cumberland Co. 4-H

The Cumberland County 4-H Goat Club met on September 4 at the home of Andy and Addison Rook. There were eight members present.

A report was given by the Rooks on Expo that was held at the MJ Mall. Kelli Zeigler gave a demonstration on proper methods of tatooing. Billy Leib's demonstration was preparing a goat for the show ring. Bobby Glennon

Sullivan County 4-H Livestock Show and Sale

The 1991 Sullivan County 4-H Livestock Show was held on August 29 at 4:30 pm at the Sullivan County Fair.

In the breeding sheep category, Kateri Gardner received a blue ribbon, first, and supreme champion for her Suffolk ewe. Receiving blue ribbons were Amy Warburton and Sandy Pardoe.

Stacy Raub received a white and third and Sylvia Pardoe a red and second. In the ram breeding sheep catagory, Kateri Gardner received a blue and supreme champion for her suffolk ram. Patty Molyneux received a blue.

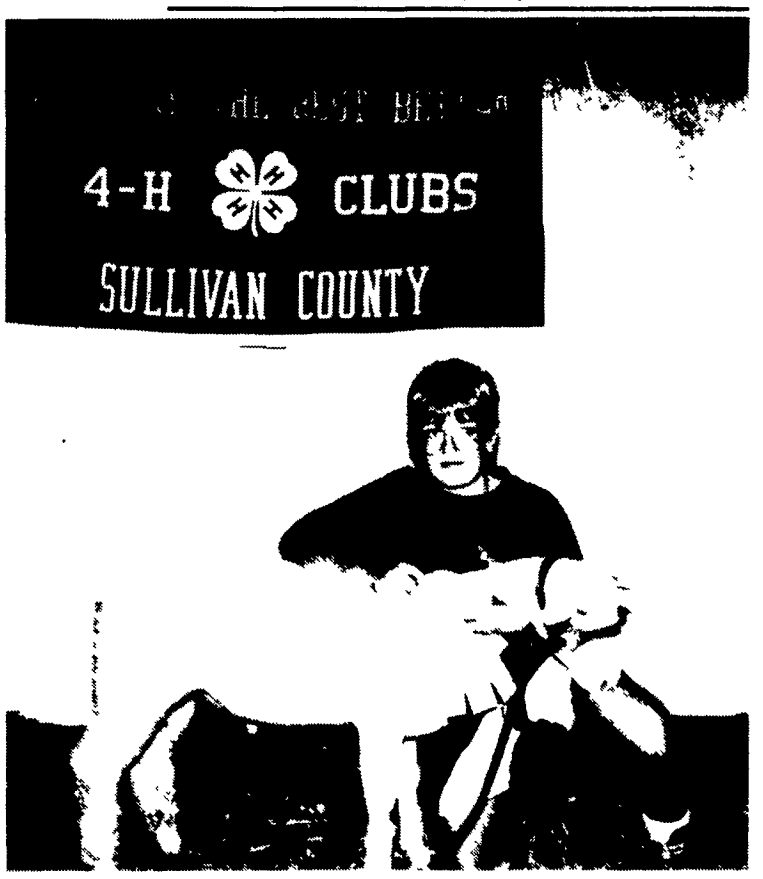
In the market lamb class, grand champion was Kateri Gardner, and reserve champion went to Brian Warburton. Master Fitter went to Kateri Gardner with master showman going to Patty Molyneux.

Receiving bule ribbons and first place in the market lamb class were Kateri Gardner, Jamie Bagley, Mariah Bagley, Ryan Baldwin, Darrick Higley, and Stephanie Pardoe.

Receiving red ribbons and second place were Shana Raub, Brian Warburton, and Mike Baldwin. Patty Molyneux received a white ribbon and third.

In the market hog classes, grand champion was Christina Lund's hog, and reserve champion was Bryan Lund's hog. Master fitter went to Christina Lund. Master showman went to Todd Molyneux. Receiving blue ribbons were Christina Lund, Todd Molyneux, and Rebekah Lund. Receiving red ribbons were Bryan Lund, Ben Goshow, and Theresa Lund.

In the market steer class, there were two entries. Abby Reeser received a blue ribbon and grand champion for her market steer and Kim King received a red ribbon, second place, and reserve champion. Abby won the master fitter contest and Kim took master showman.



Brian Warburton won reserve champion market lamb at the Sullivan Co. 4-H Livestock Show.

Lancaster County 4-H Woolies

Three Lancaster County 4-H Clubs gave a new twist to their monthly meetings for September.

The 4-H Woolies, Swine, and Beef Clubs met jointly for a "buyers' appreciation" picnic. It was held Sunday, September 8 at 1 p.m. at the West Lampeter Fairgrounds, Lampeter.

The picnic was held in honor of the people who have bought lambs, hogs, and steers at our 4-H sales. Members from all three clubs were invited, along with their families.

The club enjoyed a meal of three different meats — lamb, pork, and beef — and all the trimmings. The meal was catered by Fred Frey and his family. The club expresses their appreciation to The Freys for all their hard work.

Members of the three clubs extend a sincere "thank you" to all the buyers and their families who were able to attend the picnic.

Manufacturers Expand Farm Safety

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The North American Equipment Dealers Association and the Equipment Manufacturers Institute recently announced plans to expand programs that will place added emphasis on the safety features of equipment.

The plans will also promote communication encouraging owners and operators to give increased attention to operating the equipment safely.

"Day after day, we read news clippings of accidents that could have been avoided if tractors were equipped with rollover protective structures (ROPS), if guards and shields had been kept in place, and if children had not been allowed to be on or too near the machinery," said Cal Schacht, president of Clay Equipment Company and chairman of the Equipment Manufacturers Institute's Safety Policy Advisory Committee.

"ROPS have been available since 1969 for almost all tractors, and many companies provide replacement guards and shields," Schacht said, "and while we are observing positive results with safety day camps, parents are the final intervention where the children are concerned!"

Bill Fullerton, an Indiana dealer and chairman of the NAEDA safety committee, reported that dealers throughout the nation will be initiating "safety checks" on equipment passing through their repair shops and on used equipment being made available for resale.

"Recent events indicate a growing interest and awareness by farmers in the area of safety," Fullerton said, "and we believe dealers, working with other groups at the local community level, is one way for us to challenge the unacceptable rate of accidents occurring on farms and ranches."

Schacht has worked extensively in supporting a community-based approach to farm safety and health in a special pilot program at Sartori Memorial Hospital in Cedar Falls, Iowa. He points out that, while many safety initiatives have been implemented over the years, having a local delivery system that addresses the issues associated with the health and well-being of farm families and farm workers, including safety, looks like the way to get the best results.

Fullerton reported that the Iowa/Nebraska Dealers Association had taken the "Sartori" concept as a model and would be expanding it to many communities in the two-state area.

"We are especially interested in the safety day-camp program that involves kids 9 to 13 years old," he said.

Begun only three years ago by Sartori, attendance increased from 50 the first year to 300 three years later (which makes a total of 500 in 3 years).

"This tells us that there is a good opportunity to get youngsters involved," Fullerton said.

"We are very pleased with the results we've achieved in such a short time," Schacht said, speaking of his experience with the safety day camps. "As an example, most of the nation saw a recent newspaper picture of two children on a riding lawn mower used to illustrate how kids will be spending their summer. An 11-year-old from Waverly, Iowa wrote a letter to the editor pointing out how the situation pictured could cause accidents, based upon what he had learned at the 'safety camp' he attended earlier in the spring.

"Kids do listen and will learn about safety," Schacht said. "That is the best place to start!"

At a joint meeting of the executive committees of the two organizations held in conjunction with the NAEDA Annual Convention recently, EMI and NAEDA reported that their respective foundations would be announcing special grants to safety-related groups in the near future.

Schacht and Fullerton pointed out that manufacturers and dealers will be placing emphasis on safety by visiting attendees at farm shows throughout the fall and winter.

Spokesmen for both EMI and NAEDA stated that their respective members are being encouraged to use the upcoming National Farm Safety Week, Sept. 15-21, as a key date to begin intensified safety communication with equipment owners and operators.

For more information, contact John Crowley, director, safety programs, Equipment Manufacturers Institute, 10 S. Riverside Plaza, Chicago, IL 60606 or North American Equipment Dealers Association, 10877 Watson Road, St. Louis, MO 63127.

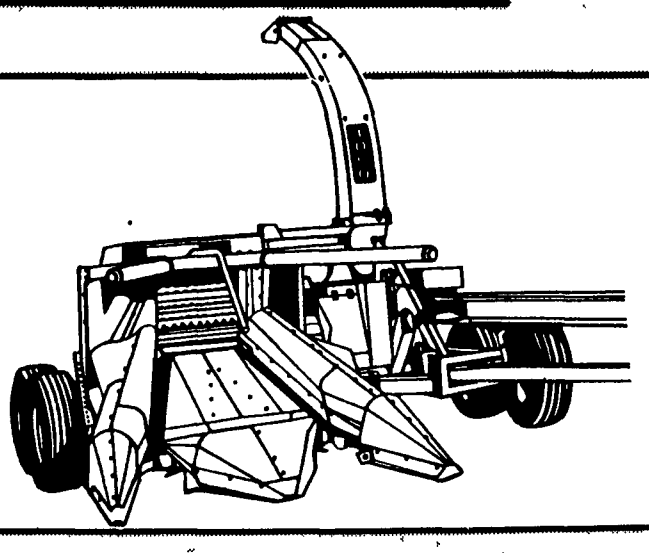
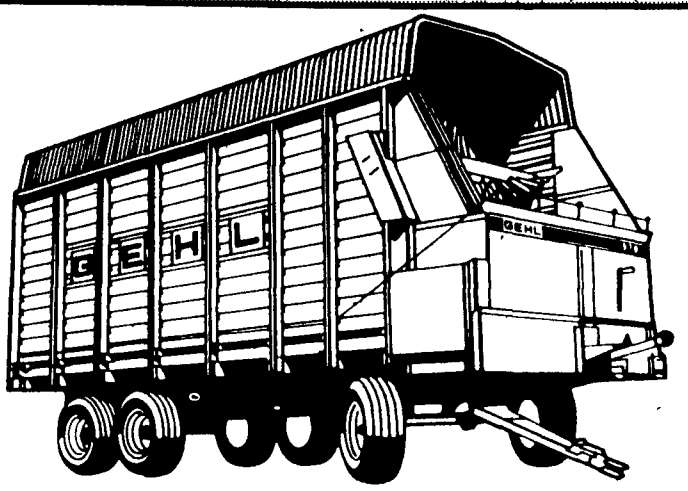
GEHL

Versatility Champ!

With a horsepower rating for maximum 200 hp, the Gehl 1060 features exclusive patented spinner delivery system that "jets" material from cylinder to blower in a continuous flow. Other features include overrunning clutch; in-head hydraulic knife sharpener that allows in-field knife sharpening and refacing of cutterbar, using tractor hydraulics; and single-station cutterbar adjustment. Auto-Max system, speed monitor, metal detector, haylage water tank optional! It's totally versatile! Make us prove it with a demonstration.





High Capacity...Fast Unloading

The Gehl 970 Series self-unloading forage box is a winner! You can't beat it for unloading speed, capacity, strength, ease of maintenance—and price! Ten-year warranty on sides, endgate, stakes and platform tells you a lot about its superior construction And the optional Even-Feed third beater plus a wide 23½ -inch cross conveyor give you the speed and capacity you're looking for. Available in five sizes. Stop in and look one over today!

Unparalleled Performers

The ultimate forage blowers are here - the Gehl 1540, 1560 and 1580. These blowers have been developed around the high capacity tradition of famous Gehl blowers. In addition to unmatched capacity, these blowers boast many convenience features - swing-away blower outlet, removable tunnel covers, replaceable rim sheet liner, adjustable left axle, quick-adjust air vents, PTO storage hanger and more. PUT A GEHL BLOWER TO THE TEST ON YOUR FARM TODAY!

New Alexandria
Outback Ag Club

Tom McAdams is one busy 4-H'er. Recently, Tom placed first with his demonstration at County Demonstration Night at Mt. View Church.

The seven-minute demonstration was entitled "More Pigs - More profit. The Care and Management of Baby Pigs." Having won in the 8-12-year-old division, Tom presented his demonstration on July 12 at the regional competition at Penn State Campus, New Kensington. When asked how he kept his cool when in front of people, Tom said, "I really don't get nervous as long as I know what I'm going to say ahead of time."

Tom also attended the regional livestock overnighter in Washington County. There they practiced showing cattle and learned the various things they have to do to get cattle ready for the fair.

Another 4-H activity Tom participated in was Regional 4-H Camp in Ligonier. Some of the activities were a trip to Fort Necessity and canoe racing. Tom said he really enjoyed meeting 4-H kids from all the other counties.

Tom McAdams

A member of the New Alexandria Outback Ag Club, Tom will be showing his pigs and cattle at the Westmoreland County Fair in August.

Perry County 4-H Dairy Show

The 1991 Perry County 4-H and FFA Dairy Show was held recently in conjunction with the Perry County Fair Dairy Show. Curtis Day, Shippensburg, judged the type show. Two breeds, Holsteins and Jerseys, were exhibited.

The FFA type show saw two senior 2-year-olds named as champions. Grand champion FFA honors went to Krista Byers, Millerstown with her Valiant son senior 2-year-old, while reserve grand champion FFA honors were captured by Meranda Dum, Landisburg, with her Astrojet senior 2-year-old. Junior champion FFA honors went to Steve Innerst, Ickesburg, with his Symbol intermediate yearling, while reserve junior FFA champion honors went to Mark Adair, Loysville with his Elevate senior yearling.

Grand champion and reserve grand champion Jersey honors went to Linda Rock, Landisburg, while 4-H grand and reserve grand champion honors went to Keith Leber of Blain.

Jennie Hess, York Co. dairy extension agent, judged the 4-H and FFA showmanship/fitting contest. Taking senior 4-H showman honors was Sarah Dum, Landisburg reserve senior 4-H showman honors went to Michelle Smith, Duncannon.

Champion junior 4-H showman honors went to Thomas Dum, Landisburg, while reserve junior 4-H showman honors went to Trisha Haas, Millerstown.

Best bred and owned Perry County 4-H Holstein owned by Neil HHertzler, Loysville.

• SPECIAL EVENING DAIRY SALE •

Thursday Evening, October 3, 1991 — 7:00

Selling at Kling's Sale Barn — Located 15 miles North of Carlisle on Route 74 — 2½ miles Northeast of Landisburg, PA.

Selling for Garnet H. Myers
1935 Coble Road, Chambersburg, Pa. (717-369-3530)

Complete Milking Herd and Bred Heifer Dispersal —

Consisting of 33 Mature Animals

6 Fresh in July and August, 7 Fresh in September, 7 Due for October, 12 Bred Heifers (Several Springing Close), 6 Dry Cows - Due for Fall Freshening.

(Auctioneer's Note)

This Dairy is a Tie Stall Herd - Certified and Accredited. All Cattle are Atlantic Sired and Bred - Calfhood Vaccinated - Home Raised. And Majority are First and Second Calf Heifers - No Bad Udders - Good Feet and Legs - Well cared for - Ready to Pay their Way - No Records, but Several animals Milking over 80 lbs. now and not being Pushed. This is a much better than Average Dairy - Don't Miss them.

Also Selling - (25 Fresh and Close Holsteins) for John Ocker,
4186 Gulford Springs Road, Chambersburg, PA (375-2449)

All Recently Fresh and Close Springing Holsteins in His Herd. This is a Free Stall Dairy - Tied to Milk - With 15 Recently Fresh Animals - Several Milking up to 80 lbs. plus. 10 Springing for October and November - 30 Day Blood and T.B. Test.

(Auctioneer's Note)

Mr. Ocker has decided to cut down his herd and allowed me to pick animals that would be the most desirable to sell at this time - They are young with approximately ½ selling being First and Second Time Animals that have the strength and breeding to go on and make outstanding replacements for your herd.

Also Selling for Art Kling

40 Head of mostly Registered Recently Fresh First and Second Calf Animals - Sired by TAB - Marlin - Valiant Sir - Deslacs He Man - Royal Majesty - Mirage - Hanover Hill Jethro - Midnight - Kay Elevator - Jubilee - Hanover Hill Classic.

Special Mention: 3 yr. old Deslacs Midnight Daughter - Due right around Sale Time to Casablanca - Scored C+ as 2 yr. old and looks easy VG now.
Records in Canada as 2 yr. old of over 14,000 with 4% Test.
This is one to definitely watch for.

Also from Seelby Farms, Ontario - a Dam and Daughter - Both recently Fresh. Dam by Majesty - Should score high VG and her Fancy Fresh daughter by Jubilee is milking close to 70 lbs. Nice animals - With 3 generations of VG and Excellents behind them.

Auctioneer Note: These animals were all personally selected by me for their youth - type production - and ability to develop into some of the best replacements available. V. Art Kling

Also Selling for Ted Small,
Chambersburg

20 Springing Holstein Heifers - Several Recently Fresh and 5 Springing Jersey Heifers. All from his recently dispersed herd.

Reisinger Brothers, Ickesburg, sends the balance of their open Grade Heifers - All AI Sire and Calfhood Vaccinated - Nice group of young cattle.

DOEBLER'S HYBRIDS AT '85 PRICES

by Willard Jones

I'm Willard Jones, Doebler's sales manager. Irrigation saved our crop but order early for a full selection. When times are tough our Doebler value looks better than ever.

That's right. Doebler's annual Turn the Clock Back sale is in full swing. At Spring 1985 prices. Write your own deal and watch these savings add up:

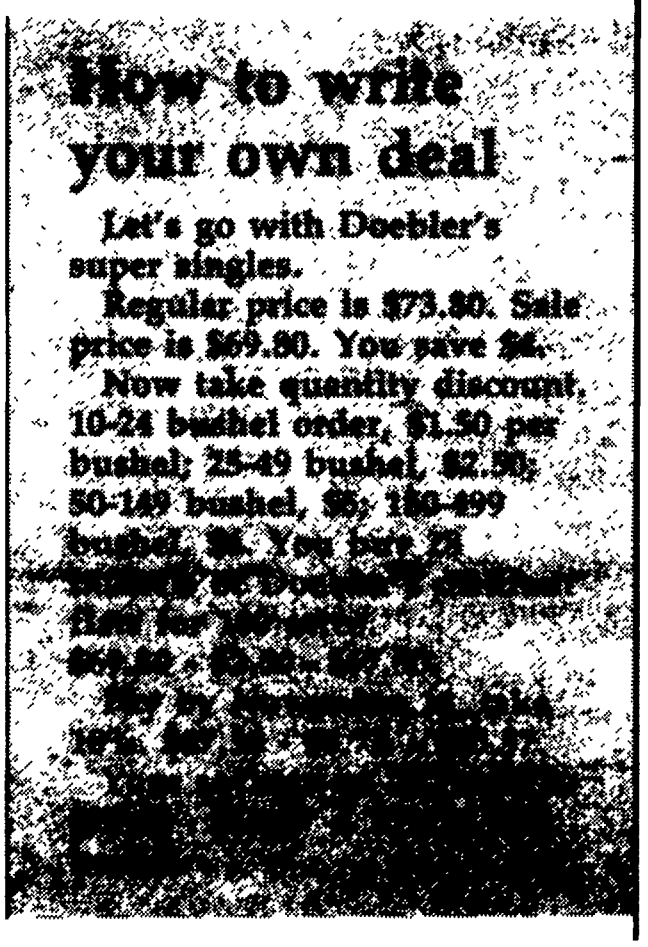
Up to $4 savings per bushel on reduced sale prices alone. That's on every bushel you buy.

Slash $2 to $4 more off price by ordering plateless.

Earn $1.50 to $6 per bushel with quantity discounts. Minimum order -- 10 bushels.

Save extra $4 to $6 per bushel with 10% Early Pay discount. Pay by Nov. 16.

What's bottom line? Up to $17.28 savings per bushel and $864 total on 50 bushels of super singles.



How to write your own deal
Let's go with Doebler's super singles.
Regular price is $73.80. Sale price is $69.80. You save $4.
Now take quantity discount. 10-24 bushel order, $1.50 per bushel; 25-49 bushel, $2.50; 50-149 bushel, $5; 150-499 bushel, $6. You buy 24

Plant 100 acres, pay these prices

It takes 28 bushels of Doebler's medium flats to plant 100 acres. That's at 24,000 kernels per acre. Here's what you pay per bag.

Only $60.57
for super singles like 84XP and 45XP after discounts. Plateless, $58.77.

A low $56.07
after all discounts for our 13 commercial singles. Like 75X, 61X. Plateless, $54.27.

Still lower $51.57
for 75XMODs after discounts. Look like, yield like champ. Plateless, $49.77.

A bargain $47.07
for all three ways after discounts. Time to try 650A. Plateless, $43.47.

$110-$140 bonus
To plant 100 acres at 24,000 kernels per acre, you need 28 bushel bags of Doebler's medium flats or 30 bags of 80,000-unit seed. Savings on extra two bags? $110-$140 when you plant Doebler's.

It may take more than a bowl of chicken soup for many poultry producers to get over the symptoms from WQ (water quality), BMPs (best management practices), NPDES (national pollutant discharge elimination system), and a host of other alphabet acronyms.

The '90s will be the time when the poultry industry finds itself even more intimately involved with national and local programs to improve and protect water quality. Factories, strip mines, municipalities, and many others have had to invest in pollution control facilities, which they didn't want. These same people are now looking over the fence and asking, "What about farmers?"

Animal agriculture will be called upon to demonstrate that manure is being safely utilized. Nutrient management reports and more detailed record keeping are two changes farmers will make.

Water quality concerns related to poultry operations are nothing new, especially in southeastern Pennsylvania. Modern production techniques allow one person to care for a large number of birds. Feed is usually imported to the farmstead, not home grown.

A poultry enterprise has been a good way to expand the income of a farm to support another family without purchasing more land. Unfortunately, all of these items can also result in an imbalance between manure produced and land available to recycle it through crops.

Before you invest in a new or major remodeling of a poultry production facility, wherever it is, look at the manure handling options. Long range plans need to include manure disposal. Points to consider include:

- Adequate cropland, under your control, to utilize all manure nutrients in crop growth.
- Housing and storage systems that permit transport and marketing of manure (keep it dry, maintain consistent quality).
- Storage and handling systems constructed and maintained to prevent loss of manure by spillage, leaching, or structure failure.
- Fences, guards, and signs to protect and warn workers and visitors of dangers involved with manure storage and handling facilities.
- Adequate pest control.
- Record keeping systems for manure application or other disposition.

Farmers should be aware of state and local plans and activities concerning manure handling and water pollution.

New nutrient management reporting legislation and regulations are in process right now. Your legislator, farm organizations, extension offices, SCS, and federal, state, and local officials can all help keep you informed of plans.

Be sure your elected representatives know your concerns on this issue. An active, involved farm community will be critical for establishing reasonable procedures and regulations for manure handling and environmental protection.

Knowing how to get good return of the feed dollar in terms of meat or eggs will not be enough for the poultry producer of the future.

Perry Co. Posts Show Results

NEW BLOOMFIELD (Perry Co.) — During 4½ hours of competition at the Perry County Fair, 65 4-H and FFA members exhibited 74 head of market hogs and 11 market steers.

The market steers and market hogs were placed by judge Nelson Beam, Chester County hog farmer and member of the 1984 Penn State Collegiate Livestock Judging Team.

Following are the results of the competition.

Bob Lowe, Shermansdale, won grand champion market steer honors with his 1,100-pound Limousin Angus cross. The steer also was named 4-H grand champion steer. Amy Byers, Liverpool, took reserve grand champion steer honors with her 1,300-pound Simmental/Hereford cross. This steer also took champion FFA market steer honors. Reserve champion 4-H steer honors went to Scott Byers, Liverpool. Reserve champion FFA honors went to Christina Wright, Newport.

Two hogs from Duncannon took champion honors in the market swine competition. Daniel Eicher, Duncannon, took grand champion and 4-H champion honors with his 238-pound hog, while Brian Ebersole, Duncannon, took reserve champion and 4-H reserve champion hog honors with his 252-pound duroc hog. The FFA champion hog was exhibited by Amy Byers, Liverpool and the reserve champion FFA hog was exhibited by Roberta Jo Cauffman, Millerstown.

Perry County grand champion 4-H steer, exhibited by Bob Lowe, Shermansdale. Ron Bolze, Loysville, presents trophy.

Judge Nelson Beam, Elverson, congratulates Scott Byers, Liverpool, with reserve champion showman honors.

During the Baby Beef Showmanship contest, Bridget Semrau, Millerstown, took top 4-H showman honors while Scott Byers took reserve 4-H showman honors. Amy Byers took FFA top showman honors, while Christina Wright took reserve FFA showman honors.

Lee Rumfelt, Millerstown, won the top swine 4-H showman award, and Holly Jo McLaren, Shermansdale, took the reserve champion 4-H swine showman award. Heather Benner, Millerstown, won top FFA swine showmanship honors, while Mark Cauffman, also of Millerstown, won the reserve champion FFA swine showmanship award.

Local Store Sets Another Record At Solanco

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — It was a record-breaking sale price for a grand champion market steer at the Solanco Fair — again.

For the second year in a row, Ferguson and Hassler Grocery Store bid higher than any others at the sale last week, paying $6.50 per pound or a total of $8,047 for Brad Linton's 1,238-pound Maine Anjou/Chianina/Angus middle weight grand champion steer.

The reserve champion was purchased by K&S Inc. for $1.30 per pound for a total of $1,772, a 1,363-pound steer exhibited by Jim Landis.

The grand champion hog was purchased for $3 per pound or $774 by Agway. Keith Martin exhibited the 258-pound hog. Hostetter Grain purchased Sue Brown's 243-pound reserve grand champion for $2.60 per pound, for a total of $631.80.

The lightweight champion hog, exhibited by Jody England, went for $2.60 per pound to Farmer's First Bank. Hess Bar-B-Que picked up Phillip High's 212-pound reserve lightweight champion hog for $2 per pound. Darin Hess' 227-pound middleweight champion hog went to Fulton Bank for $2.60 per pound, and the 229-pound reserve middle weight, shown by Matt Welk, went to Powl's Feed for $2.40 per pound. The 250-pound reserve heavyweight champion shown by Andrea Kreider went to Ross Rohrer Feed for $2.50 per pound and the reserve light heavyweight champion hog, exhibited by Tom Herr, went to Willow Valley at $2 per pound.

Grand and reserve champion market lambs, shown by Lyndon Reiff, received a total of $379. The 132-pound grand champion went to Kitchen Kettle for $1.80 per pound, or $237.60. The reserve grand was purchased by Lancaster Stockyards for $1.20 per pound.

The 132-pound reserve heavyweight champion exhibited by Lisa Reiff went for $1.10 per pound from Walter Dunlap and Sons. Walter Dunlap and Sons also purchased the 106-pound reserve lightweight champion from Scott Wagner for $1.10 per pound. James G. Kreider and Son purchased the 107-pound lightweight lamb champion from Tiffany Dean for $1.85 per pound. Tiffany's 118-pound reseve middle weight champion went for $1.87 per pound from Bank of Lancaster Co.

Average sale price for the market steers was $1.55 per pound. Average for the market lambs was $1.47 per pound and for market hogs, $1.24 per pound.

Middletown Grange Fair Sparks Champions

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks Co.) — This year a special event occured at the Middletown Grange Fair.

Bucks County youth raising 4-H lambs had the opportunity to sell their lambs at an auction held Saturday at the fair. There were 15 lambs offered for sale starting with the grand champion 4-H lamb from Friday's sheep show. The sale averaged $1.59 per pound and without the champion and reserve champion included, the sale average was $1.35/pound.

Toll Brothers, Inc., of Huntingdon Valley, was the highest bidder of the sale, purchasing the grand champion lamb, a 140-pound Suffolk ewe lamb raised by Jesse Ruth of Pineville, for $3.60 per pound. The contending bidder for the champion was Ely Pork Products of Newtown.

Ely also purchased the reserve champion 4-H lamb of the show, a 104-pound lamb raised by Jeff Everett, Upper Black Eddy, for $3.00 per pound.

For more information about Bucks County 4-H opportunities. call the Penn State Cooperative Extension Office in Bucks County at (215) 345-3283.

Ely Pork Products, Newtown, purchased Jeff Everett's Upper Black Eddy reserve champion Lamb for $3.00 per pound at the 4-H Lamb sale during the Middletown Grange Fair. Representing Ely Pork products is Dave Miller.

Toll Brothers Inc., of Huntingdon Valley, purchased the 140-pound grand champion 4-H lamb for $3.60 per pound at the Grange Fair in Wrightstown. The champion 4-H lamb was raised by Jesse Ruth of Pineville. Representing Toll Brothers Inc. is William Steuck.

AGCO ALLIS 8600 SERIES TRACTORS

36 SPEED CHOICES

AGCO Allis 8600 Series tractors give you 36 speed choices, an electronic engine speed governor and many other quality performance features, as well as a comprehensive 4-year/4,000-hour warranty.

- Speed choices for all conditions. The standard synchropower transmission offers 24 forward and 12 reverse speeds. An optional power Hi-Lo transmission boosts that to 36 speeds both forward and reverse. Both 8600 Series models are AWD with planetary final drive, and a self-adjusting, hydraulically-actuated clutch.
- The air- and oil-cooled engine advantage. The 8600 Series tractors feature the high-output, 6-cylinder, air- and oil-cooled diesel engine that eliminates components that cause downtime in liquid-cooled engines. The 8610 model has a 103 PTO hp engine with a 22% torque rise and the 8630 model has a 120 PTO hp turbocharged engine with a 30% torque rise.
- PTO power and versatility. The independent PTO operates at 540/1,000 rpm with 6- and 21-spline shafts and an electrohydraulically-actuated wet PTO clutch The 3-point hitch comes standard with telescopic stabilizers: Category II/I on the 8610; Category III/II on the 8630. Optional telescopic lower links are available.
- Quality performance features. The 8600 Series tractors ride on premium Goodyear radial tires. They have hydrostatic steering, a tilt-telescope steering wheel and hydraulically-actuated wet disc brakes on all four wheels for 40% better braking. These models also have electrohydraulically-actuated rear and front differential locks that an operator can manually disengage for tighter turns.

To learn about all the quality features of the 8600 Series tractors, or any of the "orange" line of AGCO Allis tractors ranging from 40 to 128 PTO hp, stop by or call us soon

Somerset Fall Classic Held

Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — Held at the county fairgrounds here, the Somerset Fall Classic, sponsored by the Somerset County Holstein Club saw a pick of Flush implant, one of nine from dam, Hillmont Enchancer Peach, bring top price of $3,100. The buyer, David A. and Linda Himmelberger are from Jonestown.

Birth due date is on May 1, 1992 and pick-up date is on or after August 1, 1992. Terms of consignor, Hillmont and Ron Kling of Berlin were one-third down and two-thirds at time of pick-up.

Peach has a milk production record of 18,280 puounds for 365 days. The fat content was measured at 4.5 percent and amounted to 823 pounds, while the protein count was 3.6 percent and 650 pounds.

Kirwood Stewart Maxine was consigned by Scott Foreman of Rockwood. The buyer, also from Rockwood, was Harry Mosholder, who paid $2,250 for the lady who is due on Sept. 23. Maxine was born on Apr. 9, 1987.

Brush-Creek Dixiecrat Greta, consigned by Leroy Bittner, was born on Feb. 1, 1989. Her buyers also paying $2,250, were Mark and LaDeana Teets, Eglon, W.Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Teets, buying five animals at the sale for a total purse of $8,825, were high buyers. James Ellis from Youngstown, OH, was second high buyer, spending $7,650 for five animals. David and Donald Stutzman from Berlin, again purchasing five animals, paid a total of $6,525.

Sale average this year was $1,543.33.

Officials said they were pleased, for the first time, to host several buyers from the state of Missouri who purchased some animals. Their names were Jule Dotson and Russell and Julianne Brown.

Clark Yoder was the auctioneer, and Oren Bender was the pedigree reader. Sale co-chairmen were Andrew Meier and Jeff Hillegass. C. Sherman Allen and Steve Pheasant were ringmen. Selectors were Willard Maust, Paul Countryman and Andy Meier.

Wolff Advises Swine Pseudorabies Testing

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff today advised swine producers to have their herds tested for pseudorabies (PRV) in order to avoid delays in marketing or moving feeder pigs.

Swine health regulations were revised on August 17 as a result of industry recommendations that the department adopt national PRV eradication measures.The revisions are intended to assure that swine moving from PRV infected areas to new herds are free of the disease.

Feeder swine originating from PRV infected counties must now be PRV negative or must be from PRV test negative herds before they can be moved within or out of the state. Swine must be individually identified to document their qualification for sale or movement.

Wolff told swine producers in ten PRV infected counties that pseudorabies testing is required prior to movement of feeder pigs from their farms.

"Since testing can take time, we urge farmers who plan future marketing of feeder pigs to qualify their herds as soon as possible," Wolff said.

In addition to the new regulations on feeder pigs, previous regulations require that all breeding swine, regardless of county PRV status, must be PRV test negative before movemet for addition to herds. Swine sold or moved for slaughter may move without pseudorabies testing providing they are not from quarantined herds.

The Department of Agriculture has reminded all veterinarians to report any swine diseases with symptoms that suggest pseudorabies. In addition, swine producers have been advised to purchase only PRV test-negative animals or swine from PRV test-negative herds.

Ninety-six pennsylvania swine herds are currently quarantined because of pseudorabies.

Ten counties have one or more swine herds under pseudorabies quarantine. The counties are Berks, Bradford, Bucks, Columbia, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Northampton, Northumberland, and Susquehanna.

Pseudorabies is a herpes virus disease primarily affecting swine. It can be transmitted to all other mammals except humans and horses.

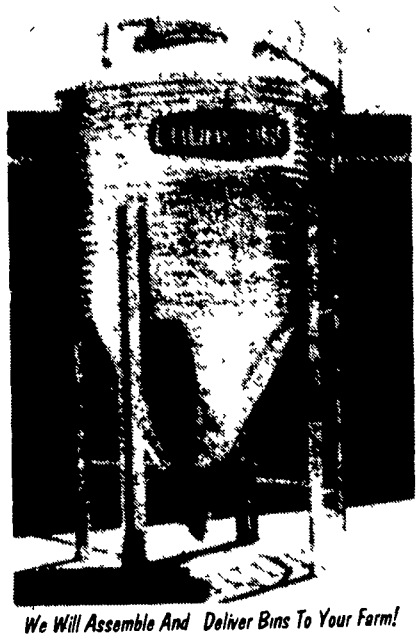
FEED BINS
Your Best Buy



We Will Assemble And Deliver Bins To Your Farm!

The feed bin is the very heart of any feeding system. If the bin lets you down, the system quits.

That's why we put so many quality features into our complete line of feed bins - which includes 6-foot diameter steel or polyethylene (great for H.M. corn), 6-foot, 7-foot, and 9-foot models. All are available in several capacities - so you have a wide selection of bins to fit your needs.

Here are just a few of the quality features that make our bins such an outstanding buy:

- Sturdy Ladder System
- All Bin Seams Are Double Caulked
- Choice of 16 or 25 Inch Hopper Opening
- All Galvanized Steel Parts

Agri-King Names Weiland

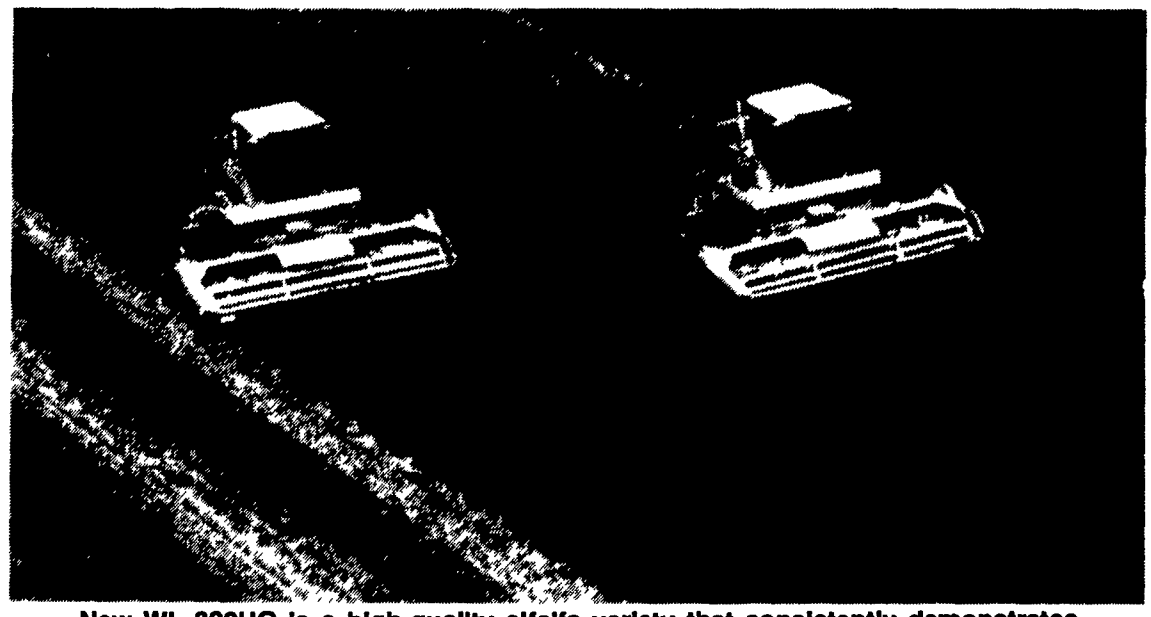
Michael Weiland

PATTON - Agri-King recently named Michael Weiland Area Manager of Blair and Bedford counties.

Weiland received his Bachelor or Science degree in Agricul- tural Engineering from Penn State University. He had been a self-employed farmer for over nine years and was previously employed with Atlantic Breeders Cooperative.

Agri-King tests feedstuffs and formulates rations for livestock producers in 27 states. The 22-year-old livestock nutrition company serves customers from Nebraska to New York with Agri-King' s home office located in Fulton, Illinois.

Weiland resides at rural Patton.



New WL 322HQ is a high-quality alfalfa variety that consistently demonstrates higher relative feed value (RFV) and crude protein (CP) than traditional or multileaf varieties. Harvesting convenience is much greater because quality remains at peak levels in the field longer than traditional varieties.

W-L Research Introduces High Feed Value Alfalfa

EVANSVILLE, Wis.— W-L Research, Inc., recently announced the introduction of WL 322HQ, a new high quality alfalfa variety that consistently demonstrates higher relative feed value (RFV) and crude protein (CP) than traditional or multileaf varieties.

WL 322HQ also offers harvesting flexibility because quality remains at peak levels in the field for longer periods than traditional varieties.

According to trials by W-L Research, Inc., the company which developed WL 322HQ, this unique variety is the first in the industry to carry the new "HQ" symbol. "HQ" will be used to denote varieties meeting the following criteria:

• Parental plants must be specifically selected for high quality using near infrared reflection technology (NIR) or some other laboratory analysis.

• The variety must consistently demonstrate high quality in terms of NIR parameters such as RFV, CP and acid detergent fiber (ADF), and neutral detergent fiber (NDF).

W-L Research, Inc. reported these recent university research results documenting WL 322HQ's quality benefits:

• A study at the University of Minnesota compared crude protein level of WL 322HQ with several other varieties. At 22.4 percent crude protein, WL 322HQ was found to be higher than all other varities tested.

• A Purdue University study documented that WL 322HQ was higher in relative feed value than other varieties tested. The highest RFV in this study was WL 322HQ with 191 points, while the lowest was 159 points.

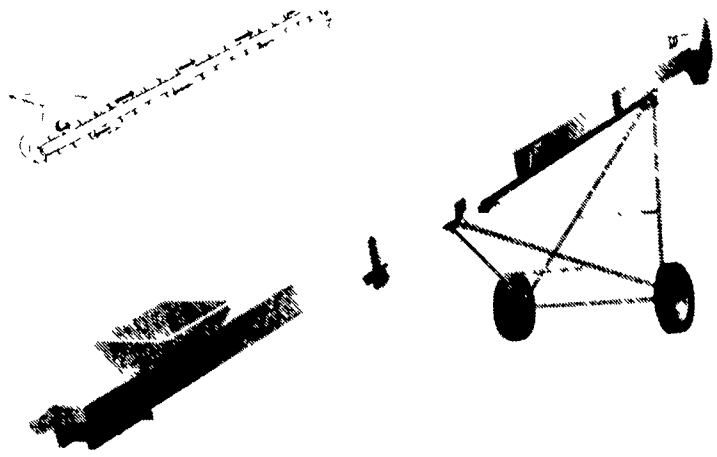
• Michigan State University also conducted a trial in which WL 322HQ demonstrated higher crude protein (20.6%) and higher relative feed value (135) than all other varieties tested.

"WL 322HQ is the first significant advancement in alfalfa quality to be documented by major universities," said Dr. Mike Peterson, director of research for W-L Research, Inc. "When multileaf varieties were first introduced, developers claimed they were higher in quality and leafiness, but most of these claims have not stood up in university research."

According to Peterson, harvesting flexibility is another benefit of WL 322HQ. The variety demonstrates superior performance even when harvested at up to 25 percent bloom, with quality comparable to a first flower harvest of non-HQ varieties. The variety is also shown to hold its quality peak for up to five days. This allows growers greater flexibility when cutting.

"WL 322HQ is more forgiving of weather and other factors affecting when a grower can harvest," said Dr. Peterson.

According to Peterson, quality (within a given variety) is more stable from field to field than yield, which is highly dependent on environmental factors. Extensive evaluation of forage quality in available alfalfas has documented that variety quality is consistent over cuttings, locations, and years.



Move materials at rates up to 125 cubic feet per minute while minimizing damage with Cardinal Grain Systems' galvanized conveyors with PVC belt that has two-inch high bonded cleats spaced six inches apart.

Cleated Belt Conveyors Minimize Crop Damage

COLUMBIA CITY, Ind. — New, Cardinal galvanized conveyors with PVC belt that has two-inch high bonded cleats spaced six inches apart minimize damage to grain, apples, potatoes, and other crops and can be used to move fertilizer and other materials.

Developed by Cardinal Grain Systems, Inc., the conveyors are designed with 16-gauge galvanized steel construction and 10-gauge galvanized head and boot sections to provide a long, rust-resistant service life.

The versatile conveyors can be top-or-bottom driven, allowing material flow to be reversed, and come in 11' base units equipped with weather covers, flooring, and electric, hydraulic, or gas drive. They move materials horizontally or up to a 45° angle with chassis at rates up to 125 cubic feet per minute.

Cardinal conveyors are available in six inch, 10 inch, 16 inch, and 24 inch widths and handle materials up to 2 3/4 inches high. With the addition of an available raised cover, Cardinal conveyors will handle higher materials. Conveyors equipped with a chassis are available in lengths up to 67 feet. Conveyors without chassis are available in lengths up to 163 feet.

The flexible conveyors can be tailored to fit current needs and upgraded as customers' needs change. Equipment available includes chassis for portability, discharge spout, inlet hopper, tow hitch, raised cover to convey higher material, and 8 inches add-on sections.

For more information, contact Cardinal Grain Systems, Inc., P.O. Box 992, Columbia City, IN 46725, (219) 244-4654.

Open bar grouser tracks for New Holland skid-steer loaders keep the loader moving in mud, snow, or sand where tires can spin out. Wood lot, nursery, and snow clearance work goes faster with the positive traction provided by the tracks.

Grouser Tracks For Skid-Steers

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Over-the-tire open-bar chain link tracks are now availablel for mid-size and large-frame New Holland skid-steer loaders.

The tracks improve traction and flotation in sand, mud and snow, said Ford New Holland Product Manager Bill sauber.

"But the application where their superiority is especially noticeable is with tree digging attachments. You can use a tree and shrubbery digger attachment without the tracks, but the tracks make the work faster and easier," he said.

With the grouser tracks, an operator digging trees in a nursery or tree farm can cross holes and uneven ground more rapidly. The tracks grip the tires as well as the ground, so there's less spin and ground shear.

The traction improvement for extreme conditions is equally appreciated in clearing snow and getting livestock feed from trench silos. The grousers bite into hard packed snow and keep going where tires can spin out.

Sire Power Offers Scholarships

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.)— The board of directors of Sire Power's northeast sales division (NESD) is happy to announce the continuation of its scholarship program.

This will be the fourth consecutive year that Sire Power scholarships have been made available to NESD member area.

Ten $500 scholarships will be awarded at the 1991 Sire Power annual meeting. Eligibility requirements for these scholarships are as follows.

• The applicant must be a college sophomore, junior, senior, or graduate student during the year of application.

• Parents, guardians, or applicants must be patrons of Sire Power's NESD membership area, which covers central and eastern Pennsylvania and the state of New Jersey.

• The scholarship must be applied to continued education in an agricultural-related field.

• Previous scholarship award winners will remain eligible during subsequent award years.

To receive a NESD scholarship application, interested students should contact Gary L. Hennip, sales and service director, Sire Power, Inc., RR 2 Box 10, Tunkhannock, PA 18657, (717) 836-3168. Deadline to submit applications is October 31, 1991.

Local Companies Purchase Champions

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — For the second year in a row, the Chester County 4-H Beef Club members were fortunate to hold their show and sale at the Kimberton Fire Company Fairgrounds.

It was a beautiful day as 23 top quality steers were exhibited in front of judge Clyde Myers. Myers, Berks County extension agent, commended the 4-H members on the extremely good job that they did in raising top quality 4-H steers, steers that would be acceptable to both the packer and the consumer.

The champion steer chosen by Judge Myers was a 1,350-pound purebred Angus steer bred by Mountain View Farms, Frystown and shown by Jason Marsch of Spring City. This was the second year in a row that Jason exhibited a champion steer.

The steer was purchased that afternoon by Herr Foods of Nottingham for $1.50/pound. The steer was then donated to the House of His Creation in Sadsbury.

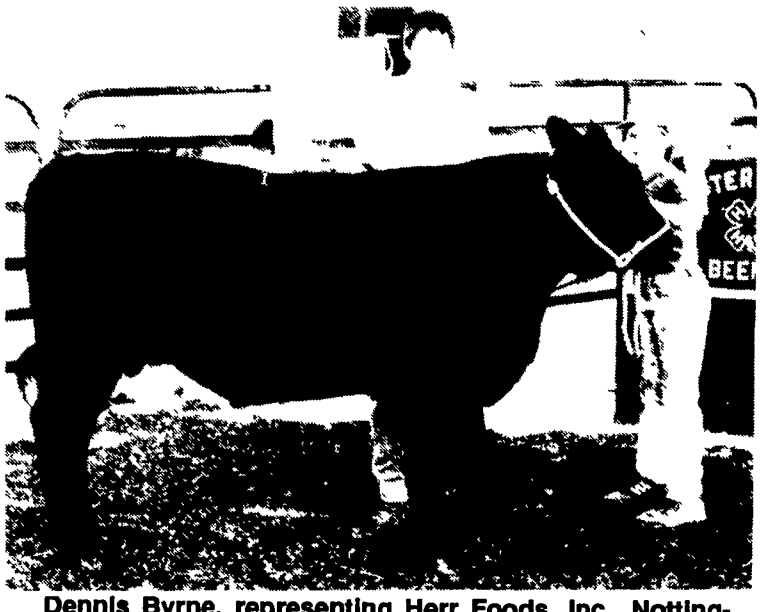
Herr Foods was the volume buyer of the day.

Sara Howe of Downingtown exhibited the reserve grand champion market steer bred by Crebilly Farms of West Chester, which weighed 1,245 pounds and was purchased by The First National Bank of West Chester for $1.48/pound. Fourteen steers were sold with an average weight of 1,228 pounds and an average price of $.91/pound.

Nine steers were selected to represent Chester County 4-H at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg in January.

Champion senior showman honors went to Matt Howe, Downingtown with reserve honors going to David Howe of Downingtown. Champion junior showman was Matt McAllister of Spring City and reserve champion was Jonathan Howe of Downingtown. Champion first-year showman went to Kasey McAllister of Spring City and reserve champion to Peter Bradel of the Devereux School in Downingtown. The champion Angus heifer was exhibited by Matt McAllister of Spring City.

Bill Fairbairn, representing the First National Bank of West Chester, purchased the Chester Co. 4-H reserve champion steer shown by Sara Howe of Downingtown for $1.48/pound. The steer was bred by Crebilly Farms of West Chester.



Dennis Byrne, representing Herr Foods, Inc., Nottingham, purchased the Chester Co. 4-H champion steer shown by Jason Marsch of Spring City for $1.50/pound. The steer was bred by Mountain View Farm of Frystown.

Sire Power To Hold Open House

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — Sire Power will be holding an open house on Saturday, October 12 at the Frederick, Md. facility. The facilities will open at 10 a.m.

There are several activities scheduled for that day. Sire Power hopes to help dairy producers with several management areas. In cooperation with the University of Maryland and Penn State, educational booths will be set up.

A few of the topics the booths will cover include corrective hoof trimming, newspaper bedding, A.I. practice on reproductive tracts, treatment of retained placentas and metritis, alfalfa production, and managing total mixed rations with added fat.

Several daughters of Sire Power's leading gold graduates will be on display for inspection. Protein breed sires will be represented along with daughters of Ambition, Oscar, Curious, Ryan, Bomber, and Vanguard.

A roast beef luncheon will also be served. Entertainment for the children will include the clown, Charlie Chuckles, and pony rides.

Other activities during the day will be the annual meeting of the Maryland Dairy Shrine. Sire Power personnel will be on hand to review company business. Sire Power's services and programs will also be discussed. Tickets are available at a cost of $1.00 from Sire Power personnel.

HOW A COW EATS PASTURE IS IMPORTANT

Warren J. Parker,
Lawrence D. Muller And
Steven L. Fales
Penn State University

Grazing studies at Penn State with high producing cows on pasture show that the inability of the cow to harvest enough forage during the time available for grazing is an important factor limiting milk production. This is especially true if the dry matter (DM) content of herbage is low, such as for fresh wet spring growth which may contain only 12-16% DM. For example, a cow with a forage intake requirement of 30 lb DM/day has to eat 200 lb of wet pasture if the DM content is 15%! The demands that are placed on the dairy cow to eat this quantity of forage can be more fully appreciated if they are expressed in terms of grazing behavior. The amount of pasture consumed per day (herbage dry matter intake DMI; lb DM/d) is determined by the amount of time spent grazing (grazing time (GT); minutes/day), the rate at which pasture is taken into the mouth (biting rate (BR); bites/minute) and the amount of herbage taken with each bite (intake per bite (or bite size, BS; oz/bite). This can be written more simply as: Intake=grazing time x biting rate x bite size.

These variables, which have been quantifed by grazing behaviour studies (mainly in the British Isles and France), show that grazing time for dairy cows ranges from 420-700 minutes/day (7.0-11.6 hours) with a median of around 510 minutes/day (8.5 hours). The amount of time spent grazing increases as the amount of pasture decreases, which is why high producing cows need to be provided with pastures at least 5-6 inches tall. Grazing time is also influenced by sward structure (e.g. how dense the pasture is), daylight hours and the level of milk production. The rate of biting for dairy cows is in the range 55-65/minutes. An Australian researcher suggested that the maximum number of bites a Jersey cow could take per day was 36,000 - a cow grazing at 60 bites/minute for 510 minutes would take 30,600 bites in a day. Pasture bite sizes for European dairy cows vary from 0.022 to 0.007 oz DM/bite, and probably average 0.012 oz DM/bite over a grazing season. Variation in bite size is the most important factor determining how much pasture a cow can eat per day.

The application of these grazing behaviour principles to the DM intake requirements of a "typical" 1300 lb Holstein dairy cow producing at different levels in mid- to late-lactation are shown in Table 1.

Under pasture grazing only, dairy cows usually consume 2.5 to 3.0% of their bodyweight as DM, but in high producing cows this may be increased to the equivalent of 3.0 to 3.4% bodyweight. This suggests that high producing Holsteins have a potential milk production of about 60 lb 4% fcm/day if high quality pasture (44 lb/day) was the sole source of energy (i.e. no body reserves are used). This corresponds to the consumption of 295 lb/day of fresh herbage with a DM density of 15% or an average bite size of 0.023 oz DM. The latter value is slightly higher than the maximum reported by researchers, but is probably physically attainable in a large Holstein at a biting rate of 55/minute. At a bite size of 0.022 oz DM the cow would need to spend 584 minutes per day grazing to achieve a 44 lb DM intake. Grazing time will increase in high producing cows. A French study, for example, found that cows rotationally grazed on ryegrass and producing 45-77 lb milk/day increased grazing time by 12 minutes for each 2.2 lb increase in milk production.

The grazing behavior calculations have important practical applications. First, they broadly define the physical constraints to DM intake of pasture by dairy cows and clearly show that some supplementation with high energy concentrates is required in high producing herds (> 40-50 lb milk/d) on pastures even if 'ideal' herbage could be offered throughout the grazing season. Second, they emphasize the importance of grazing management in providing high quality pastures to the lactating dairy cow so that she is able to take large bites of herbage. The pasture research at Penn State is therefore taking cow behavior into account when ration programs and grazing management systems are being developed for high producing dairy cows.

AmeriCares To Send Grain To East Africa

NEW CANAAN, CT. — Stories of the plight among people living in Africa seem to come and go in the United States. Reports of an estimated 21,000,000 people at risk of dying from disease and starvation in Ethiopia and Sudan alone, should come as a shock to us, and by all rights, should be headline news across our nation -- it should be leading the evening newscasts. The fact is, these stories are not in the news, but the grim reality of starvation and death continue to persist at an alarming rate.

The New Canaan, Connecticut-based relief agency AmeriCares, knows these stories all too well, and will not turn its back, or pledge response only when it is fashionable to do so.

AmeriCares is an IRS 501 (c)3 designated, non profit international disaster relief organization. We provide food and medicines wherever and whenever they are needed - to all people - irrespective of race, creed or political persuasion.

"The situation in the Horn of Africa portends to be the greatest catastrophe in the annals of human history, an impending disaster of 'biblical proportions,' " said Robert C. Macauley, AmeriCares founder and chairman. "AmeriCares has already begun a series of emergency airlifts of medicines and pharmaceutical supplies for the people of the Horn. We will go by air, by boat and any other means available to reach these people in desperate need. We challenge all peoples to join us in acting NOW."

On June 27th, 1991, an AmeriCares cargo jet arrived in the Ehtiopian capital of Addis Ababa with 70,000 pounds of antibiotics, analgesics, vitamins, hospital products and foods. All of the supplies were hand delivered to hospitals and clinics in the region. AmeriCares is continuing its relief efforts in Ethiopia, Eritrea, Sudan, Sierra Leone, Uganda and Kenya. AmeriCares/DTAP (Doctors To All Peoples) is targeting several of the areas in Africa to send medical teams for long-term care. AmeriCares will also send a Mercy Train throughout America's heartland to collect 10,000 tons of grain for the needy in Africa.

AmeriCares is seeking the continued generous involvement of American corporations and individuals to support its programs to aid the suffering people living in Africa. They seek a total of 10,000 tons of the following grain and food products: Sorghum, Wheat, Bulgur, Maize, Oats and Buckwheat. Additionally they are asking for large quantities of the following miscellaneous products: Pulses, Corn Meal, Flour, Cereals, Vegetable Oils, Textured Vegetable Protein, Honey & Syrups, And Nuts.

AmeriCares would like these products in bulk or bagged. They will pick up at your site and arrange shipping to Djibouti or another Red Sea port where we have a reliable infrastructure in place to facilitate distribution throughout East Africa.

These requirements are not "carved in stone" and they would appreciate constructive comments from all interested parties. Please contact Drew Hannah at AmeriCares if you can help or need more information phone: 203-966-5195 or 1-800-486-4357.

Deere Changes Tractor Lineup

MOLINE, Ill. — After extensive interviews with tractor owners around the country and feedback from numerous customer focus groups, John Deere has announced some "customer-driven" changes to its tractor line.

These changes include some fine-tuning to the three largest models of 2WD and MFWD tractors, along with a new series designation; the addition of two intermediate-size tractors; and some "running changes" for its 105-140 h.p. and four-wheel-drive models.

John Deere dealers recently attended regional product meetings where they watched on videotape as Neil Christenson, Deere & Company vice president, farm equipment and consumer products marketing for the U.S. and Canada, explained the company's current and future direction in tractors, based on direct input from tractor owners.

"Today, our customers want more customization, more tailoring to their unique needs — and, now, our engineering and manufacturing are able to do that," said Christenson.

"That's why we'll be introducing new tractors more frequently and why there will be more families: new model-groupings that correspond to how today's and tomorrow's farmers work, new tractors that provide what those customers will need and what they themselves tell us they want."

Jim Wright, manager, tractor marketing at Deere's Waterloo, Iowa factory, gave dealers the first example of these new model-groupings when he said farmers no longer view the lineup of six John Deere "row-crop" models as one family. He said customers perceive the six models as two groups: three "smaller-frame" tractors 105-140 PTO hp and three "larger-frame" models 155-200 PTO hp.

Wright explained that farmer customers, while pleased with the 55 Series tractors in general, did want to see some refinements, especially in the higher horsepower group.

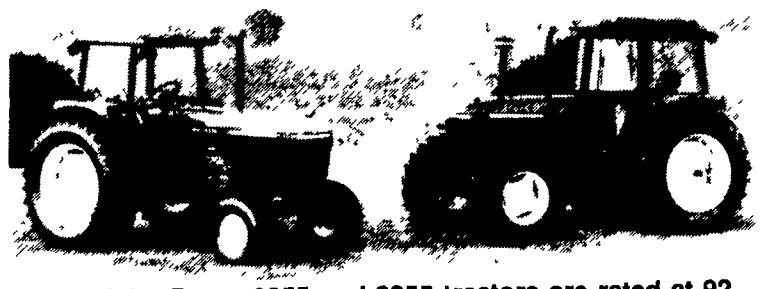
New 60 Series 2WD and MFWD Models

Though their horsepower ratings remain the same as the 55 Series models they replace, the new John Deere 4560, 4760, and 4960 2WD and MFDW tractors feature several refinements in operator comfort and convenience as well as in serviceability.

For improved visibility over the hodd, the exhaust stack has been relocated to the right-hand side of the cab. The air-intake stack has been replaced with a design that draws combustion air for the engine through the nose of the tractor for improved air flow.

Approximately 40 pounds of clay material layered in foam was added to the Sound-Gard body to improve sound quality. The result is a "tuned" operator environment that provides a deep mellow sound that operators find pleasing. The cab's interior fabric is rolled around the foam/clay material for a tight, detailed fit.

Two mounting posts have been added to the right-hand forward support column of the Sound-Gard body for convenient attachment of implement monitors. An electrical outlet on the rear of the right-hand console provides a quick and easy power supply for virtually every monitor farmers use today. If needed, the owner can modify the outlet to accept up to three monitors.



The John Deere 3055 and 3255 tractors are rated at 92 and 100 horsepower, respectively. Both tractors feature a six-cylinder John Deere diesel with high torque rise and constant power.

The John Deere 4560, 4760 and 4960 tractors feature several refinements in operator comfort and convenience andin serviceability. These new 60-Series tractors are rated at 155, 175, and 200 horsepower, respectively, the same as the 55-Series models they replace.

For added operator convenience, a new key switch and solenoid replace the mechanical pull-switch fuel shutoff.

A wide platform on the left side of the tractor houses both batteries and enhances easy of entering and exiting the cab. Safety handrails are attached to the three-stair assembly that leads to the platform. The assembly is adjustable for ground clearance and to accommodate various row-crop spacings and frame-mounted attachments.

The side-by-side battery placement permits shorter cable leads for better voltage retention and power delivery. A booster terminal, mounted on the tractor frame, provides a convenient method to boost start a neighbor's tractor in cold weather.

Restyled rear fenders are wider to reduce mud splatters. New rectangular lights in the fenders provide improved night lighting and reduced glare.

The new 60 Series tractors reintroduce rack-and-pinion rear axle adjustment for quick and simple changes of rear-tread width. A new pilot ring on the 10-bolt dual wheel hub aids in the installation of the duals.

For improved serviceability, the oil filter is mounted vertically to minimize spills during servicing. The engine air filter has been repositioned to make it easier to remove and reinstall.

The new tractors feature the same field-proven 7.6-liter John Deere diesel, John Deere designed-and-built transmissions, closed-center hydraulics, planetary final drives, and hydrostatic steering used in the 55 Series models they replace.

New Intermediate Power Sizes

Deere has introduced two new tractor sizes in the 90-100 h.p. range. The 3255 with MFWD, which replaces the 95-hp 3155, is rated at 100 PTO h.p. at 2,400 rpm; the 3055 two-wheel drive is rated at 92 PTO h.p. at 2,300 rpm. The 3255 is only available with MFWD, and the 3055 is only available in a two-wheel drive configuration.

Both tractors feature a six-cylinder, 5.9L John Deere diesel (turbocharged in the 3255) with constant power and high torque rise. Constant power enables the engine to maintain rated power output over a specific rpm range. This ensures full power for pto or drawbar work within a certain speed range below rated rpm. The engine's high torque rise provides the lugging ability to pull through tough spots without shifting down for increased productivity and convenience.

A TSS (top-shaft-synchronized) Hi-Low transmission that provide 16 forward and eight reverse speeds and no-clutch Hi-Lo shifting is standard on both tractors. Both models also feature self-adjusting, self-equalizing wet-disk brakes that are hydraulically actuated and maintenance free.

The closed-center hydraulic sysstem provides a maximum flow at rated speed of 21 gpm on the 3055 and 22 gpm on the 3255 for fast, responsive hydraulic power.

Running Changes On 105-140 PTO HP and Four-Wheel Drive Models

In response to customer requests, some "running changes" were made to the 4055, 4255, 4455, models and to the 8560, 8760, and 8960 four-wheel-drive tractors to improve performance, serviceability, or operator comfort and convenience.

Running changes are those design changes made to a current model as the need is identified rather than delayed until a major update of the machine begins.

The Sound-Gard body of the three smaller models now has the same clay/foam material used in the new 60 Series to improve sound quality for the operator. The rack-and-pinion rear wheel adjustment has also been adopted on these models.

On the four-wheel-drive models, an aspirator was added to the filter of the Sound-Gard body to lengthen the service interval.

The 12-speed full power shift transmission available as an option on the 8760 and 8960 has improved clutch modulation for smoother shifting. The 8560 and 8760 now feature a vertical oil filter for easier servicing. These two models also now have an electronic governor that improves troque response and overall engine pereformance on these tractors.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

Wet brewers grain is more than a good feed. It's a good business ingredient.

Each day, up to 100,000 U.S. dairy cows feed on rations containing wet brewers grain. That's because their owners know it minimizes feed costs while it maximizes production.

Wet brewers grain is a high-protein feed ingredient. It's always fresh, because it's delivered directly to your dairy. It fits into most programs, is easy to handle, and easy to store.

Call us today. One of our professional feed consultants will help you work wet brewers grain into your ration, so you can make it a profitable ingredient for your business.

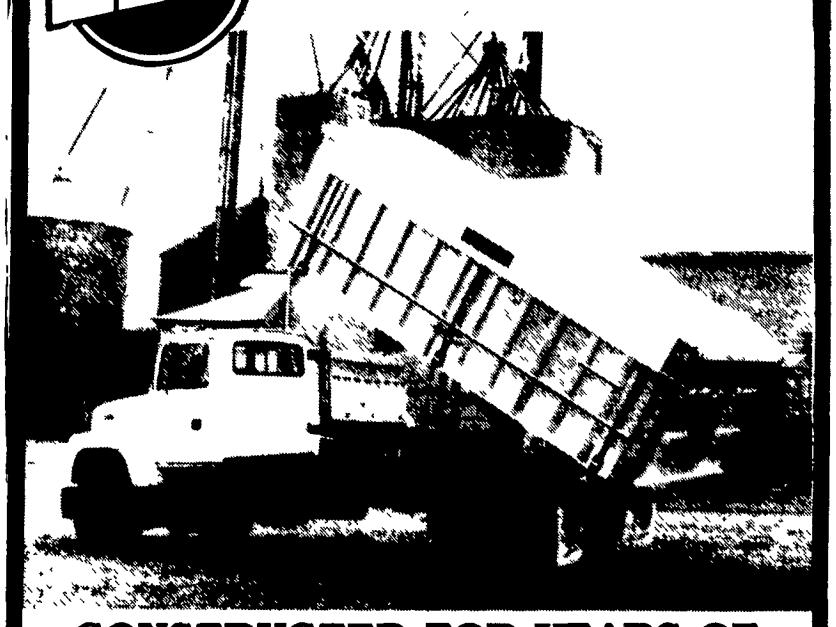
EBY ALUMINUM GRAIN BODY



CONSTRUCTED FOR YEARS OF MAINTENANCE-FREE SERVICE.

Look over these outstanding features.

- Less weight. Eby aluminum bodies weigh up to 30% less than comparable steel and wood construction.
- Less maintenance. Aluminum construction won't rust or rot - never needs painting.
- Long-life durability. Heavy-duty structural components and hollow-tube frame combine with aluminum floor and sides to stand up to years of hard work.

Distributor for WCCO Roll Tarps

hillsboro

24 Foot Length Shown 5 - 24 Ft. Models Now In Stock

28 Foot Length Shown 1 - 28 Ft. & 2 - 2 Ft. Models Now In Stock

Optional deck over the neck is 7½ 'x8'

The FLIP-UP BEAVERTAIL raises and lowers in seconds -- slide out ramps are stored under the beavertail. The Hillsboro Flatbed features a full 96" deck width which is more value than the competition.

The Hillsboro Flatbed is available in two styles; the 20' and 24' trailer with standard neck, and the 28', 30' and 32' trailer with heavy duty neck.

VERSATILE — RUGGED — RELIABLE and REASONABLY PRICED!

The Hillsboro Flatbed Trailer with flip-up beavertail can be the one trailer that means lower cost for you. Here's why!!

VERSATILITY! That's what makes a Hillsboro trailer such a good investment. With the beavertail down it's an excellent trailer for moving wheeled equipment. Flip the beavertail up and it adds an extra four feet of deck space for hauling hay and other bulky loads

HERE'S WHAT HILLSBORO QUALITY MEANS - All Hillsboro trailers are manufactured in precise jigs and fixtures which assures excellent alignment of axles, a better pulling trailer, a level and square trailer

HILLSBORO WORKMANSHIP INCLUDES-Exceptional weld quality, material that is chemically cleaned, two coats of high quality paint, material strength engineered into the best flatbed value

Berks Youths Have Champion Hogs, Beef

CONNIE LIENGACH
Berks Co. Correspondentr

READING (Berks Co.)--Chris Blatt, 18, Robesonia, ended his 4-H career by winning the grand champion market swine contest at the Reading Fair.

Blatt's 240-pound crossbreed gilt combines everything a judge looks for in a champion hog, Blatt said--wide loins and deep hams.

Amy Eshelman, 17, Sinking Spring, had the reserve grand champion market swine with her 272-pound Hampshire cross-breed barrow.

Grant Lazarus of Whitehall, Lehigh County, was the judge.

David Anspach, 9, of Mohnton, was modest as he accepted praise for his grand champion market steer--a 1,420-pound Shorthorn steer named Murphy.

It was the first time Anspach had ever shown a steer, with the aid of Kenianne Rarick of the K&K Cattle Co., Fleetwood, who won supreme heifer calf with 10-month-old Shorthorn Miss Stormy.

In showmanship, Traci Gelsinger, 19, Wernersville, a student at Central Pennsylvania Business College, Harrisburg, was champion with her Simmental steer.

Jason Grim, 14, of Mertztown, won champion fitter honors in grooming his velvety black Angus named Hammer.

Beef judge Fred Weaver of Ephrata said he was impressed with the animals he saw.

"There was a lot of good quality," he said about the Berks County animals.

Atlantic Dairy Awards Five Scholarships

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative awarded its Lester C. Jones Sr. Scholarship to five deserving college students, who will each receive $500 toward the 1991-1992 academic year.

The scholarship, named in memory of the cooperative's former president, is awarded to students pursuing careers in dairy or agriculture-related fields. The recipients are all children or grandchildren of Atlantic members.

Receiving the scholarships are:

Robert E. Rider of Warriors Mark, Pa. — Rider is a first year graduate student at the Purdue School of Veterinary Medicine. He graduated from Penn State University in August 1991 with a bachelor's degree in dairy and animal science. While at Penn State, he was a member of the Dairy Science Club, Pre-Vet Club, Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity, Alpha Zeta fraternity, and Gamma Sigma Delta agricultural honor society. He is the son of James and Janet Rider.

Richard D. Shuman of Bloomsburg, Pa. — Shuman, the son of Duane and Betty Shuman, is a sophomore at Penn State University majoring in agricultural business. In 1989, he was a 4-H Keystone and state winner for agriculture, and in 1990 was named Outstanding 4-Her for Columbia County. He plans to dairy farm after graduation.

Rebecca Ann Sonnen of Richland, Pa. — Sonnen, a junior at Penn State University, is studying agricultural science and plans for a career in agricultural communication or public relations. She is a member of the Dairy Science Club, Ag Student Council and the Society of Agricultural Science Students. She is also an Agriculture Advocate and first place winner of the Guilden Public Speaking Contest. Her parents are Paul and Marilyn Sonnen.

Jaylene L. Yoder of Belleville, Pa. — Yoder is a sophomore at Penn State University majoring in dairy and animal science. She is a member of the Dairy Science Club and is the Penn State Alternate Dairy Princess. A daughter of J. Loren and Wanda Yoder, she plans to return to the family farm.

Scott A. Youse of Oley, Pa. — Youse is a sophomore at Delaware Valley College, where he is majoring in dairy science. He is a member of the Dairy Society and was the grand champion fitter in the A-Day dairy show. His future plans are to become a herdsman for a dairy farm. His parents are Paul and Linda Youse.

DROUGHT AND LIVESTOCK HEALTH
Lawrence J. Hutchinson, Penn State Professor Of Veterinary Science

During extended periods of dry weather, livestock owners should be on the alert for the following.

• Overheating: All animals can overheat in hot weather, especially if they lack adequate water. Animals at special risk are working animals (draft animals and horses being exercised); very young animals; very old animals; and freshening (farrowing, lambing or foaling) animals. Watch for rapid, shallow breathing and reluctance to move. If rectal temperature is over 105 degrees, apply cold water by hose or wet burlap bags. Get veterinary help fast! Shade and moving air go a long way toward avoiding heat stress.

• Lack Of Water: When streams dry up, wells go dry and pond water becomes unappealing, livestock can suffer from lack of water. Giving too much water all at once to water-deprived animals can cause edema, nervous signs, and red-colored urine. Check water supplies frequently. Supply supplemental water if pasture supply is doubtful.

• Blue-Green Algae: This type of algae can overgrow in a stagnant pond, particularly during hot, dry spells, and can be poisonous if livestock are forced to drink much of it. If ponds can be aerated, do so. If not, it may be necessary to fence off the pond and offer another source of water if algae bloom on the pond is heavy.

• Poisonous Plants: Weeds and toxic plants may be the only green things out on the pasture. Livestock ordinarily avoid these plants, but they may be forced to eat them during a drought. Survey your pastures at least weekly for edible materials. Feed supplemental roughage during short-grass times. Clip pastures, to keep noxious and toxic weeds under control.

• Nitrate Accumulations: Annual weeds, sudan grass, corn and small grains can have high levels of nitrate content under drought conditions. Drought, followed by a rainfall, allows very high uptake of nitrate in plants. Use caution if these plants are grazed or green chopped under these conditions.

To minimize the adverse effects of heat and drought:

• Keep only those animals that are vital to your operation. Are there animals that could or should be sold?

• Provide shade and air movement, particularly during the heat of the day.

• All livestock need access to salt and water.

• Almost all pastured livestock need supplemental feed during a drought.

Richard S. Adams Penn State Professor Of Dairy Science

• General Approaches: Drought-stricken forages in any form (grazed, green-chopped, ensiled or as hay) should always be used with caution. Always introduce the forage gradually to animals that are not hungry, and that have been fed other forage in a well-balanced ration which includes at least 3 to 4 pounds of concentrate daily. As indicated in the Dairy Science Extension fact sheet, DSE-88-31, forages that contain appreciable levels of nitrate still may be used to some extent -- if all forages and, possibly, water are tested.

• Dissipation: There is no foolproof way to harvest forages that are high in nitrates or prussic acid. Ensiling or making a crop into hay do not ensure that levels will drop. In about 50 percent of the cases, nitrate levels drop during ensiling, particularly if dangerous nitrogen oxide gases are formed. Animals can tolerate 1.5 to 2.0 times higher nitrate levels when the forage is grazed, since the rate of intake is slower. Prussic acid levels often, but not always, drop within four weeks after ensiling. Delaying harvest for 4 to 7 days after a killing frost lowers the risk of prussic acid poisoning from sudangrass, sorghum-sudangrass crosses and Johnsongrass, but does not ensure its safety.

• Nitrate: In general, feed testing is more accurate than blood or body fluid testing to determine nitrate involvement in sick or recently expired animals. Feed testing is also essential to determine safe levels of drought stricken forages in rations. Quantitative nitrate testing is optional at numerous forage testing laboratories, including the following: Agri-Analysis Laboratory in Bird-in-Hand, Pa.; Eastern Laboratory Associates in York, Pa.; Jefferson Laboratories in Jefferson, Md.; NYDHIC Forage Laboratory in Ithaca, N.Y.; Skyview Laboratory in Jennerstown, Pa.; Summerdale Laboratory of the PA Dept. of Agriculture, Bureau of Animal Industry, P.O. Box 1430, Summerdale, PA 17093; and others.

Perennial hay-crop forages as well as annuals may have elevated nitrate levels under stress conditions. Rain permits drought stricken corn to pull nitrates from fertilizers in the soil, but if tasseling has begun, the nitrates won't go into plant tissue production and may be poisonous to cattle if the corn is used in green-chop roughage. Fermenting the crop as silage significantly reduces the nitrates.

• Prussic Or Hydrocyanic Acid: No laboratories are known to be routinely testing forages for this toxic substance on a quantitative basis. There is at least one qualitative test, which may be used to ascertain whether or not prussic acid or cyanide may have been

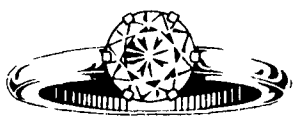
DID WE GOOF?



My son read our last ad in the Lancaster Farming, you know the one about diamond engagement rings at working man's prices. He said it will never work. People won't buy diamonds through the mail. He also said it makes us look like one of those big city rip-offs. Well that sure got me to thinking. I sure don't want to look like a sleeze-ball outfit. I'm just tired of seeing our young, hard-working, country boys getting taken by the big city guys.

We are a small family-owned store serving the rural folks around Manheim for 20 years. We know and understand that you want the most for your money, be it a work watch, diamond or whatever. We also know that country boys fall in love and get married. That's why we are offering diamond engagement rings through Lancaster Farming. Every diamond you order from us will be set into a sturdy 14K yellow or white gold mounting so it will give many years of worry-free wear and peace of mind knowing you didn't pay too much.

You might ask "What if she says no, or doesn't like it?" Well we offer anyone who buys one of these beautiful engagement rings a 4-month money-back guarantee for any reason. That way you can buy now if you are planning to give it to her at Christmas.

If you have any questions please call us collect at (717) 665-6575 and ask for John (me) or Roger.

By the way thanks to the hundreds of you who ordered the work watch. It is still available for $38.55 PA residents and $36.45 out-of-state residents.

Please clip and save these ads. We have some great new and practical items we will be offering soon but the ad may only run one time before Christmas, so look for them and clip and save them.

Did we goof with that first diamond ad? I don't think so. I hope there are a lot more of you out there who want good value for your money.

Farm Credit Members Tour Farms

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — Members of the board of directors and personnel of the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore recently visited western Pennsylvania, touring area farms of members of Penn West Farm Credit ACA (Agricultural Credit Association).

"The purpose of the tour is for board members to learn more about the agriculture of the region, visit with borrowers, and become better acquainted with personnel," said Bank President Gene Swackhamer, who participated in the tour.

Participants sampled experimental table grapes following a tour of the John Moorhead vineyard in North East. The Moorheads raise 55 acres of Concord grapes for juice and 25 varieties of wine grapes on an additional 30 acres.

They saw how Troyer Farms potato chips are made at the processing plant near Waterford.

Calvin Ernst explained the operation of his crownvetch and specialty-seed operation in Crawford County.

Richard Kind of Grassycrest Farm, Lawrence County, explained how his family has been able to farm reclaimed surface mined areas on their farm and the conservation measures that were taken to make it possible.

Lamb producer John Jamison, Westmoreland County, illustrated his marketing techniques with samples of several lamb dishes. He also explained the rotational grazing system used to feed the lambs.

The tour concluded at the dairy operation of bank board member William Jackson, Fayette County, who represents the York and Penn West Farm Credit board region.

involved in a problem. This test is available from Toxitest Inc., 6504 Burlington Road, P.O. Box 280, Whitsett, NC 27377. Blood testing is considered more definitive for prussic acid or cyanide poisoning. Qualitative testing using the Toxitest kit is available at the Veterinary Diagnostic Investigation Center at Penn State.

• Silo Gas Poisoning: The risk of nitrogen oxide gas formation always is greater with drought conditions. This is more dangerous to both humans and animals than nitrate toxicity. Drought-stricken alfalfa and other legumes may create nitrogen oxide gases, especially if harvested soon after a drought-breaking rain. Precautions should be taken to prevent silo gas poisoning as silos are filled this summer or fall.

Pennsylvania Simmental News Reported

MERCER (Mercer Co.)— A crowd of approximately 150 (including buyers from eight states) withstood the 90° temperatures to attend the TOPS I Sale held recently at the Mercer Livestock Barn in Mercer. On hand were many new buyers of PA Simmental Cattle as well as many veteran buyers from established PA Simmental farms. This clearly demonstrated the fine quality of animals consigned by the eight breeders at the TOPS I Sale. The 45 lots grossed nearly $60,000 and averaged approximately $1350 per lot.

The volume buyer, Allfred and Toni Maga of Forest Glen Farms in Beaver Falls, selected 11 top-quality animals. These included the top-selling open heifer, the top-selling bred heifer, and a confirmed pregnancy. The high-selling open heifer was a 1990 Mr. Abe daughter consigned by Hafco Farms that sold for $1950. The top-selling bred heifer was a 1989 MF Sam daughter bred to R. & R. The Wizard consigned by Messick Farms which sold for $2000.

The high-selling bull was purchased by John Stegh of Rootstown, OH. This 1989 Lightning son was consigned by Shoemakers Simmentals and sold for $1285.

Cherokee Cattle Company of Brown Field purchased the high-selling cow, a 1988 Pineview Jazz daughter. She was consigned by Rolling Ridge farms and sold for $1700.

The second volume buyer was William McIntire of Shelocta who purchased a total of nine quality animals. Keith "Sundance" Ruff was the pedigree- and bookkeeper and the auctioneer was Rod Loomis. The sale break-down was distributed as follows: 20 bred cows, $23,825, average $1250; 4 open heifers, $4,700, average $1175; 1 Confirmed Pregnancy, $2,500; 1 Embryo Package, $1,000; 4 bulls, $4,260, average $1065; 6 bred heifers, $11,300, average $1614.

A big "Thank-you" to all the buyers, the consigners, and to Lee and Linda Snyder for all their hard work to make this sale a success!

PJSA Elects Officers

The Pennsylvania Junior Simmental Association has announced new officers. They are: President, Robert Loposki; Vice-President, Jeremy Hay; Secretary: Kenly Jo Myers.

Joyce Stough was selected as the PJSA Queen. Other topics discussed at the meeting were the Fun Auction at the PSA Fall Sale and assisting the PSA ladies with food at the Fall Sale.

Congratulations new PJSA officers and queen! Thank-you to all PJSA members who attended the Field Day and those who helped to work in the refreshment stand. The next PJSA meeting will be held during the PA Beef Expo at Penn State in March 1992. We look forward to seeing many PJSA members at the PSA Fall Sale in Waynesburg on October 26, 1991. For more information about the PJSA, contact Barb Carlisle at (412) 948-3742.

Field Day Show

The Pennsylvania Junior Simmental Association held its annual Field Day Show recently. The show was in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Simmental Association and Pennsylvania Cattlemen Association Field Day held at Harvest Plantation in Franklin. Judging the junior show was Tom Whalen of NTW Livestock Services.

In the heifer competition, Joyce Stough captured the Grand Champion title with MF Miss Lightning Z91 bred by Messick Farms. The Reserve Champion heifer was shown by Derrick Carlisle of Claysville. Keith Carlisle took the Grand Champion Cow/Calf award with his entry and his brother Derrick followed by winning the Reserve Champion Cow/Calf award. Tim Bishop of Homer City won the Champion Steer award with his entry. The Reserve Champion Steer award was captured by Raymond Stough of Seven Valleys.

In intense showmanship competition, Joyce Stough returned to the winners' circle to capture the Grand Champion Senior Showmanship award, followed by Keith Carlisle as Reserve Champion Senior Showman. In equally difficult competition, Jessica Deets emerged as the Grand Champion Junior Showman with Derrick Carlisle winning the Reserve Champion Junior Showman. PJSA Queen Kenly Myers was present to distribute awards. Congratulations to all the PJSA members participating in the Field Day Show!

Second Annual PA Capital Futurity

The second annual Pennsylvania Capital Futurity will be held Saturday, October 5, 1991 at 12:30 p.m. during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. The Futurity show will be judged by a panel of three judges: Matt Claeys, Charles McPeake, and Steve Radakovich. A total of 52 head of cattle have been nominated for the show by member farms. The estimated purse is $5,000. Don't miss this opportunity to see some of Pennsylvania's finest Simmentals compete for big prizes. For more information, contact Lee or Linda Snyder at (814) 374-4731.

Keystone of Quality Fall Show, Sale

The Pennsylvania Simmental Association's annual Keystone of Quality Fall Show and Sale will be held Saturday, October 26, 1991, at the Greene County Fairgrounds in Waynesburg, PA. A pre-sale beef roast and fun auction will be held at the sale barn on Friday evening, October 25, at approximately 6:30 p.m. so that buyers can review the cattle at their leisure.

The show will be held Saturday morning on October 26 and the sale will be Saturday afternoon at 1:00. The sale manager is Stough Livestock Services. This year's sale offering promises to be the best yet. Approximately 75 lots will be sold including cows, bred heifers, open heifers, bulls, and steers -- many fine show prospects. For more information, contact Jim Cowell at (412) 627-8271 or Dave Stough at (517) 543-6670.

Paper Bedding Company Offers A Cost-Cutter

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — "Best In Bedding" has found a hi-tech answer to livestock bedding, fulfilling an exciting recycling dynamic.

Farmers suffering from drought and falling milk prices can benefit from months of research and feasibility studies.

Best in Bedding's precision cutters, side moving lines, and hi-tech conveyances allow them to deliver the purest, absolutely safest, absorbant, disease resistant, and efficient product.

Their facility, on a single line, can produce 120 bales per hour. All that remained was selecting the purest resource. At this juncture an alliance was formed with the Bell System to cut phone directories for a bedding paper source.

Farmers, by calling 1-800-BEDDING, can arrange instanty distribution of tonnage at 1/2 the cost of straw.

Daniel Picks Angus Champs In W. Va.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Angus breeders paraded 91 heifers and bulls before judge Randy Daniel, Colbert, Georgia, to compete for championships awarded at the 1991 West Virginia State Fair Angus Show in Lewisburg.

Among the heifer entries, grand champion laurels were given to the intermediate winner named Ridgecrofts Ms Jac Evera. The heifer is a June 1990 daughter of Jacs Hudson and is owned by Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Lamond III of Bluemont, Virginia.

The reserve grand champion heifer was Justafew Cindy Lou owned by William Walther, also of Bluemont. The heifer first topped the junior division and is an April 1990 daughter of R&J Spade 1204.

In bull competition, the senior division winner was judge Daniel's pick for grand champion. The April 1989 son of S A F Power Shaft 6021 is named Hill Crest Thistle. He is jointly owned by Susan Rucker, Delaplane, Virginia; G.T. Ward, Marshall, Virginia; and Mystic Hill Farm, Culpeper, Virginia.

The reserve grand champion bull was W R B Prime Time 180 owned by Roger Bowles, Kents Store, Virginia. The bull first topped the junior division and is a March 1990 son of Manhattan of Indian Creek.

Animal Group Takes Issue Over Book

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Pennsylvanians for the Responsible Use of Animals (PRUA), a group representing farmers, researchers and sportsmen, has taken issue with a children's book published by Random House.

The book, entitled "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles ABC's for a Better Planet" contains questionable information about agriculture and nutrition, according to Ken Brandt, executive vice president of PRUA.

In a letter to Jerry Harrison, vice president, juvenile division at Random House, Brandt said the book does include some good ideas for saving the planet but also dispenses some false and misleading information, particularly in the chapter headed "M is for Meat."

A sentence from that chapter states, "A lot of the world's cereal crop is fed to cattle, when it could be used to feed starving people instead." Brandt pointed out that 80 to 85 percent of the nutrients consumed by cattle come from non-grain sources — feedstuffs not edible to humans. These feedstuffs include grass, roughage, food processing by-products, and crop aftermath. Therefore, Brandt maintains, this sentence is very misleading for the young minds that will be exposed to the book.

Another misleading statement, Brandt said, is the sentence, "Cattle expel methane, a gas that makes the greenhouse effect worse." Brandt explained that beef cattle account for only one-half of one percent (0.5 percent) of the world's methane production.

PRUA's biggest complaint about the book, Brandt said, is that it tells kids to eat less meat and only meat from organically raised cattle. "This," said Brandt, "is irresponsible dietary advice.

"Leading health authorities note that children in particular need the vital nutrients — protein, iron, zinc and vitamin B-12 — that beef provides."

Additionally, Brandt said, a statement in the book that some animals are injected with artificial hormones to make them grow faster and that some of these hormones cause cancer gives the erroneous impression that organically raised beef is healthier because it does not contain hormones.

"Hormones are present in virtually all foods of either plant or animal origin.

Given the misinformation contained in the Ninja book, Brandt suggested that the next edition should contain the chapter "M is for Mythology."

The Pennsylvanians for the Responsible Use of Animals (PRUA), a consortium of agricultural, biomedical, and sporting groups and associations, is headquartered in Camp Hill.

CRP Participants Say They'll Use Land

ANKENY, Iowa — Nearly half of all respondents in a national survey of Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) participants said they already have plans for how they will use their CRP acres once the contracts begin to expire in 1995.

According to the survey, which was completed by the Soil and Water Conservation Society in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, more than half (51 percent) of the respondents with plans say they expect to leave the acres in grass for livestock forage or hay production, in trees, or in wildlife habitat. Another third said they will put their CRP acres back into crop production under an approved conservation compliance plan.

The survey, which was done over the past year, involved a random sample of more than 2,750 farm owners and operators who enrolled land in the CRP during the first nine sign-ups held from 1986 through 1990. Seventy-four percent of these farm owners and operators completed and returned the survey questionnaire.

The CRP was established in the 1985 farm bill as a means of encouraging farmers to retire highly erodible cropland from production. In return for an annual rental payment from the federal government over a period of 10 years, farmers agreed to establish and maintain a permanent, soil-conserving cover of grass or trees on the acres enrolled in the program.

During the first nine sign-ups, the nation's farmers enrolled 33,921,898 acres (333,392 contracts) in the program.

More than half (58 percent) of all respondents in the survey said that economic considerations would be the single most important factor in their decision to keep their CRP acres in a soil-conserving cover or to return those acres to crop production once the contracts expire. Market prices or government price supports for crops and costs of crop production were mentioned by respondents as the factors that would most influence their decision.

Another quarter (24 percent) of the respondents said life-style considerations would be the single most important factor influencing their land use decision, while 14 percent identified conservation as the most important factor.

Respondents offered a number of interesting reactions to a series of questions in the survey aimed at determining what incentives farmers might be willing to accept as a means of keeping their CRP acres out of cultivation beyond the 10 years covered by the existing contracts:

• About a third of all respondents said they were willing to extend their CRP contracts for either five years or 10 years at an annual rental rate lower than they now receive.

• Twelve percent of the respondents said they would be willing to plant trees on their CRP acres that do not now have trees, at their own expense, in return for a five-year contract extension at the current annual rental rate. A majority (58 percent) rejected this option, however.

• Nearly a fifth (18 percent) of the respondents said they would be interested in keeping their CRP acres in a soil-conserving cover beyond 10 years if those acres could be used to meet set-aside requirements under federal farm commodity programs. Two-fifths (40 percent) of the respondents rejected this option outright.

• Just over a quarter (27 percent) of the respondents said they would be willing to sell a permanent conservation easement to the government on their CRP acres. The easement would not allow haying or grazing on the acres, and the contract-holder would lose any commodity program base acreage involved. Nearly two-fifths (39 percent) of the respondents rejected this option, while the remaining 34 percent were unsure of it's acceptability.

• A second type of conservation easement that would allow haying and grazing produced an acceptance rate among respondents of 29 percent. About a third (36 percent) of the respondents were unwilling to accepted this form of easement, and another third (35 percent) were unsure of the easement's acceptability. Most farmers willing to sell a conservation easement to the government expressed a preference for an annual payment for that easement as opposed to an up-front, lump-sum payment.

• Slightly more than a tenth (13 percent) of the respondents said they would be willing to extend their CRP contract for five years, with no annual rental payment, if during the final two years of the initial 10-year contract the federal government would share half the cost of installing fence and developing a water supply so the CRP acres could be used for livestock grazing. About three-quarters (77 percent) of all respondents indicated in the survey that fencing would be required before the CRP acres could be grazed. Nearly half indicateci that development of a water supply would be needed.

• Half (50 percent) of the respondents said they were willing to plant a different vegetative cover on their CRP acres to improve wildlife habitat if the government provided cost-sharing for these new plantings.

The report concludes that many options or combinations of options exist for keeping highly erodible land out of cultivation beyond the 10 years covered by the existing contracts. A regionalized approach to use of these options might be justified, the report says.

There are many other innovative approaches that could be used to maintain at least a portion of the permanent vegetative cover established on the more fragile CRP acres and thus maximize returns on the public's $20 billion investment in the program, the report contends. For example, portions of whole fields now in the CRP might

USDA's N.Y. Researchers Work To Produce Cancer-Fighting Drug

WASHINGTON — U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists have begun fine-tuning their technique to produce the cancer-fighting drug taxol through tissue culture.

Currently the only source of taxol is the bark of the Pacific yew tree. But, an alternate taxol source was developed at USDA's Agricultural Research Service by inventors Donna Gibson, Alice Christen and John Bland.

Cells from yew bark are grown in a special laboratory culture, or "soup," to produce taxol on an experimental basis, Gibson said.

She is looking at taxol production within the entire Pacific yew tree, rather than only its bark, to determine which section of the tree is the best producer of the cancer-fighting drug.

"Once we determine the optimum conditions for production of the taxol-producing cells, it will give us clues on how to set up a fermentation process for commercial operations -- similar to growing bacteria to make penicillin," she said.

Gibson's taxol research started at the ARS Southern Regional Research Center in New Orleans but moved last year to the agency's Plant Protection Research Unit in Ithaca, N.Y.

ARS obtained a patent May 28 from the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office on producing taxol and taxol-like compounds in tissue culture, rather than from the yew's bark.

Phyton Catalytic Inc. of Ithaca has been granted an exclusive license to the ARS patent, said Ann Whitehead, the agency's patent coordinator in Beltsville, Md.

Congress passed the Stevenson-Wydler Act in 1981 to give federal agencies the right to grant exclusive licenses, Whitehead said, as an incentive to invest in the development and commercialization of federal research findings.

ARS published a public notice of intent to exclusively license the technology in the Aug. 21, 1990 Federal Register. Prior to the official notification, the agency marketed the taxol process through a variety of technology transfer steps.

Although numerous companies expressed interest in the technology, only three companies applied for a license. However, one of those companies withdrew its application, while a second was interested in the technology for research purposes only.

Phyton Catalytic was the only company to submit a detailed business plan to commercialize the research. A business plan is one element required in the 1981 law passed by Congress that allows the government to grant exclusive licenses to private industry.

ARS reviewed Phyton Catalytic's license application and determined that the Ithaca-based company's proposed plan would best serve the public in commercializing the taxol research.

The National Cancer Institute has described taxol as "one of the most important cancer drug discovered in the past decade." Preliminary results suggest a success rate of up to 35 percent in treating ovarian cancer.

"The drug companies we have talked to are very interested in our method," Gibson said. "They like it from an economical standpoint, because you don't have to grow a tree."

It takes 20,000 pounds of bark -- 2,000 to 4,000 trees -- to produce approximately one kilogram, or 2.2 pounds, of the drug.

ARS is cooperating with the National Institutes of Health, various universities and private industry on the development of new yew cell lines, including embryo, root and hairy root cultures, said Gibson.

Along with Ray Ketchum, a post-doctorate researcher at the Ithaca lab, Gibson will carry out research on new cell lines. Gibson said embryo cultures carry the genetic information of the Pacific yew. Hairy root cultures tend to grow fast and produce more secondary compounds such as taxol, while root cultures tend to be very stable, she said.

"There has been virtually no work on the genetics of taxol production," Gibson said. "This research will give us clues on what cell lines are high producers of taxol."

A California company recently announced that it had developed a way to produce taxol through tissue culture. And, researchers at the University of Florida have developed an unrelated way to produce taxol from the yew's needles, rather than its bark.

CRP Participants

remain in a protective cover as filter strips along streams and other water bodies, as grassed waterways and contour buffer strips within fields that revert to crop production, or a field borders and headlands in fields that are ultimately contoured and terraced to permit crop production.

Some technical and financial assistance to producers may be necessary to make these land uses acceptable, the report says, but such approaches should not be overlooked in any consideration of options to extend the conservation uses of CRP acres once the current contracts expire.

The report also suggests that some form of "worst-first" criterion might be used in deciding what CRP acres could or should be kept out of cultivation beyond the initial 10-year contract period. Contract-holders who control the most fragile CRP acres generally expressed a willingness to extend the existing 10-year contracts for a lower annual rental payment than they now receive.

Polled Hereford Registrations Post Year-End Increase

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — American Polled Hereford Association (APHA) fiscal year-end figures show a 5.5 percent increase in registrations over last year. Registrations increased to 76,497 while transfers posted a total of 36,955.

"Our members have accepted the challenge presented by our strategic long-range business plan," said APHA President Larry Heidebrecht. "A key challenge was to continue to meet the demand of the commercial industry with quality cattle in numbers, and Polled Hereford breeders have responded very positively."

Performance records submitted for breed improvement programs were up 10 percent in the weaning weight category. Records submitted totaled 51,975 for weaning weights, with nearly the same number of records submitted for birth weight analyses.

APHA members recording the most cattle for the year were Earl Vescovi, Roundup, Mont., with 687; Fowken Farm, Union, S.C., with 348; Journagan Ranch, Mountain Grove, Mo., with 304; Glenkirk Farms, Maysville, Mo., with 282; and Split Butte Ranch, Rupert, Idaho, with 276.

Top five states in registering Polled Herefords were Missouri, Texas, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Oklahoma. States recording the most new members were Texas, Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Illinois.

Farmers' Assn. Raises $4,000 For Fellow Bradford Farmer

WYALUSING (Bradford Co.) — The Bradford Sullivan County Farmers Association (BSCFA) held a fund raiser on Sunday, Sept. 22nd, which netted Hog Farmer Harvey Rogers $4000 in his 21-month right-to-farm struggle.

The BSCFA held a fund-raiser luncheon yesterday in Monroeton, Bradford County Pa, with over 450 donators in attendance. The amount collected for Hog Farmer Rogers' legal defense fund amounted to a little over $4000., which goes a long way to help defray legal costs which have reached the $12,000 mark. To date the 700-member county association has raised close to $10,000 to help preserve the Rogers' right-to-farm, which is being challenged by a out-of-state-neighbor, who claims that "odors" from the Rogers' facility makes his home uninhabitable.

"The fund-raiser could not have been a success without the support of the local farm and non-farm community" remarked county President, Troy Dairy farmer Milford Kinsman. Kinsaman contunues, "All our meat, dairy products, and potatoes were donated by in-county sources, such as Taylor Packing in Wyalusing, P & N Veal, Eastern Milk Producers, and Harris Farm market and Smecks Farm markets. Our local board also helped tremendously in distributing tickets and coordinating donations of food and many prizes that were awarded throughout the affair."

"The solidarity shown not only by farmers, but also the general public in attending this event warns those that Bradford County citizens will not tolerate frivolous lawsuits against anyone in the legal pursuit of their occupation," commented event organizer Frank Bertrand. Bertrand further noted that the lawsuit was filed in January of 1990, and now 21 months later rhere still is no trial date. "It's a shame that our efforts go to pay legal fees. I would much rather see our fund raising go to programs such as scholarships helping our members rather than to lawyers" Bertrand noted.

The County organization's next event will be its annual meeting on October 8th at the Wysox fire hall where policy for the coming year will be made, directors elected and awards presented to the helpers of agriculture in the county. This year marks the 40th anniversary of the County Farmers Association.

Dobrosky Directs Client Services

YORK (York Co.) — Anthony G. Dobrosky, retired York County extension agent, has been named director of client services for the Agri-Business Insurance Center (ABIC), a division of the Glatfelter Insurance Group, York, according to Walter R. Jeffers, ABIC president.

Dobrosky served 33 years as a county agtricultural agent for York County. His work included crop management, livestock production, 4-H activities, and agricultural preservation and community development.

In his new position, Dobrosky will work with farmers on the challenges of protecting their farm assets and developing a safety education program with farmers, agricultural groups, and businesses. His work will take him to farms aand farm groups in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York, New Jersey, Virginia, and Delaware.

Anthony G. Dobrosky

Dobrosky is a charter director of the York County Farmland Trust and serves as advisor to the York County Agriculture Preservation Board. He is nationally known as a coach for 4-H livestock and meats judging teams.

York county teams, under his coaching, have won numerous national awards and gained a reputation for being strong competitors on the national level. He was one of two county agents from the eastern United States selected for the National Beef Symposium near Miami, Fla. in 1982.

Dobrosky is a member of the Pennsylvania Association of County Agriculture Agents and will serve as president of the Pennsylvania Livestock Association during 1992. He has served with four federal state agencies, focusing on profitability and preservation of agriculture in York County. He is also a member of the Penn State York Campus Advisory Board and active in the Agricultural and Industrial Museum of York County.

Dobrosky graduated from Penn State University with a bachelor of science degree in animal husbandry in 1958 and earned a master of science degree in animal science from the same university in 1965.

Dobrosky can be contacted at the Agri-Business Insurance Center, 741-0911 or (800) 233-1957.

Westfalia Parallel Stalls Provide Complete Milk-Out

ELK GROVE VILLAGE, Ill. — Westfalia Systemat has begun to market their own parallel right angle stalls. After 65 years of experience in the dairying business, they've decided to make their own parallel stalls.

The stalls, made of 2-3/8-inch outer diameter schedule 40 galvaneal gator-shield tubing, are 29 inches on center. They have sequencing gates with positive stops to keep a cow from entering the wrong position.

Parallel stalls are considered to be the most efficient type of stall for the milking parlor, since the operator should be only one step away from each cow. Milking takes place between the cow's rear legs. The claw is balanced for the optimum milking position, providing a more complete milk-out.

Westfalia's parallel right-angle stalls can fit into an existing structure with a ceiling of 8 feet. A dairyman will be able to fit nearly twice as many stalls in an existing herringbone parlor.

The Westfalia stalls feature a fast exit system to make it even more efficient. All the cows are released at once and, as they exit, additional cows can be filling the stalls.

Westfalia parallel right-angle stalls made of 2-3/8-inch outer diameter schedule 40 galvaneal gator-shield tubing, are 29 inches on center. They have sequencing gates with positive stops to keep a cow from entering the wrong position.

A Record 98 Members Earn Atlantic Quality Award

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — A record 98 dairy farmers earned Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's 1991 Quality Premium Award by qualifying for the cooperative's quality milk bonus all 12 months of the 1990-1991 fiscal year.

"This tremendous showing attests to our cooperative's commitment of producing high quality milk," said Don M. Breiner, Atlantic's quality and field services manager. "We congratulate these members on their hard work in accomplishing this goal."

During the past fiscal year, which ended on July 31, Atlantic paid out $2.9 million in quality bonuses. On the average, 58.12 percent of the membership earned the extra payments, an increase of nearly 13 percent over the previous year.

The quality premium program, begun in 1987, provides a financial incentive to members to produce high quality milk. Members must meet a series of seven quality standards to obtain the bonus.

The premium itself is paid out on a two-tier level, with members qualifying at either the 10-cent or the 20-cent per hundredweight level. This year, 36.5 percent of members received the 10-cent bonus, and 21.6 percent earned the 20-cent premium.

The 98 award winners will receive a plaque during their local and district meetings this fall and next spring.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents 3,500 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

The award winners are as follows:

Eastern States Posts Jackpot Steer Winners

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — The Jackpot Steer competition held recently at The Big E was won by Mike Sinon, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Sinon took home a jackpot worth $432. He won the competition with a 1,220-pound medium weight crossbred steer.

Vernon J. Oatley, Exeter, R.I. placed second with a 1,185-pound lightweight Simmental/Angus steer. His share of the jackpot totaled $237.

The jackpot steer competition is unique in that, in addition to prize premium money, the grand champion and reserve grand champion share in the jackpot built by the exhibitors from fees figured at $25 times the number of steers entered in the show.

Seventy percent of the pot goes to the grand champion and thirty percent to the reserve grand champion.

By class, winners were lightweight, Vernon J. Oatley; medium weight, Mike Sinan; and heavyweight, Katie Alward, Granby, Conn. with a 1,285-pound Angus steer.

A special feature of competition was the awarding of a $500 check by the New England Polled Hereford Association for the Hereford steer iudqed the best of its breed in the show. To be eligible, the Hereford steer must have been purchased at the New England Beef Council Club annual calf sale and be brought to The Big E for showing and judging.

This year's winner was Joseph Pacyna, Bloomfield, Conn. His winning steer was bred of the University of Connecticut and sired by the 1991 national champion Hereford bull named Wisdom.

The show was judged by Randy Daniels, Colbert, Ga.

FREE YOURSELF FROM SPREADER CHAINS AND SAVE MONEY

The proven Hydra-Spread design can free you from the grief and maintenance of spreader apron chains for good!

This low maintenance spreader features solid poly boards both on the sides and the floor for slippery, no-stick performance. Hydraulic push power replaces the extensive mechanism needed in ordinary spreaders.'

Why pay more for yesterday's ideas and designs? The design of tomorrow is PRICED RIGHT and will be on the job for years. We deliver to your farm.

BEILER ENGINE SERVICE

This twin 20 hp is becoming very popular for hay balers and other applications traditionally equipped with 2 cylinder Wisc. engines and can also replace the older 4 cylinder engines on some applications.

This engine has been in use on hay balers for over 10 years and is doing a very good job. We can also mount Wisc. clutches or reductions on it for some applications. Fuel efficiency is very good.

Buy now while we still have this heavy duty engine. New model coming next year.

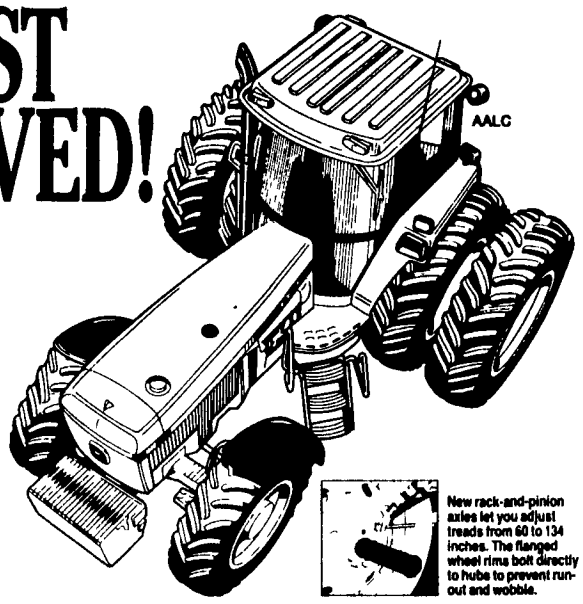
JUST ARRIVED!



The air filter is easier than ever to service. You can do it quickly without tools or lifting the hood.

New vertical oil filter on 7.6 L engines helps prevent spills for cleaner changes.

New rack-and-pinion axles let you adjust treads from 60 to 134 inches. The flanged wheel rims bolt directly to hubs to prevent run-out and wobble.

New John Deere 60 Series Tractors...

Now With NEW 5-YEAR/5000-HOUR WARRANTY

Come see us for all the details about the new John Deere 5-year/5000-HOUR warranty on all new 155- to 200-hp 60 Series Tractors. It's just the kind of coverage you've been asking for. And check out the new 60 Series Tractors. They too offer everything you've asked for. New rack-and-pinion wheels. Easier oil and air filter servicing. Improved sound quality inside the cab. Wider steps and platform for easier access. Better visibility. And more. Stop in today and see for yourself. And be sure to ask about the NEW 5-YEAR/5000-HOUR WARRANTY on all new 155- to 200-hp 60 Series Tractors.

JOHN DEERE

MAXIMIZER™ COMBINES DELIVER ON THEIR PROMISE. EVEN WHEN CONDITIONS AREN'T PROMISING

"Bigger capacity. Cleaner grain and more of it." That's what new-technology Maximizer combines promise. And they deliver in all harvest conditions—good, bad and indifferent.

Threshing capacity is thorough and gentle with a larger slower-speed cylinder and large concave area. Samples are cleaner, thanks to the Quadra-Flo™ system with its precleaner, four high velocity fans, chaffer and sieve.

Stop in. You'll see that the total feature combination, along with traditional John Deere reliability and dealer service, gives you more reason than ever to go Maximizer. That's a promise.

IN STOCK, READY TO GO! A MAXIMIZER WITH THE HORSEPOWER YOU NEED.

Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

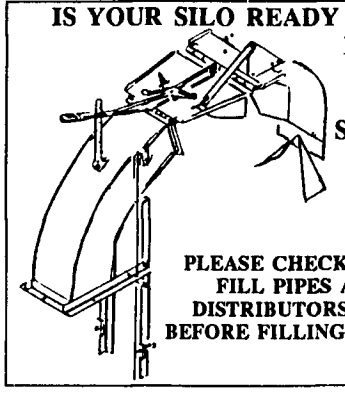
IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH CORN SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

If Your Silo Needs New Life...

Try Our Poly Silo Liners

-THE ADVANTAGE OF A POLY LINER-
- Spoilage is reduced around doors.
- Feed is exposed to less oxygen - better fermentation.
- Allows storage of high moisture grains or dry grains in a conventional silo.
- Delays repair or replacement of corroded silos.
- Prevents corrosive acids from contacting silo wall - extends silo life.
- Quick installation.
- Effectively seals silos from air and weather.

Ruff-Tuff Poly Silo Liners Are Designed to Work Well In Silos Without Unloaders
The Liners Are Manufactured To Fit Most Standard Diameter Silos.

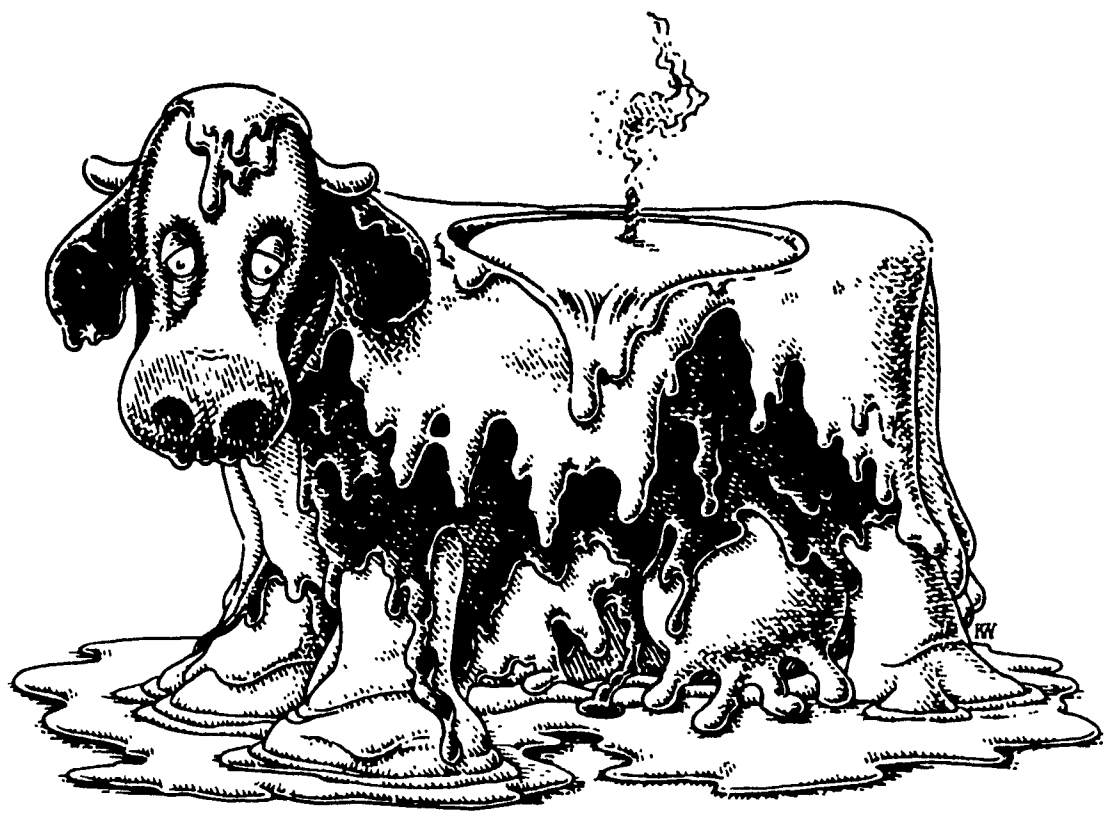
MAXI-TECH The End Of burned-out high performance cows



The special benefits of urea.

Research shows that when urea is added to a high fat milking ration rumen functions (as measured by acid balance, ammonia, and volatile fatty acids) are improved. That, of course, creates better ration efficiency. So, in addition to saving money by providing an economical non-plant protein, the urea in Maxi-Tech is making you money by increasing milk production. Urea also helps maintain normal milkfat levels.
